Sadat dampens optimism for Mideast accord

Moussa Juma'a — sole survivor of attack force

ASWAN, Egypt (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat predicted Saturday that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will have a "very hard round" in getting a new peace agreement between Egypt and Israel —harder and longer than last year.

Sadat and Kissinger met for over 4½ hours of talks in which informed sources said the Egyptian leader put forward specific ideas for Kissinger to take to Israel Sunday.

At a joint news conference afterwards, Sadat ruled out the direct pledge of non-belligerency that Israel is demanding for withdrawal from the Abu Rudeis oil fields and the strategic passes in the Sinai.

"If I am going to agree to a declaration of non-belligerence while one Israeli soldier is occupying my land, it is an official implicatcn for him to stay, an invitation I am not going to extend," Sadat said.

"I am always optimistic but I think we shall be having a very hard round this time."

He said the negotiations would be harder than the first stage military disengagement along the Suez Canal which he negotiated with Kissinger in January, 1974, and a new agreement would take longer than the week it took then.

Sitting beside Sadat under the glare of the television lights, Kissinger said, "The United States feels very strongly that another step is in the interest of all the peoples of the area and I believe that progress is possible."

Sadat said, however, that Kissinger's mission was "very important" both for defusing the explosive situation and for making progress toward peace.

He again expressed confidence in Kissinger and repeated his previous statement that for the first time in 26 years he believed peace was possible.

He indicated he would be in a better position to tell about the prospects of an agreement when Kissinger returns from Israel next week.

Attack on Tel Aviv meant to disrupt talks

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The only survivor of eight Arab guerrillas who attacked Tel Aviv's beachfront said Saturday the raid was designed to disrupt a possible peace agreement between Egypt and Israel.

Mussa Juma'a, born in Beersheba 23 years ago, said he and his seven comrades attacked the Savoy Hotel Wednesday night after sailing from Lebanon and spending three days at sea.

In a meeting with foreign newsmen, Juma'a was asked if the purpose of the raid was to blame Egypt and therefore obstruct Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Middle East peace mission.

"Yes," he replied. "We were asked to say, in case we were taken prisoner, that we came from Port Said."

Eighteen persons died in the attack, including Juma'a's seven guerrilla comrades.

Juma'a said the guerrillas originally planned to raid a youth club, take hostages and bargain for the release of guerrilla prisoners in Israel, including Greek Catholic Archbishop Hilarion Capucci, convicted of smuggling guerrilla arms from Lebanon.

Juma'a was interviewed along with three crew members of the captured 60-foot motor sailing vessel that dropped off the raiding party in rubber boats 30 miles west of Tel Aviv.

"The first thing we did on shore in Tel Aviv was shooting at parked cars and then we went to the building that you know of," he said.

"The target was not expressly this hotel, but we chose it," he said. "We shot at everybody who was in sight."

Juma'a said he was a member of Al Fatah guerrillas since 1970, trained in Syria and moved to Lebanon several months ago.

Hamid Nadin, 20, the Fatah coordinating man on the mother ship that dropped off the guerrilas, corroborated Juma'a's claim that the raid was designed to disrupt a possible military accord between Egypt and Israel.

He said that looking back on the operation, he had to consider it a mistaken, failed mission.

Operators accuse oil companies

Gasoline suddenly has flooded the U.S. market, sparking price wars in some areas, a UPI survey shows. What this price battle means to the American car driver is: know where to buy.

Brand name gas station operators accuse oil companies of putting them in a bind by forcing them to buy large supplies at artificially high prices while selling the surplus at cheaper prices to competing independents.

The retailers say oil companies, while publicly proclaiming conservation, are pressuring them to sell more gasoline by staying open at unprofitable hours.

The result, said one New Jersey station owner, is that the oil companies continue to get high profits for oil while stations are forced to sell at cost or below.

"The oil companies are not about to cut back their profits," he said.

"The market is loaded, it's glutted," said John O'Donnell, comptroller for the Pennyslvania Service Station Dealers Associaton.

"The oil companies are forcing dealers to stay open whether it's necessary or not and to lower their prices at the retail level to get more volume. Their thinking is not conservation but to increase their volume."

A Federal Energy Administration spokesman in New York said the agency has heard reports of company pressure to sell more "but we've found none" in monitoring activities.

"There's a surplus. Period," said an independent petroleum consultant, John Lichtblau. "This may straighten itself out. But we're in for a long period of gasoline surplus."

Lichtblau said refineries are running at 80 to 85 per cent of capacity compared with the normal 95 per cent.

The surplus was created in part because motorists have cut down gasoline consumption at a time when worldwide production remained stable. The American Petroleum Institute says gasoline stocks are 10 per cent higher than they were a year ago.

The UPI survey showed a wide variation of pump prices throughout the nation with regular gasoline selling for as little as 43 cents a gallon and as high as 57 cents. Regular hit a "freak low" of 41.9 in Minnesota this week.

Some dealers accused the oil companies of keeping prices high at franchise stations and selling surplus gasoline to independents who then undercut prices of major brand stations.

L.V. College trustees okay $7 million budget

La Verne College trustees approved a $7 million budget for 1975-76 at their semiannual meeting Saturday that is $2.6 million higher than last year.

Two new trustees—Owen Lewis and Jay Rodriquez — were named to the board also, making a total of 39 members on the panel.

Lewis is a former La Verne mayor and councilman, and Rodriquez is in charge of publicity at KNBC television and is a former Progress-Bulletin advertising salesman.

Lewis is the current chairman of the Los Angeles County Regional Planning Commission and is a past president of San Dimas Chamber of Commerce. He is a mortgage broker with Lewis-Wheeler of Pomona.

College President Leland Newcomer blamed inflation and the cost of certain programs for what he admitted was a "tremendous increase" in the total budget for next year.

Newcomer explained, however, that expenditures and income data for all programs and services was not included in last year's budget, resulting in some changes this year.

For example, he said the PREP program (Pre-Discharge Educational Program) for servicemen was not listed in expenditures last year. This one program increases the size of the 1975-76 budget by about $1 million.

Trustees also re-elected all the current officers of the board, headed by Mary E. La Fetra, president. Ben Hepner is first vice president, Elvin Wilson second vice president and Howard Beckner, secretary.

Harper Brubaker, D. Welty Lefever, and Armen Sarafian were re-elected to three-year terms on the board.

Al least 19 die as embankment falls on building

SEOUL (UPI) — A huge cement embankment apparently loosened by warm spring weather collapsed and fell on top of a dormitory early today, causing heavy casualties.

Police said 19 persons, mostly girls, were confirmed killed.

The incident occurred at about 2:50 a.m. when an embankment 22 feet high and 40 yards long collapsed and struck a dormitory below the Jungpung Wig Co. in the southern part of Seoul. Company employes were housed there.

Vaudeville, film comedy star Ben Blue dies at 73

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Ben Blue, the poker-faced vaudevillian who gave millions enjoyment from the days of music halls through four decades of movies, died Friday night at the age of 73.

Blue died at Westlake Hospital. Services were scheduled for Hillside Memorial Park Chapel in Los Angeles Monday afternoon.

Blue, using a straw hat and cane as a trademark, mastered the art of mime and remained always an exponent of disciplined vaudeville comedy.

A native of Montreal, Blue began his show business career at the age of 15 as a chorus boy in George M. Cohan's production of "Irene." He then clowned his way through numerous two reel comedies, drew top salaries on the night club circuit and was a regular featured performer on television in its early days.

Blue married Axie Dunlap, a one-time George White Scandals girl, in 1941. He is survived by his widow and two sons, tom and Robert of Los Angeles. He had divorced his first wife, Mary, in 1937. He had a daughter, Jean, by that marriage.

How did Sheikh Ahmad Z. Yamani's 1972 decision affect everyone worldwide?

Area businessman beaten, robbed by pair of gunmen

The owner of an Ontario business was beaten, bound and gagged, and robbed of $1,632 in cash, a $1,200 watch and a $2,500 diamond ring Saturday morning, police reported.

Walter Marquette owner of Truckadyne at 1624 Holt Ave., Ontario, recounted for police how two Negroes, both in their 20s, slipped through a back door, with one holding a gun to the back of Marquette's head.

He explained that when he told the robbers he had no money, one hit him on the back of the head. Later he was hit on the shoulder with a closed fist, and slugged in the stomach.

As he was holding a handkerchief to his bleeding head, the robbers ordered him into the back office, Marquette said. The robbers pulled telephone cords from the walls, a cord off an adding machine, and another off a television set and bound his hands and feet and stuffed Marquette's handkerchief into his mouth.

Marquette said it took him quite a while to free himself of his bonds.

The robbers had ordered Marquette to empty out his pockets where they found the cash. They also took Marquette's ring and watch.

Sun will shine for the '500'

Sunny skies were expected today for the running of the California 500 in Ontario after a storm left a little more than an inch of rain in the area Saturday.

A storm moved into the area Friday night, and heavy showers fell during the night and throughout the day Saturday.

The storm was of no benefit to the Snow Crest Lodge at Mt. Baldy where owner Earl Adams reported that drizzles fell throughout the day.

Adams said that the southwest winds were keeping temperatures at about 36 degrees, too warm for snow, and that the area has received only two feet of snow this winter, compared to seven feet at this time last year.

He said it was more like a tropical storm.

Market is robbed

Two armed bandits robbed a Diamond Bar supermarket of $600 in cash Saturday night, sheriff's deputies said.

The pair, described in their mid-20s, of medium height and build with dark hair and dark clothing, showed a blue steel revolver to a clerk at Alpha Beta Market, 2825 Diamond Bar Blvd. about 7:30 p.m. Deputies said they escaped by car.

Meat preservative poisonous

Death in a salt shaker

CHICAGO (UPI) — Police believe a saltshaker containing a meat preservative brought death to a South Side neighborhood. The toll Saturday stood at three dead and five others hospitalized, four in critical condition.

The eight lived on the 7400 block of South Emerald and were believed to be victims of sodium nitrite poisoning from a salt shaker which had been passed around the neighborhood after the death of its owner.

Sodium nitrite produces the symptoms of shortness of breath, low blood pressure, vomiting and a blue coloration about the extremities.

Dr. Marshall Segal, chief of emergency medicine at St. Bernard's Hospital said sodium nitrite poisoning is "rather unusual" but instances had been reported previously.

Segal said an account by Burton Roueche entitled "Eleven Blue Men" described the deaths of 11 men who were brought into a New York Hospital in 1944. All were bluish and were found to have been poisoned by salting oat meal with sodium nitrite.

The salt shaker had been passed around the Chicago neighborhood after the death of its owner, Mrs. Charlie Mae Edwards. It was found to contain sodium nitrate, a preservative used in the pickling of meats. Sodium nitrate can change into sodium nitrite, medical authorities said.

Police said Mrs. Edwards, 48, was stricken Feb. 7 and pronounced dead on arrival at Englewood Hospital. A daughter told police she suspected a salt substitute caused Mrs. Edwards' death. She threw the substitute away but not the salt shaker.

The second victim was a neighbor, Mrs. Janet Hoy, 40, who borrowed the salt shaker. She was pronounced dead last Sunday at St. Bernard's.

Last Wednesday, three roomers at the Hoy house were stricken. Joseph Cline, 70, was dead on arrival at the hospital. Frank Budnick, 79, and George Yokavich, 72, were listed in critical condition.

Hostile crowd boos Brown at jobless rally

THEY WANT JOBS

Angry demonstrators listen to Governor Brown and other speakers at a rally in Sacramento Saturday. The rally was called by organized labor to demand more jobs for the state's unemployed.

Governor accuses savings and loans

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., encountering the most hostile crowd since his election, told an unemployment rally Saturday that the savings and loan industry is trying to "torpedo" $450 million housing legislation.

Brown's voice was almost drowned out by boos as he spoke on the steps of the Capitol. But after his brief speech, he plunged into the crowd to shake hands with demonstrators who had marched about eight blocks to the Capitol.

The governor said the legislation to create a state housing finance agency to administer the low interest loans to low and middle income persons would create "thousands of jobs."

But, he said, "lobbyists (for the savings and loan industry) now are walking the halls of the Capitol trying to topedo the bill."

Brown appeared halt an hour earlier than scheduled. As he spoke rain fell on the approximately 900 protestors. The rally was called by organized labor to demand more jobs for the unemployed.

Raising his voice into the microphone to make himself heard over the din of the crowd, Brown accused the loan industry of having an "inordinate appetite for profits...they want the profit, but not the risk."

As he spoke there was a mixture of applause and boos. Several shouted: "Respect the man, let him speak."

One auto worker yelled: "I can't live on $90 a week."

Brown answered: "We've got to create jobs and I hope you're going to help me. It's going to take a lot of work."

Brown told newsmen the hostility of the crowd "is an indication that people are dissatisifed. I hope that we can use that political energy." He said the crowd was the most hostile since his election Nov. 5.

Kitty Kelly, a subsitute teacher in San Francisco, got into shouting match about the finacial situation of the San Francisco school district.

Miss Kelly asked Brown why he opposed legislation to pump $80 million in the schools to flight inflationary costs.

Brown said: "There are not a lot of cookies in the jar. If we increase people's expectation in a false way, you're going to have a problem."

"I think the $80 million would do a hell of a lot," Miss Kelly retorted.

Democratic U.S. Sen. John V. Tunney, who is up for reelection next year, received mixed applause and hoots when he was introduced to the rally by John Henning, chief of the California Labor Federation, AFL-CIO.

Tunney, who at one point raised his voice to make himself heard, told the workers that Congress in the next month must "pass at least a $30 billion tax rebate to kick this economy in the rear end and get it going again."

"Now, you're saying something," a hard-hatted laborer called out to Tunney. "Now, I hear you."

Tunney continued, "Another thing we can do, we can release $19 billion in impounded funds, money that is ready for construction to put construction workers back to work again."

All it requires, he said, is for President Ford to issue the order.

"We've got to make the President understand that he can't listen to the "Four Horsemen of the Economic Apocalypse —the Butzes, the Simones, the Greenspans, the Burnses —he can't listen to them," Tunney said. "He's got to listen to the working men and women of America."

Reagan avoids conflict with Ford in GOP speech

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ronald Reagan told more than 2,000 delegates to a party-building conference Saturday that the GOP can be revivied only if it stands fast behind the principles that gave it a national election landslide in 1972.

Speaking at the windup of the Republican National Committee's two-day leadership conference, Reagan avoided direct conflict with President Ford's Friday night appeal to build the party with a "tent" that would cover voters in a broad range of opinions.

But the former California governor made clear his belief that Republicans could not expect to succeed by aping the Democrats.

"No one can quarrel with the idea that a political party hopes it can attract a wide following, but does it do this by forsaking its basic beliefs, by blurring its image so as to be indistinguishable from the opposing party?" he asked.

"Does any Republican seriously believe that any Democrats that subscribe to the profligacy, the big government policies of the present Democratic leadership, will be won over to our side if we say these are our policies too?"

He said Republicans must broaden their base —"just as we broadened it in 1972," Reagan said.

Reagan did not utter the name Richard Nixon in his speech, but said of the former president's victory three years ago, "in the 1972 election we had a new majority —a long overdue realignment based not on party labels but on basic philosophies."

"The tragedy of Watergate and the traumatic experiences following it have obscured the meaning of the 1972 election but the mandate still remains. The people are unchanged philosophically. We must make them see that what we stand for is akin to their own hopes and dreams of what this country can and should be," Reagan said.

"A political party can not be all things to all people. It cannot compromise its fundamental beliefs for political expediency or simply to swell its numbers."

Unlike most other GOP leaders that spoke at the conference, Reagan did not mention Ford or call for support of his leadership and he appeared to be taking at least a back hand slap at the administration policies when he said:

"If we give up in the fight against inflation and turn to fighting recession, we'll go right back to the inflationary spiral and eventual destruction of our system. Only by enduring a market adjustment —a recession if you will —can we stop inflation and restore the stability of the dollar.

"Inflation has one cause and one cause only, government spending more than government takes in. And there is one answer and one answer only: a balanced budget."

AT&T hikes most of its long distance call rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Telephone and Telegraph Corporation has filed new interstate long distancerate tarrifs with the Federal Communication Commission.

An AT&T spokesman said the new rates will become effective 12:01 a.m. Sunday and will mean increased charges for about two thirds of out-of-state calls and reductions for the other third.

According to the spokesman, the commission last week authorized AT&T to file the rates designed to increase its annual revenues by $365 million. The commission rejected a plan filed in January to increase revenues by $717 million and said it would hold hearings to examine AT&T's cost of equity and overall rate of return, and to determine if additonal rate relief is required.

The new rates feature a one-minute minimum charging period (reduced from three minutes) for customer-dialed calls, and discounts of 35 to 60 per cent for calls dialed during evening and night and weekend periods. These features mean, for example, that a call can be dialed from coast to coast for as little as 22 cents, the spokesman said.

Citizens committee to select a name

The Chino Citizens Committee, the group originally formed to request federal Community Development Act funds for the city's Barrio area, will hold a public meeting Monday at 6:30 p.m. in the Community Building.

Topic for the meeting will be selection of a permanent name for the committee, according to Mrs. Rebecca Esparza, committee spokesman. Although public discussion at the City Council level has ended over the federal funds, "we intend to continue the committee," she said.

Gives up fight to call them drugs

FDA to legalize vitamins

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A U.S. Food and Drug Administration official revealed Saturday the agency will immediately proceed to legalize high potency vitamin tablets such as Vitamin C, A and D.

Attorney Jay Geller said the agency, which had sought for the last three years to classify such megavitamins as "drugs" but lost on a court challenge, has since decided not to continue to fight the issue.

Geller revealed the agency's turnaround during a speech before the Stanford Day College on Nutrition and Health. He said constraints on the new megavitamins would be limited only by toxicity concerns.

Pauling criticized the FDA for ignoring his and other eminent scientists research and findings showing massive doses of vitamin C not only prevent and cure the common cold, but more importantly bolsters immunity to viruses and strengthens tissues that break down, causing other diseases.

"Vitamin C bolsters all vital mechanisms in the body," Pauling declared, challenging the FDA and any other scientific doubters to prove him wrong.

He cited statistics from tests dating back one year to 25 years in which massive doses of Vitamin C were administered to cure hepatitis, reduce the progression of arthritis, increase the recovery from anasthesia, and in very early tests, seemed to help terminal cancer patients.

Pauling, among others, sued the FDA over its attempts to classify megavitamin tablets as drugs. He saw the refusal by the courts to restrict the levels of vitamins present in a multivitamin supplement as "without foundation."

Geller countered that the FDA is faced with a twofold problem on such issues.

"On one hand, we face certain manufacturers who intentionally mislead the public about what we are trying to do in an effort to overturn our regulations so they may be free to continue to sell products which have no minimum requirements," he said.

"On the other hand, we face disagreements with eminent men of integrity, such as Dr. Pauling, who may disagree with us. But we are earnestly trying to follow the consensus of informed scientific opinion on these issues."

Golden Hinde blown into S.F. Bay ending five-month cruise

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Blustery winds drove the Golden Hinde II, replica of Sir Francis Drake's 16th Century galleon, into San Francisco Bay Saturday to end a five-month voyage from Plymouth, England.

The square rigger under full sail passed under the Golden Gate Bridge propelled by 20 mile-per-hour winds and swiftmoving, 10-foot swells. The vessel had been blown 100 miles off course and had been expected to enter the bay today.

The Hinde was surrounded by a cluster of sailboats and power cruisers which had been on the bay. The ship was dwarfed by a giant Russian freighter that passed under the bridge just ahead of her.

Adrian Small, the ship's master, asked that cigarettes and beer be brought aboard by the Customs boat for his weary 15-man crew. Welcoming ceremonies will be held Sunday, at which time the Hinde will dock near Fisherman's Wharf.

46% approve of marijuana

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The National Drug Abuse Council announced Friday that a survey in California showed 46 per cent of 1,000 adults polled favored decriminilization of possession of small amounts of marijuana.

The survey, commissioned with Field Research Corp., San Francisco, entailed contacting a broad cross-section of residents in all age groups from all sectors of the state, the independent national organization said.

RECIPIENT AND DONOR

Police officer William Cantirino gives "okay" gesture as he is wheeled to surgery to receive a kidney from slaying victim Danny Sulsona (right). Case has touched off a major legal battle.

'Uncompromising' coroner files suit

Legal row in kidney transplant

NEW YORK (UPI) — Surgeons at Jacobi Hospital defied a medical examiner Friday and removed the kidneys from a 23-year-old shooting victim so the organs could be transplanted to two kidney patients.

The medical examiner wanted to perform an autopsy on the victim's body so prosecutors could establish that he was murdered, but the doctors said an autopsy would render the kidneys useless and refused to allow it.

The dispute has sparked a battle between city hospital officials and the medical examiner on the legal definition of death.

The medical examiner took the doctors to court, and a judge has set a hearing for Wednesday. The hearing could establish a new legal definition of death.

The case began Wednesday night when Danny Sulsona was shot in the head near his home in the Bronx by an unknown assailant.

Taken to Jacobi Hospital, Sulsona showed no evidence of brain activity. By medical definition, the doctors said, the youth was dead.

But Sulsona's heart continued to beat with the aid of a heartlung machine and under current New York state law, he was officially still alive.

Dr. Dominick J. DiMaio, acting chief medical examiner, objected to the removal of Sulsona's kidneys. He said that because Sulsona was the apparent victim of a homicide, he needed the body intact for an autopsy, and warned the operation could help the defense in a murder trial.

Autopsies usually require more than the critical 20 minutes needed to extract the kidneys from the donor.

"The problem is cause of death," DiMaio said, "and I'm the only one who can determine —not the doctors at the hospital.

Surgeons, however, defied DiMaio and when Sulsona's heart stopped beating at 6:40 a.m. Friday, they immediately removed his kidneys.

In the resulting uproar, hospital officials accused DiMaio of an uncompromising attitude in refusing to allow kidney transplants from homicide victims.

$2 million already amassed for '76 political campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — National political candidates and political fundraising groups have already amassed $29.2 million in potential 1976 campaign money, a political study group reported Saturday.

Based on official campaign funding figures, the report showed Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, had the most ready cash of any candidate for any national office —$932,772 as of Dec. 31, 1974.

But the largest single block of political cash belonged to "committees which supported Richard Nixon", which reported they still hold $1.6 million cash on hand offset by $361,327 in debts. The report did not further identify the committees.

The figures were tabulated by the National Information Center on Political Finance from official reports filed with the Clerk of the House, the Secretary of the Senate and the Comptroller General. Its study covered more than 50 candidates with funds of more than $25,000.

The report said the $20,211,509 "cash on hand grand total" broke down this way as of Dec. 31:

—National candidates and their personal political committees held $9,650,057.

—Special interest political committees held $9,089,445.

The largest individual contribution—$30,000—was made by William Clay Ford of the automobile family to former Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, who is engaged in a low-key campaign as an independent candidate for president in 1976. McCarthy currently has only $19,184 on hand, according to the report.

After Jackson, the report showed Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, led presidential candidates with $632,952 cash on hand. Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace was third with $198,364.

Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., the first major candidate to declare himself in contention for the Democratic presidential nomination reported only $8,465 cash on hand.

The survey said Senate candidates and their committees have received $1,880,823. Sen. Edward Brooke, D-Mass., topped the list with $368,489.

House candidates and committee reported holding $3,940,473. The largest campaign fund was reported on behalf of Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., who has received $102,364.

Other large individual contributors included Arnold Picker, former Vice President of United Artists, who donated $19,000 to Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, and $3,000 to Jacksona; and arts patron David Lloyd Kreeger of Washington, D.C. who contributed $3,000 to Jackson and $500 to an "exploratory committee" representing Sen. Charles Percy, Ill.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., received $1,856.77 and Jackson $3,000 from Joseph Robbie, owner of the Miami Dolphins.

The Center, sponsored by the Citizen's Research Foundation of Princeton, N.J., said it compiled the data on major campaigns "to encourage more widespread knowledge of campaign financing, not only in an election year, but whenever funds are handled by candidates for public office."

L.A. city attorney flays EPA for granting auto makers more time

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The City Attorney's office Saturday said Southern Californians were "betrayed" by the federal Environmental Protection Agency's newly announced plans to grant auto makers a delay in meeting auto emission standards.

In a letter to EPA administrator Russell Train, City Attorney Burt Pines expressed "great disappointment" with the new policy.

Train announced Wednesday the EPA will grant a one-year extension to auto makers for meeting the federal smog standards, which were originally scheduled to go into effect in 1977. Train said he took the action because of new pollution dangers posed by sulfur emissions from catalytic converters, the anti-smog devices.

"The people of Los Angeles, and the nation, have looked to the Environmental Protection Agency for leadership in the struggle for clean air," said Pines. "Many feel betrayed by your unexpected reversal of position."

Pines said that the catalytic converters are needed on cars in Los Angeles to protect the public health. He urged the EPA to continue to use the catalysts while working to develop desulfurized gasoline.

"We are committed, with or without your assistance, to continue to fight to obtain for Los Angeles —an area heavily dependent upon the automobile —access to the clean operating cars essential for improved air quality," Pines said in the letter.

"Our nation's clean air program has been plagued by indecisiveness and vacillation," Pines said. "It's about time that the auto industry has the burden of proving that it cannot meet clear air standards, rather than placing the serious health and economic burden of degraded air quality on the public."

EPA assistnt administrator Roger Strelow told a Los Angeles news conference Friday Train's decision does not mean California has to reduce its state pollution standards. The state Air Resources Board can still maintain stringent standards for hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions, even requiring the converters, Strelow said.

"We are expressly avoiding coming out to California to counsel them on what they should do," Strelow said.

The EPA will probably grant the state any waiver it seeks from federal smog guidelines, Strelow said.

MIGHTY ARCHES FROM TOOTHPICKS GROW

School district personnel switches

Pomona Schools Supt. Robert E. Wentz will recommend to the school board Tuesday that Lynn Rountree be named to succeed Garrett C. Nichols as assistant superintendent of business services.

Rountree, assistant superintendent of personnel services, has held that position since 1966. Except for a two-year period as superintendent of schools in Dixon, he has been with Pomona public schools since about 1946.

Wentz also is recommending that Rountree's job not be filled, but rather that the position of director of personnel, eliminated for 1975-76 by board action on Feb. 11, be reinstated.

Wentz said a savings of $2,500 would be realized next year by eliminating an assistant superintendency rather than a directorship.

Rountree will ask the board to approve the elimination of 67 jobs in addition to the 107 cuts Feb. 11, for next year.

Rountree will recommend that Ernest E. Polster, dean of students at Ganesha High School, be promoted to adult school program assistant effective March 17, at an annual salary of $21,483. Polster has been in the district since 1958.

Rountree will recommend that Ganesha's director of student activities Phillip D. Kauble be named temporary dean of students to serve from March 17 through June 30, and that Ganesha language arts teacher David A. Walker be named temporary director of student activities for the same period.

Rountree is recommending that Charles W. Sanders, dean of students at Pomona High School, be named temporary assistant principal recplacing Ian Button who resigned, and that Anthony Rose, a math teacher at Pomona High, be named temporary dean of students.

The school board meets at 7:30 p.m. in the Educatin Center board room at 800 S. Garey Ave. Regular school board meetings are open to the public.

Week long art festival at Walnut High School

Walnut High School's Fine Arts Department will present its annual fine arts festival Monday through next Saturday under the direction of department chairman Donn C. Morris.

Members of the community are invited to visit the campus and share the artistic, musical and dramatic talents of the students, Morris said.

On Monday and Tuesday, drawings, paintings, sculptures, macrame and ceramics will be exhibited in the display room and on the mall.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, student-made films will be shown during lunch periods in Room G-1.

Tuesday at 8 p.m. a band and choral concert will be presented in the multipurpose room. Admission will be free.

Wednesday, a "Company of Wayward Saints," will be performed in the campus Corral by drama students. The stage band and Chamber Singers will perform during an assembly Thursday.

On Friday, there will be an assembly featuring a lighting and mime show. A Frisbee contest also is planned Friday.

The Vocal Music Department will present a spring fashion show titled "Love Unlimited" on Saturday, beginning with a luncheon at 11 a.m. It will be held in the Suzanne Intermediate School multipurpose room. Cost of $1.50.

Dean Preska leaves LVC

MARGARET R. PRESKA

Margaret R. Preska, dean of undergraduate programs and services at La Verne College, has accepted the position of vice president of academic affairs at Mankato State College in Mankato, Minn.

Her resignation, effective March 22 from La Verne was accepted by the board Saturday. She will assume duties of her new position late this month.

Mrs. Preska has been associated with La Verne College since 1968. She was on the history faculty before going into administration. She has served as chairman of the faculty.

She taught history at Pomona Catholic High Schol in 1964-65, and prior to that taught kindergarten in Pomona public school and was a speech instructor at Pennsylvania State University.

Mrs. Preska received her Ph.D. from Claremont Graduate School, her M.S. from Pennsylvania State and her B.S. from the State University of New York.

Mrs. Preska has been a Pomona resident since 1959. She and her husband, Daniel, are parents of three children, Robert, William and Ellen Louise.

She made an unsuccessful bid for a Pomona City Council seat in 1971.

Mankato State College is the largest of the seven Minnesota State Colleges with an enrollment of 12,500 and a faculty of 520. It was founded in 1867.

Fire training facility

Pomona City Council will consider adopting plans for the city's new fire station and fire training facility Monday night.

The station, to be located south of Temple Avenue adjacent to San Jose Creek in the city's westerly industrial zone, is estimated as a $600,000 project.

Councilmen will be asked to approve plans and a call for bids by next month.

In other business, the council will consider adoption of the Valley Association of Cities' Homestead Ordinance for use in Pomona.

Basically, the ordinance calls for a purchase price of $2,000 on homesteaded abandoned homes, and requires the buyer-occupant to rehabilitate the structure within 18 months.

Councilmen also will consider the designation of two new redevelopment survey areas. The first area is the Indian Hill and East Holt Boulevard commercial areas. The second area to be considered is the industrial area along South Reservoir Avenue.

CURE formed

Seven area community service agencies have combined their manpower and job development efforts to form a new organization called CURE.

LeBron explained that each of the participating agencies will continue its manpower program, with CURE acting as a community-wide coordinator for those efforts.

Other agencies involved are the Mexican American Opportunity Foundation, the Neighborhood Adult Participation Program, the League of United Latin American Citizens, Open Choices, and the Beta Center, all in Pomona, and the Mexican American Urban Coalition in La Verne.

For information, persons may call 623-8602 or 623-8603.

Air Casa Colina program

Casa Colina Hospital's Chronic Back Management program will be featured on Medix television program today at 3:30 p.m. over KNXT, Channel 2.

The Medix series is sponsored by the Los Angeles County Medical Association.

The Pomona hospital's new program for patients who have been disabled by back pain has drawn national attention because of the unusual rate of success experienced by the patients undergoing treatment.

Special council meeting

Upland City Council has scheduled a special meeting Monday at 5:15 p.m. in the council chambers.

Mayor Abner B. Haldeman called the meeting for final zoning approval of two parcels of land located on the south side of 21st Street west of San Antonio Avenue some 730 feet.

A specialk meeting of the Architectural Commission of the City of Upland has been called for 8 a.m. Wednesday in the City Hall Council Chambers.

To be considered at this meeting is the improvement of Upland's present street name sign, according to Thomas D. Harris, chairman of the commission.

Ireland Damien fashion lunch theme

"An Afternoon in Ireland" will be the theme of the annual fashion show and luncheon of Damien High School to be held March 15 at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel.

Maureen Johnston is coordinator of the annual fundraiser of St. Monica's Guild for the La Verne school.

Fashions by several of Ireland's foremost designers will range from casual sports attire to evening ensembles. Pauline O'Brien a Pacific Pauline O'Brien, a Pacific Southwest representative of the Irish Tourist Board, will produce and narrate the show.

Members and guests of the guild will convene for the social hour at 11:30 a.m. with the luncheon to be served at 12:30 p.m.

Greeting guests will be Alice Fahey, guild president; the Rev. Martin O'Loghlen, Damien principal; and the Rev. Edward Casey, guild moderator.

Bus transportation from Damien will be available for a nominal fee. Fran Wilkinson is transportation chairman. Reservations are necessary and can be made by contacting Mrs. Wilkinson at 626-7190.

Among those assisting Mrs. Johnston in planning the event are Lorraine Schiro; Patricia Nielsen, Harriet McNulty, Barbara Rose and Sandy Bartman.

All proceeds from the event will benefit the educational facilities and program at Damien High School.

THE PLANNERS — Dora Lopez, Bridget Keneally and Loretta Wheaton, from left, examine genuine Beleek vases to adorn tables at the annual fashion show and luncheon of Damien High School's St. Monica Guild March 15. The trio are among the planners of the affair to be held at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel, beginning at 11:30 a.m. Reservations are necessary for the fund raiser.

By ROBERT D. LURATI

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — life to showing children, parents and teachers how to build their own playgrounds because the ones he used as a youth were unimaginative and sterile.

"I had a heck of a time in grammar school," Beckwith said. "The playgrounds were awkward and atrocious."

The stereotype layouts of asphalt, slides, sandboxes and swings failed to generate fun, he said, and they were unsafe.

Beckwith, 34, who has now designed and directed the building of more than 50 do-it-yourself playgrounds, said they should be a community effort reflecting the needs of the children of the school and neighborhood. And, he added, everyone should chip in and work.

He said he informs concerned groups on how they can get the material without spending a lot of money. He points out how government money is available for such projects, how old and discarded material can be used and how merchants can be urged to donate useful objects.

Such materials as scrap metal and old inner tubes are easily adaptable to playground construction, he said.

PLAYGROUND ARCHITECT JAY BECKWITH

Before any work is started, he said, he meets with the children, their parents and school officials. And, he said, "it's important to pick up the intuitiveness of the children."

"The kids may first want a teepee type of playground," he said, "but as they talk about it, their thoughts drift to something else, but the final product is usually just what they wanted."

And his playgrounds are safe, he said. No one has ever suffered a serious injury while using one, he added.

Beckwith has orchestrated do-it-yourself playgrounds for the San Francisco Recreation and Park Department, San Francisco Unified School District, the child study center at San Francisco State University, Marin Child Care Center in Marin City and Fremont School in Salinas.

The projects are the responsibility of everyone, he said in interview on the release of his book, "Build Your Own Playground" published by the San Francisco Book Co., and Houghton Mifflin.

Government agencies sometimes worry about children being injured during the construction, he said, but he has never had anyone hurt during the work.

"Kids are less likely to be careless while building their own things," Beckwith said. And, he added, the parents skilled in construction often teach their children how to use tools properly.

Beckwith also said his playgrounds cut down on school and park vandalism. "The kids take good care of what they built themselves," he said.

"Sometimes kids throw paint on the projects in acts of mischief only to find that this enhances the project itself with the colorful splashes."

Another bonus for the do-it-yourself playground is that school districts save money.

For example, he said, it costs about $3,000 for his average playground and the same facility, if built by a contractor, would cost 10 times that amount. He added a metal swing set commercially built for four riders now costs between $2,000 and $3,000.

"Probably the most important reason for the people of a community to fashion their own play spaces, however, is the investment their work represents," he said.

"The value of the playground to both children and adults increases in proportion to their involvement in its creation. And the playground improves the common space of a community because it reflects the unique personality of the people who live there, and it is tangible evidence of their belief in themselves.

Melody used again

In 1917, Irving Berlin wrote a song called "Smile and Show Me Your Dimple." The song was a flop but the melody was used again by Berlin in 1923 for a song which has become an all-time favorite: "Easter Parade."

Northwest paper industry leads nation in recycling

SEATTLE (UPI) — The pulp and paper industry of the Pacific Northwest currently is claiming the combined recycling, energy saving and pollution reduction championship of the industrial world.

Lawrence E. Birke Jr., executive secretary of the Northwest Pulp and Paper Association, said the achievement is the result of a lot of expensive research and new technology that makes it possible to change waste into energy or saleable products.

"The paper making business has become the fifth largest industry in the world and is growing daily despite today's recession market, because we are learning how many different ways we can use the whole tree," Birke says.

He explains that pulp mills have changed from using mostly logs for pulping to utilizing all of the tree, including the roots and the sawdust left from its cutting.

Additionally, mills are collecting the chips and residue from lumber and plywood mills. Birke says this important source now provides 72 per cent of the industry's raw material in Washington and more than 90 per cent in Oregon.

In recycling paper, he says 11 of 30 paper mills in the two states use about 30 per cent of the region's readily available waste paper as a fiber source for a variety of products.

Besides new kinds of paper products, Birke says the pulp industry's chemical by-products are going into such things as chewing gum, vanillan, drug and food additives, perfumes, insecticides, detergents, lingerie, convertible automobile tops, printing inks and paint removers.

The remaining solution, called "black liquor," is distilled at many plants to a consistency where it can be burned in the mill's furnaces to produce a substantial percentage of the electricity used by the plant.

Birke says the use of black liquor as a fuel currently accounts for more than 50 per cent of the energy requirements of pulp mills in Washington.

In air and water pollution control, Birke says the pulp and paper industry has spent nearly $2 billion in the Northwest alone and will have spent about $3 billion on pollution abatement facilities by the end of next year.

"The bulk of the pollution abatement equipment that is now in operation, the equipment under construction or being designed, is presently rated in the area of 95 to 98 per cent efficient," he says.

"What we're dealing with now is really the gnat's eyebrow, that last five per cent or less, of pollution problems."

Part of that last five per cent or less, the most noticeable part to the public, is the odor mills emit.

A few parts per billion in the air is harmless to the environment but detectable to the human nose even though sensitive instruments placed several miles downwind from a pulp mill may show a zero reading.

Birke says research into odorless pulping processes is promising but still problematical as to when such processes may be used commercially.

POOL OWNERS:

A 40-week supply of liquid chlorine*

A 40-week supply of HTH*

Here's why you should be using hth now that liquid chlorine costs the same.

HTH is more convenient To chlorinate a stabilized 20,000 gallon pool for 40 weeks takes about 65 gallons of liquid chlorine. Or one 75 lb. drum of HTH.

HTH leaves you more fun time Liquid chlorine requires numerous trips to your pool supply dealer, lugging back empties, wasting time and travel costs. Buy one drum of HTH and spend your time swimming!

HTH is more trouble-free Liquid chlorine raises alkalinity rapidly. HTH has only a minor effect on pH.

SPECIAL TRADE-IN OFFER TO LIQUID BLEACH USERS Bring in a case of 4 empty liquid chlorine gallon containers. We'll give you a 5 lb. or 7½ lb. package of HTH (granular or tablets) at no additional cost! We're that sure you'll be back for more.
Offer expires April 15, 1975

*Estimates for 20,000 gallon pool. Results may vary with chlorine demand.

It's never too late to call a Travel Agent.

The ad said, "deluxe hotel on lake." It should have said "...in lake." But how could you know?

A Travel Agent would have known. It's his or her business to know things you can't. Like the best values in hotels, transportation and sightseeing.

With an Agent you'll never pay more than the going rate. And since they usually know about special bargains, you'll often pay a lot less.

And it's free. All this service you get usually costs you nothing. Because for the most part a Travel Agent relies on commissions from hotels, airlines, etc. for income.

So if you want to find travel bargains – like the kind Western Airlines offers – Travel Agents know how. They ought to. They're bargains themselves.

Why our hospital costs are climbing so fast

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family Health Editor

Hospitals are paying more for everything from sugar packets to wash cloths, and that means Americans will be paying more for hospital services.

"Bills," Alex McMahon said in an interview, "can only go up."

McMahon, president of the American Hospital Association, speaks for some 7,000 hospitals nationwide, most of them voluntary hospitals that don't operate for profit.

Room rates, up 11.1 per cent to an average of $114.48 per day in 1974, will go up more in 1975 despite efforts of hospitals, individually and in groups, to hold the line.

"It's inflation," McMahon said. "So many cost factors are beyond our control.

"The prices hospitals pay for needed goods and services are rising 50 per cent faster than the over-all cost of living."

A hospital in Toledo, Ohio, took a look at its marketbasket and found the following increases in food, patient care items and utilities in just one year.

Sugar packets, up 197 per cent; coffee, up 24 per cent; jelly packets, up 114 per cent; sliced peaches, up 71 per cent; Band Aids, up 43 per cent.

Also, wash cloths, up 72 per cent; patient gowns, up 39 per cent; plastic bags, up 110 per cent; electricity, up 33 per cent; oil, up 160 per cent.

McMahon said the exact figures vary from hospital to hospital but the results are identical. The prices of many goods and services hospitals need to provide high quality patient care are increasing at a much faster rate than hospital charges.

Another inflationary pressure is the cost of malpractice insurance. It has gone up from 100 to 275 per cent in the last year. One insurance company has given notice of intent to cancel or not renew its hospital malpractice coverage in 14 of 28 states it serves.

Hospitals are to be cut off in New Jersey, Delaware, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Ohio, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Kentucky.

The firm, Argonaut Insurance Co., has filed rate increases of up to 700 per cent in states not notified of cancellation.

In response, the AHA's House of Delegates in February approved a program to create its own insurance company that would make malpractice general liability coverage available to hospitals.

The program is subject to final approval by the House of Delegates in May. If approved, the association will levy on member hospitals a $4 per bed one-time dues increase to finance it. That will bring in approximately $3.6 million on the almost 900,000 hospital beds of member institutions.

McMahon said hospitals are embarked on other campaigns to save their patients' money.

"We have an economic as well as a medical responsibility to the patient," he said.

"If we can hold down our health care costs we will hold down the premiums paid for insurance, the taxes we must pay to the government to provide its health care services. Everyone, provider as well as

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — Fighting cancer is a family affair at the Stanford Children's Hospital. Sometimes the doctors are even willing to admit that mother knows best.

"Hope" is the byword at the San Francisco Peninsula facility which specializes in the treatment of children's cancer.

"The diagnosis of cancer continues to be regarded by most people as practically synonymous with death," said Dr. Jordan Wilbur, director of the oncology unit which treats malignant tumors.

"The expectation of death in a child creates acute emotional reactions in all who are concerned with him. This reaction to a child with cancer, with an expectation of impending death, is no longer warranted and should be changed."

The staff members at the 60-bed hospital recognize the potential of death in dealing with cancer but they feel "the potential for life should be given even greater attention," he said.

One of the key features in this positive approach to the treatment of cancer is the total involvement of the family. Parents may live at the hospital and become actively engaged in the treatment of the disease.

"This doesn't mean we are replacing any nurses," said Joy Dutcher, Dr. Wilbur's assistant. "It just means we have nurse-parent teams working together.

The parents can live at a hotel on the hospital property. The hospital, supported by fees and donations, pays for the room and board.

"We are able to do this," Miss Dutcher said, "because they contribute to the care."

One little boy even has his grandparents staying at the hospital as well as his mother and father.

"The parents are a vital part of our program," said Miss Dutcher. "They have the expertise in dealing with their child. They know them better than we do."

The staff members also place a high premium on educating the parents and the children about cancer.

"The family and the child have the biggest stake in the illness and should, therefore, not only be involved in the treatment but should know as much as possible about the disease," Miss Dutcher said.

Blood counts are posted daily and the children are taught to read them. Miss Dutcher said they know when their count is low so if a painful treatment is needed they will at least know why.

Miss Dutcher estimates that the survival rate at the hospital is 50 per cent, with most of the cases referrals from other institutions or physicians.

"We don't save every child," she said. "But we are saving more each year."

Most places would have given Joel six months to live when he entered the hospital here about three years ago, Miss Dutcher said.

Joel and his mother stopped in for treatment recently while Miss Dutcher and Dr. Wilbur were being interviewed. The handsome blond boy looked like an ad for the Cub Scouts.

"The positive attitude around here is just great," said his mother, Mrs. Loretta Kowalski. "It's everywhere and spreads from parent to child."

consumer, will benefit."

The AHA's Board of Trustees recommends an 11-point anti-inflation program to members. Included are cost-saving tips in the areas of capital construction, utilization review and internal cost.

McMahon said cost-cutting innovations already are showing up in hospitals nationwide.

They include sharing services, merging facilities, industrial engineering programs, joint purchasing arrangements, one-day surgical services.

Where results can be figured in dollars, there are impressive reports, according to McMahon. For example, the Hospital Council of Western Pennsylvania estimated that its group purchasing program, involving 80 member hospitals, last year saved nearly $3 million.

Some specific programs by hospitals battling to contain costs:

—Tucson Medical Center in Arizona has saved about $500,000 by joining the Cooperative Purchasing Association of Arizona. Also, by combining the departments of safety, security, transportation, communication and mailroom under one director, the hospital chopped $12,000 a year from operating costs.

—Good Samaritan Hospital and Medical Center in Portland, Ore., has opened a 14-bed day care unit where patients are admitted in the morning for minor surgical procedures and discharged the same day, cutting costs in half.

—Jackson County Hospital in Kansas City, Mo., reduced its budget by $350,000. Among other cuts, the hospital eliminated travel for a period, halted salary hikes, and cut down on free meals and free coffee it provided its employes.

—In Denver, Swedish Medical Center and Porter Memorial Hospital combined obstetrical and pediatric facilities—raising obstetric occupancy from 65 to a more efficient 85 per cent at Swedish Center which now handles obstetrics for both hospitals. Porter handles pediatrics for both. When pediatric was closed at Swedish it left 20 free beds which were converted to orthopedic use for both hospitals. Saved: $700,000 in nonstruction costs for an orthopedic unit.

—Some hospitals, such as Milton Hershey Medical Center in Hershey, Pa., Atlanta's Emory University Hospital in Georgia and Somerville Hospital in Somerville, Mass., estimate they have cut patient bills from one third to one half by offering minimal care facilities for ambulatory patients who can, for instance, eat at a meal service center instead of in bed.

A wet but happy '500' parade

Despite the showers falling intermittently, spectators lined both sides of the parade route down Euclid Avenue.

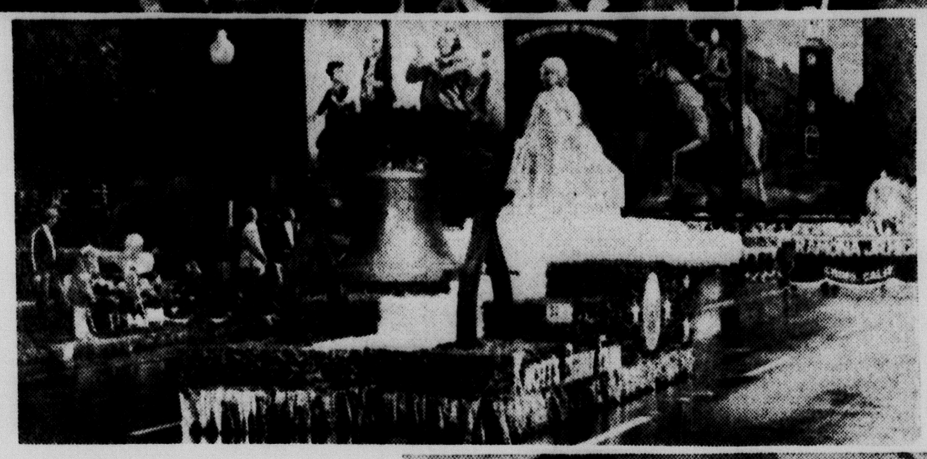
Theme of this year's parade was "Great Moments of America," with 160 entries including high school bands, floats, equestrian units, cowboys and Indians, race drivers and television celebrities.

The parade featured Richard Saukko "Tommy Trojan" aboard Traveler II as George Washington, grand marshal.

Colonial dress, especially white wigs, abounded among parade participants, from 5-year-olds on tricycles to high school drill teams.

The most popular units among the kids along the parade route were the numerous western clubs that performed mock gunfights in the street, collapsing on the wet pavement and being duly carried off by the undertaker.

The parade is an annual prelude to the running of the California 500 at Ontario Motor Speedway. The race, with A. J. Foyt in the pole position with a qualifying speed of 196.54 miles per hour, begins today at 11 a.m. weather permitting. Pre-race activities begin at 8 a.m.



Wet weather had its effect, but the festive atmosphere of a parade prevailed as seen here. From top, clockwise, the Anaheim High School band marches down Euclid Avenue with plastic bags protecting their hats. The Knott's Berry Farm float, depicting American Revolution scenes crosses Fourth Street. Renee Gennaway gets some pre-parade weather protection. A high school drill team, garbed in colonial wigs and caps, performs its routine. Pam Marlow clowns it up with balloons. And Matthew Caron, 6, as Paul Revere, and Patrick Law, 5, as George Washington, take a break atop tricycles.

Direct East Coast flights from OIA?

Possibility of providing flights from Ontario International Airport direct to the East Coast will be discussed Monday at the Los Angeles Board of Airport Commissioners meeting.

Passengers boarding flights at OIA can now fly only as far east as Chicago or Dallas where they must transfer to East Coast connecting flights.

The board will convene at 1 p.m. at the Ontario airport's terminal building conference room. The East Coast service report will follow the regular agenda.

Airport officials are expected to discuss applications before the Civil Aeronautics Board by United Air Lines and the World Airways, Inc.

La Puente Hacienda district

Teachers seeking $5 million pay hike

Teachers in La Puente Hacienda school district have requested a 12 per cent salary hike plus fringe benefits which would boost district payrolls $5 million for 1975-76.

Their proposal was presented to board members by Roy Eisenbise, chairman of the Certificated Employe Council (CEC). Hacienda-La Puente Teachers Associations represents approximately 1,000 teachers in the district's 42 schools.

The package was put together by two association committees, Professional Rights and Responsibilities and Salary and Economic Services.

Association President Les Dickinson said proposals constitute "the ideal package and is therefore negotiable. We know realistically that we are not going to get everything in that package," said Dickinson, "but the association insists that any budget cuts that might be made should be furthest from the classroom."

In addition to their 12 per cent pay increase, teachers are asking a $100 longevity bonus each year past the 15th year, salary credit for in-service training and social security coverage for summer school and extra hourly work.

They also seek improvement in their base pay and an early retirement incentive program.

In their fringe benefit proposal, the teachers are asking for family dental coverage, a vision care program, paid prescriptions, an employe's family benefit for surviving spouse and Blue Cross benefits to age 65.

They are recommending a reduction in class size, the addition of vocational counselors at the junior high schools, a five-period teaching day at the junior highs, the reinstatement of the nursing program, and that elementary teachers be allowed one period a day for preparation.

Malpractice insurance crisis doctors' topic

A panel of experts, including two former physicians who also are lawyers, will discuss the current malpractice insurance crisis Monday evening at a dinner meeting in Claremont of the Los Angeles County Medical Society District 14.

Pomona Municipal Court Judge Tom Nuss will moderate the panel which is being assembled by William Shernoff of Claremont. Shernoff is president of the San Bernardino-Riverside-Pomona chapter of the California Trial Lawyers Association.

Participants will include Assemblyman Bill McVittie, Samuel Shore, and Harold Drapkin, both of whom are former medical doctors now practicing law. Shore is chairman of the CTLA-malpractice committee.

Jerry Sullivan of Lloyds of London will represent the insurance industry.

Shernoff said he expects at about 100 physicians to attend the seminar scheduled at Griswold's.

Adult swim class at valley YMCA

The class will be held each Monday and Wednesday for five weeks from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Cost is $1 for YMCA members and $10 for nonmembers.

For information, persons may call 623-6433.

Several groups lobby to retain Cal Poly social service center

A community meeting to discuss retaining the Urban Affairs Center at Cal Poly will be held Monday night at 7 at the Neighborhood Adult Participation Project (NAPP) Center, 656 Ganesha Blvd.

The meeting will be sponsored by NAPP, the Welfare Rights Organization, the Greater Los Angeles Community Action Agency, and the Committee to Retain the Urban Affairs Center.

President Robert Kramer of Cal Poly has been invited to attend. Avie Robinson, area director of GLACAA, will also speak.

Immunization clinic set for childhood diseases

Immunizations against 10-day measles, rubella, polio, diptheria, tetanus and whooping cough (pertussis) will be offered free at the Pomona Health Center, 750 S. Park Ave., Wednesday from 5 to 7 p.m.

Tuberculin skin tests and flu shots will not be given at this clinic.

The clinic's immunization screening personnel will assist parents who are not sure which immunizations are needed by their children.

Dr. Annabel J. Teberg, chief physician at the Pomona Health Center, stated that although measles is a year-round disease, it begins to increase in January and peaks in May. She recommends that all children who have not previously had measles, from 1 to 15, should be immunized as soon as possible.

Dr. Teberg urges every parent in the county to make sure their child has been protected against polio, diptheria, tetanus, pertussis and rubella, as well as measles.

Children must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian. All previous immunization records should be brought to the clinic.

Katie the cop becomes 'one of the boys'

KATIE THE COP

Ontario Police officer Katie Zbinden, 32, like her male counterparts, has the duty of gassing up her police unit.

By TONY AULT
P-B Staff Writer

"I just want to be a good cop," said Katie Zbinden, who has just become Ontario's first woman patrol officer in the city's 83-year history.

The pretty brown-eyed brunette wears the same blue-black police uniform, complete with badge, gunbelt, and black shoes as her male counterpart. While cruising the northeastern part of the city recently, she drew a number of curious glances from residents and motorists.

It won't be long before Mrs. Zbinden will be driving her own assigned territory in a black and white police car daily, charged with the same responsibilities and duties as other patrol officers.

While Mrs. Zbinden's superior officers express great confidence in her, she admits some reservations about being a woman cop.

"I just know I want to be a good cop," said Mrs. Zbinden, "and being a good cop means experiencing routine field duties. Its necessary to see and know the city. It's good guys and its bad guys.

"I'm not necessarily a women's libber, nor do I wholeheartedly believe in the women's movement. To me being a cop is an individual thing. It is a mutual agreement between me and the department that, I hope, will benefit both," she said.

Mrs. Zbinden said she finds the police uniform "a bit cumbersome" and the equipment is heavy. "It actually makes you a foot wider than you are." She also finds it difficult to locate uniform pants to fit her properly.

After her first few days on patrol she already has developed a healthy respect for fellow officers. "It takes tremendous coordination and knowledge. Just learning how to operate the car and its equipment, is something else.

Then, too, I have ridden along with patrolmen before, but its really different when you know the area your patrolling is your responsibility. Yours alone."

Mrs. Zbinden said that being a patrol officer "fascinates" her, although she admits that the necessity to become aggressive on the job as circumstances sometime dictate is totally different from the way she has been taught to act as a woman.

"As a girl you are taught not to fight, but I know that sometime I'm going to have to become aggressive as a cop. I have before, but I didn't like it." Mrs. Zbinden admits that she could be hurt, perhaps worse than her male counterparts in a fight, but said "the men get hurt too. Its just a risk you take."

Mrs. Zbinden said her husband, Richard, a lieutenant with the Pomona Police Department, doesn't talk too much about her new duties. "He shakes his head a lot. I guess we both just close our eyes to the danger. He knows I wouldn't do anything foolish. I know I wouldn't because every day I see Zip's chest scar. He was shot once, and now he teaches officer survival at Pomona."

Mrs. Zbinden forsees other problems arising from being a woman patrol officer, particularly in the area of search and seizure. "Suppose its a man," said Mrs. Zbinden, "I'm not sure if I can search him without invading his privacy or something. I do know that in certain circumstances male officers can search female suspects. I guess the same would apply conversely."

Mrs. Zbinden is full of questions and perhaps some doubts, but nearly every new patrol officer experiences the same thing.

Still Mrs. Zbinden may be one jump ahead of other new patrolmen, having experienced five years as a police dispatcher and communications supervisor in Pomona, a reserve officer and dispatcher for La Verne Police Department for four years, a graduate from the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Academy, and a police officer in the Ontario Police Department's juvenile division specializing in sex crime investigation for three years.

Most of her fellow officers expressed hope that she will make it as a patrolman, while her superior officers all expressed a certain confidence she could.

Light at end of housing tunnel?

It's no news that 1974 was a devastating year for the housing industry, both when inflation was the specter haunting the economy and after unemployment became the No. 1 concern.

Home starts fell by a full third from the 1973 level and apartment starts by more than half. Only in the first year of the Depression and the first year after Pearl Harbor were there steeper declines.

Monthly mortgage payments increased nearly 30 per cent while consumer incomes were increasing only 6 per cent. This reversed a long-time trend in which consumer income consistently rose faster than mortgage payments.

For the first time, mortgage interest rates climbed high enough to intersect with usury laws. In at least a half-dozen of the 17 major markets surveyed, interest ceilings shut off or severely constrained conventional lending for part or all of the year.

—An entire sector of real estate finance was virtually wiped out. New lending commitments by real estate investment trusts were only 5 per cent of the volume of 1973.

—There was a net loss in construction employment of 300,000 jobs, plus an undetermined number in construction-related industries. Builders were whipsawed between inflated materials costs and the escalating cost of money.

Fortunately, there are heartening signs of a turnaround in response to an easing of mortgage funds, especially in the single-family home market.

Housing starts will hit a 1.9-million annual rate for the fourth quarter of 1975, predicts Advance Mortgage president Robert J. Mylod, and will reach a total of 1.5 million or better for the full year, compared to the 1.35 million starts in 1974.

He expects there will be enough mortgage money available to support a two-million-plus annual rate of starts by the fourth quarter — if the demand is there.

Like the automobile industry, however the housing industry has an inventory problem that will be a drag on recovery. As the year began, there were some 410,000 unsold homes, compared to 227,000 at the end of the previous slump in 1971. There was no condominium inventory in 1971, this year there are some 300,000 unsold units.

India vs. India

India is riding a "Bombay High" and it has nothing to do with drugs.

Encouraging reports from exploratory drilling in the region known as the Bombay High led the minister of petroleum and chemicals, K. D. Malaviya, to predict last month that India could become nearly self-sufficient in oil in the next six or seven years.

The prospect holds stupendous implications for India, which has been hard hit by the quadrupling of world oil prices. Self-sufficiency in oil could not only help solve the nation's balance of payments problem but provide it with the raw material for fertilizer, which it desperately needs if it is to be able to feed its continually expanding population.

If India's past record is a guide, unfortunately, it will find some way of remaining in poverty.

This is suggested by remarks made by Daniel P. Moynihan, recently returned after two-years as U.S. ambassador to India.

When India won its independence from Britain in 1947, he points out, it was producing 1.2 million tons of steel a year. Japan was producing only 800,000 tons.

Twenty-five years later, India's output had risen to 6.8 million tons but Japan's had soared to 106.8 million tons, despite the fact that Japan has to import iron ore and coal while India has huge deposits of both.

"This isn't a question of luck," says Moynihan, "and it isn't because the Japanese are any smarter or harder working than the Indians. It's simply the result of a conscious decision made by both countries."

The decision made by India was to put steel production, along with most of its economy, under direct government control.

India, says Moynihan, prefers stability or stagnation to a dynamic economy. In protecting itself from recessions, however, it has also protected itself from growth.

It is less than encouraging to learn that India has already informed the oil companies prospecting in its territory that it intends to take them over.

THE PUBLIC FORUM

Alternatives to proposed school cuts

In reply to Patrick Moretta's recent letter to the Public Forum, I state these facts. At no time during the school board campaign did I criticize Pomona School District administrators or teachers.

At no time did I indicate that I would not support the impending tax measure. I emphatically stated that there were alternatives to the school board's proposed budget cuts, even though the board led people to believe that all the cuts would be made if the tax override failed. I pointed out that these budget cuts would eliminate certain remedial reading, drama and music programs as well as wipe out interscholastic sports.

At the same time, the school district's employe groups were practically guaranteed an 8.5 per cent salary increase whether the tax override passed or not. I wonder if it has occurred to Mr. Moretta that 110 people would lose their jobs in order to insure his 8.5 per cent salary increase?

One alternative would be a 7.5 per cent employe salary increase. This would retain $202,000 for some essential programs and sports is certainly one that must be retained. What the school board did not point out is that dropping sports and moving students from Yorba and Allison schools would cost the district in several ways. Loss of a.d.a. with students leaving for private schools and other districts, moving materials and portables are some of the costs.

There are other alternatives as Gene Whitlock and I pointed out in the recent school board campaign. Now that Mr. Whitlock has been elected to the board, perhaps he can convince the remaining members that there are some options.

The Pomona school board has been weak because it has been divided. There have been individuals on the board whose integrity and sincerity could not be questioned, but without unity there has not been leadership. The function of any school board is to represent the people and to exercise leadership in providing a proper education for our children.

With the election of two new board members, I fervently hope we will have vigorous, responsible leadership with each member determined to represent the school community as a whole. If Chuck Braswell and Gene Whitlock along with Don Donnelly, Mary Montes and Ken Pine will work together with intelligence and foresight I will support them. Let's all do the same. — J. Cecil Hoover, Pomona.

Nixon broods over his plight

WASHINGTON — A melancholy Richard Nixon still spends most of his time, according to close friends, brooding by himself over his plight. Apparently, he just keeps turning over in his mind the mistake that brought his presidency to an inglorious end. His ability to withstand new problems, they say, has been weakened. One Saturday morning, he wrote a check that almost drained his bank account. "His blood pressure fluctuated that day to a dangerous point," a Nixon intimate told us.

Another time, he was working on an outline for his book when he lost a round in his court fight to gain custody of his presidential papers. "He suffered so much," said a friend, "that he couldn't continue with the outline for a few days."

Early in his exile, he felt a compulsion to talk to people and began making long-distance calls to friends around the country. They remember his calls as aimless and rambling.

But lately, he has shut off contact with all but a few close friends. These friends thought it would be good for him to get out, and millionaire Walter Annenberg offered to throw a party for him at Palm Springs, Calif. Nixon agreed to go only after lengthy bickering over the guest list. It was finally cut from 50 to about 20, whom Nixon personally cleared.

"Nixon holds too much inside," suggested one friend. "He is like a boiler without a steam vent." This friend noted that Nixon always remembered every slight, every injury ever done to him. It was a trait he began developing as a small boy.

His brother Donald once recalled: (Dick) wouldn't argue much with him . . . But once, when he had had just about as much of me as he could take, he cut loose and kept at it for a half to three quarters of an hour. He went back a year or two listing things I had done. He didn't leave out a thing. I was only eight, and he was ten."

It was this mentality, the friend suggested, that led to the White House enemies list.

Rabbi Baruch Korff, who is raising legal funds for Nixon, describes him as "a very troubled man. The man is visibly distressed," the Rabbi told us.

He has tried to comfort the former president by reminding him that the sunrise always follows the sunset and that "God in His infinite wisdom purposely put the night before the day."

He gave up a job as director of the Senate Public Works Committee and opened private consulting businesses in Washington and Miami. This still left him enough time to serve as a $17,000-a-year consultant for the House Public Works Committee.

A check of his travel records shows that his trips between Miami and Washington usually are paid by the taxpayers. During January and February of 1974, for example, Royce was paid for seven round trips between the two cities. His travel for the two months cost the taxpayers almost $2,500.

"I was a consultant, and I lived in Florida, and the travel was approved," Royce told us. He denied his triple occupations represented a confict of interest.

PAUL HARVEY

The knife at our nation's jugular

Goofy Robert Orben once said, "I don't like to brag but I knew Henry Kissinger before he had an accent."

Peripatetic Henry seems to be able to make everybody else in the world understand him — in half-a-dozen other languages — but he is not getting through to us.

He is trying to tell us something very important and nobody seems to be listening.

If I might presume to be his interpreter I am going to repeat what Secretary Kissinger is saying and then I will tell you what he means.

How come? We see no long lines at filling stations. There's fuel for our cars and our furnaces and the lights are still lit. What does he mean "grave"?

Most assuredly we are paying higher prices for petroleum products. Imported Arab oil continues to upset our balance of trade and to agitate domestic inflation, but the word "grave" — if Secretary Kissinger's understanding of English is like Webster's — means "serious," "momentous."

Secretary Kissinger, before a University of Chicago audience, went on to warn that "our liberty is at stake."

What in the world is he talking about? He called for rigid international co-operation to reduce oil consumption and to develop new energy sources "urgently."

Otherwise, he warned, "we face further and mounting worldwide shortages, unemployment, poverty and hunger imperiling international order."

I believe Secretary Kissinger is entirely correct, but the fact that his audience is yawning indicates that most Americans believe he is exaggerating the urgency of the global energy crisis.

The secretary is recommending five specific ways in which oil-consuming nations can counterattack:

1 — Reduce dependence on Arab oil.

2 — Develop other energy sources.

3 — Stabilize our respective economies.

5 — Try to establish meaningful dialogue with the oil-producing nations.

Now all that diplomatic talk shucked down to the cob says that what we should do is "get independent enough to get tough."

Nowhere in the secretary's splendid academic discourse on the subject does he really hit the nail with his head. My shirt-sleeve English is not very fancy, but what Americans need to be told if they are to be shaken awake is that the balance of power in the world is presently in highly volatile hands.

Arabs, with the oil valve in hand, are holding a knife at our jugular. At any moment they could shut off that valve, leaving our powerful nation powerless to fight a war anywhere.

Just in jest

You've come a long way Baby! Instead of looking forward to an old age in which you are just a little old lady sitting by the fireplace smoking a corncob pipe or sniffing snuff, you can now spend your declining years smoking Virginia Slims. —Instead of having to rely on screaming to protect your virtue, you can now carry tear gas pen guns to discourage assailants. —Or, if you prefer, you can become a policewoman.

That should be easy since, according to a Pennsylvania State University study, female police officers have greater leadership and executive ability than male officers of corresponding rank. —But if that sort of work doesn't fulfill you, certainly you should be able to take over what was once a man's job and become a TV weather gal. Female weather casters are much in demand these days for, after all, isn't it generally conceded that a woman can't be faulted for changing her mind? —No doubt about it! You've come a long way Baby! Now the only big problem left is to decide when you've finally arrived.

OUR MAN IN WASHINGTON

Farmers' distress not being heard

By TERRY M. WADE

WASHINGTON — It isn't a pleasant task and I'm certain no one wants to hear about another crisis, but there is yet another that should be mentioned.

The agriculture business (agri-business) is near the brink of a disastrous decline.

Despite the warnings of various farm organizations, the agri-business has continued to deteriorate at an alarming rate.

Auto industry layoffs are national news and the closing of a plant employing several hundred people is considered a sure sign of the recession, but the closing of a farm or a dairy's bankruptcy goes unnoticed.

There is a tendency in areas not directly affected by agricultural problems to take the agri-business complaints with a grain of salt.

After all, the word is, they have a special interest and, therefore, their opinions are biased.

The sad truth of the matter is, that special interest daily affects every single American.

The housewife is more than a little aware of the extra money she must spend on food goods, even the President recognizes the effect a giant wheat sale has on the nation's economy.

Why then is the farmer having such a hard time getting his distress message across?

There are simply too few farmers to have a significant impact. Numbers and votes are the primary megaphone for the oppressed in this country, and the agri-business, while major in economic impact, has few votes.

Putting politics aside is absolutely essential if we are to retain the most American of all industries.

In that same period the average consumer paid $200 more for food goods, a difference of $250. Who gets the extra is another subject we won't get into.

The point is, the consumer, the biggest voting bloc in the nation, must realize that the farmer is not the cause of increased grocery bills.

Wheat prices have dropped to a point where breaking even is a positive goal, but the government continues to hold down demand by "overlooking" exports. The constant threat of export controls, according to many congressmen here, is the biggest cause for low wheat prices.

Probably the most desperate groups in the agri-business are the cattlemen and dairymen.

Beef cattle prices have plummeted. On-the-hoof prices fell 38 cents per pound last year and there is no respite, with present laws, in sight.

At the same time dairy farmers have seen feed bills skyrocket and milk checks remain the same. They have even been unable to get an increase in support prices, despite congressional approval.

There are more beef cattle in this country than ever before, according to most experts, but we continue to import nearly 10 per cent of the beef consumed.

Most ranchers feel the imported beef has cut deeply into their pocket books. They also point out imported beef is of inferior quality.

Former President Nixon is blamed for much of the problem. Nixon yielded to the consumer demand for a freeze on beef prices over a year ago and at the same time opened the import gates, lifting all restrictions.

After months of seeking an embargo on beef imports from the White House the cattlemen have turned to Congress.

A freshman representative, Oklahoma Democrat Glenn English, has introduced legislation, supported by the Speaker, that would force a one-year embargo on beef imports.

This nation, already beset by enormous economic problems, can not afford to allow the agri-business to reach a bankrupt stage.

Agriculture is our most productive industry. Hopefully we haven't neglected it too long this time.

New novel cinch to be a picture

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — You have read the novel by Peter Benchley and soon you'll be seeing the movie version of "Jaws." And that isn't all.

Even now, someone is working on a sequel to this gripping tale of a resort community being terrorized by a great white shark.

The reason I know about this is because that someone is me. I am calling my novel "Lips."

By way of background you should know there exists a curious fish called the "kissing gourami." As the name implies, it swims around kissing things —the sides of tanks, rocks, other fish, whatever. Nobody is quite sure why.

Very well. The opening scene is a typical wild Hollywood party at the palatial mansion of a famous producer, Renoir Flicknagle. Around 2 a.m., a young starlet, Theda Grappling, decides to go for a nude swim in Flicknagle's pancreas-shaped pool.

(The film colony is bored with heart and kidney-shaped pools and is going in for other internal organs. Pools shaped like endocrine glands are among the favorites.)

"What's the matter?" they cry.

"Something down there is kissing me," Theda shrieks hysterically.

"Kissing you where?" asks another starlet.

"Unless this is going to be made into an X-rated movie, I can't tell you," Theda replies modestly.

The next day Flicknagle's groundskeeper advises him to drain the pool. Flicknagle demurs. His latest pictures have bombed badly and he is behind on his water bill.

Besides that, the Eastern financiers he is counting on to bankroll his next production are flying out for a conference and he has planned a big Independence Day party for them.

"If that pool isn't open on the Fourth of July, I'm ruined," he says. "Maybe Theda was just imagining things. Or maybe whatever was kissing her will go away."

But at that very moment, Flicknagle's housemaid and cook, taking a morning dip, are similarly bussed.

Filled with remorse, he confers with the tropical fish clerk at a nearby pet store who surmises that the underwater osculation was the work of a kissing gourami.

There is a lot of scientific stuff about how the fish might have gotten into the pool, etc. Then, in the climactic scene, Flicknagle and the clerk paddde forth on a rubber float to try and catch it with a leaf strainer.

I don't want to give away the surprise ending, but believe me it's a thriller.

Current experiments may aid stroke victims

By JOHN SPETZ

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Dramatic surgical relief for stroke victims could be available by 1980 or sooner if experiments underway at Cleveland Metropolitan General Hospital are successful.

Dr. Robert J. White, head of the department of neurosurgery at the hospital, envisons an end to some of the debilitating effects of strokes through immediate surgery to restore the flow of blood and its vital oxygen to an area of the brain starved by blockage in a vessel.

Working with him on the project is Dr. Yoshiro Takaoka, a specialist in surgery on vessels barely visible to the eye. They hope to take the known techniques of vein grafts and couple them with a braincooling process developed by White to increase blood flow to the affected area of the brain —thereby halting death of brain tissue in the earliest possible stages of stroke.

Takaoka has been performing microsurgery for more than four years, concentrating the past year on grafting vessels in rat brains. Within the next few months Takaoka will attempt to reduce the damage done by an artificially induced stroke in the brain of a monkey by grafting a blood vessel from the animal's neck into the affected area.

"Our approach is unique in that all work so far done in stroke with jumped grafts has been done on people who have already recovered and are not going to die," said White, who gained international attention by isolating the brains of monkeys outside the skull and keeping them alive for study.

"The idea would be to deliver a new vessel from the neck or face by pulling it through the skull and sewing it on. Some aspects of this have been tried but only after the patient has recovered," he said. "Our idea would be to undertake this and do it in the acute phase with hypothermia."

Hypothermia means cooling the blood to lower the brain's metabolism and drastically reduce the brain's need for new oxygen and glucose. White says by cooling the blood with a heat exchanger, surgery time can be extended to "between 45 and 60 minutes without brain damage."

"Without hypothermia you only have 3 to 5 minutes or there's further damage," he said.

Single girl gives views of what she would like in way of a husband

Dear Ann Landers: You asked for letters from single girls who were willing to state what they would like in the way of a husband and bed-mate. Here is mine:

(1) A man who will accept me as I am, let me be me — and not try to change me into his ideal.

(2) A man who will appreciate me and show an awareness of the things I do to please me.

(3) A man who is willing to let me alone and not insist that I be talkative, cheerful, and completely charming when I feel like hell.

(4) A man with whom I can laugh, cry, communicate — about anything — and depend on to keep his mouth shut about our family affairs.

(5) A man who will criticize me when I need it and compliment me when I have earned it.

(6) A man who is big enough to say, "I was wrong," and not need to say, "I told you so," when things turn out as he predicted.

(7) A man with a sense of humor so keen and all-encompassing that he can laugh at himself when the occasion demands it.

(8) A man who makes me feel so secure that I wouldn't be the least bit concerned if the most beautiful woman in the world threw herself at him.

As for what I want in a bed-mate — I haven't any idea, but I'm pretty sure if he had all the qualities I have listed, he would also be a wonderful bed partner.—Still looking

Dear Looking: Great list. When you find him let me know. And please pass the word if he has any brothers.

Dear Ann Landers: May I add my two cents' worth to your advice to "Old Fashioned" — the woman who was concerned about topless bathing in Texas? (It seems her husband was being transferred there and she was worried about her two teenage sons and what such "exposure" might do to them.

I suggest that lady keep her teenage sons AND her husband away from the South Pacific. The topless bathers (all native, of course) have much better-developed healthier-looking, and more attractive mammary glands than what might be seen if the American woman went topless on the beaches and in public pools — which, so far as I know, is against the law not only in Texas but everywhere in the U.S.A.

As a male who has traveled the world over and seen practically everything, I can tell you that the average American woman's busom is so undernourished, flabby and unattractive that it should NEVER be exposed to public view. —An Authority

Dear Thor: You seem to think that when you've seen two in America, you've seen 'em all. I'm printing your comment, but I'm sure your letter will generate plenty of angry rebuttals.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm worried about a sweet young woman who came to work in this office a few months ago. The poor dear is fresh from a small town and so naive you wouldn't believe it. I have it on good authority that she is seeing one of the senior officers of the company — a widower with grown children.

Will I feel guilty if she marries this man and in 15 years, when she is still a sexy and attractive woman, she finds herself stuck with a doddering, arthritic old man? —Do-Gooder By Nature

Dear Gooder: Did she ask for your advice? If not, keep your views to yourself, honey. Maybe in 15 years, he'll still be sexy and SHE will have arthritis.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

Parental discretion a new burden

At a time of my life when it is difficult for me to make a decison between a cheap weak bleach or a stubborn stain fighter, I am hit with yet another responsibility: PARENTAL DISCRETION.

PARENTAL DISCRETION is a full-time job in this country. You can't turn around without a child shoving a movie ad or a TV Guide into your face with a little box that reads, "Due to mature subject matter, PARENTAL DISCRETION is advised."

I used to read a lot . . and needlepoint . . now all I get done is discret.

Last week alone I had to discret on a drama dealing with a necktie strangler, a young girl who murdered both of her parents with an axe, Requium for a Nun, a hotel full of weirdos and a chaplain who fooled around.

"Mom, can't we watch the show on the nun?"

"No, the listing says the language and the racial epithets are offensive."

"What are racial epithets?" asked my son.

"How about a poem on a tombstone?" I asked.

"Yes, but he's doing it on prime time . . as a career. Why don't you see a nice movie?"

Actually, my kids and I witness more violence between one another on what they're going to view as they're likely to see on a screen anywhere.

"Can we see Lenny?" one asked.

"No. It's loaded with perversion."

'What's perversion?" he persisted.

"How about Confessions of a Window Cleaner?" he pursued.

"How about Blazing Saddles?"

"I heard there're enough four-letter words in it to open a branch Navy in every country in the world. And some goes for Young Frankenstein."

As I slumped exhausted into a chair I said to my husband, "You discret for awhile."

"How can you exercise discretion on movies and TV shows you've never seen? I mean, how do you know Young Frankenstein is objectionable?"

"Easy. Everyone in their class loved it!"

THE DOCTOR COMMENTS

Some reasons for low blood sugar

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have had what was diagnosed as "hypoglycemia" for a number of years and I get weak spells without warning when my blood sugar count suddenly takes a nose-dive.

Can you more fully explain this to me? What causes it? Should I be on a special diet or what can I do to prevent this?

It's my understanding that the outpouring of adrenaline causes this. If so, what causes the outpouring of adrenaline?

In order to bring the blood sugar count up, I put a piece of hard tack candy on my tongue and let it melt away. Is that wrong?

DEAR READER — The body has many different mechanisms of lowering and raising the blood glucose (sugar) level. There is an optimal range for the blood glucose level. All of these different mechanisms mean there are several different ways that you can develop low blood sugar (hypoglycemia).

Interestingly enough, starvation doesn't produce a marked lowering of the blood sugar until it reaches serious or life-threatening stages. However, without food and with physical exertion, as might occur in a survival situation, some degree of low blood glucose level can occur.

The body is capable of converting protein to glucose so there is a ready way to raise the blood sugar even during starvation. The body muscle tissue, and other body protein, can be used for this purpose.

In some susceptible people and those who have had operations, particularly those with removal of part of the stomach, a high level of starches and sweets in the small intestine will lead to an overproduction of insulin and the excess insulin will cause the blood glucose level to fall too much.

In these cases, a diet limiting concentrated carbohydrates, such as sugar and sweets and starches, helps to limit the attacks. The diet should be based mostly on fresh fruit and vegetables with lots of bulk and protein foods, including lean meats, poultry and fish.

Some rare people have tumors of the islets of Langerhans, the area in the pancreas that produces insulin. This is one of several reasons why any patient with a history of low blood sugar needs a good medical evaluation.

Whenever the blood glucose level falls, for whatever reason, the body tries to raise the level immediately to levels that permit more normal function. This is done by releasing adrenaline which helps mobilize sugar from animal starch stored in the liver. The adrenaline is responsible for a lot of those symptoms. The problem is that many other stresses, including anxiety, may cause a person to release too much adrenaline and induce similar symptoms. So the symptoms do not always mean a person has low blood sugar at all.

Sugar or sweets will relieve a sudden attack of low blood sugar, but that is not a good approach to treatment and should only be used for temporary relief.

For more information about the complex way hypoglycemia can be caused and how to treat it, send 50 cents and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to me at P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019 and ask for the booklet on low blood sugar.

Colonists arrived before Pilgrims

Who were the first settlers to come here across the Atlantic? Who held the first Thanksgiving? Who invented the log cabin? The Pilgrims? Most say that. It's wrong. Almost a thousand colonists got here before the Pilgrims. At least two Thanksgivings were celebrated in Virginia 10 years before the Mayflower showed up. And the Swedes put up the first log cabin over there, not here.

SOME garment makers say they can predict good times or bad times by the clothing women buy. As a recession sets in, they say, the ladies who buy any clothes at all go in mostly for sportswear. When an economic boom is imminent, they pick out fancy dresses with the expectation that their gentlemen friends will take them out more.

COFFEE STAINS

Yes, my dear, it's true that coffee stains on wooden floors will come clean, if rubbed gently with steel wool and alcohol.

Q. "DOES A DEER hit by a 30-30 bullet hear the rifle bang?"

A. Not if it's killed instantly.

PEOPLE who don't know much about music tend to hear it better in the left ear than in the right. But musicians seem to hear it better in the right ear than in the left. The why of this peculiarity I can't explain, sorry to say. It was reported by a pair of Columbia University scholars who made an extensive study of the matter.

TRAVEL

A New York City travel bureau printed on a Mexico City tour advertisement: "Don't drink the water." Irritated by this, a Mexico City travel bureau printed on a New York City tour advertisement: "Don't breathe the air."

ITEM NO. 7240 in our file labeled "Survival" reads: "If lost in the desert, never take your shoes off. In high heat, it's just about impossible to get them back on. You don't want to try walking through the desert in your bare feet, do you? Certainly not."

REMEMBER that 1 times 9 plus 2 equals 11. And 12 times 9 plus 3 equals 111. And 123 times 9 plus 4 equals 1,111. Continue to figure in this manner on up to 12,345,678. You will find that this number times 9 plus 9 equals 111,111,111. Enough? All right.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll be more at ease today with those who are young at heart than you will be with those who have an older outlook.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The odds are slightly in your favor in competitive situations because you're prepared to adjust your thinking. Antagonists aren't.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you think you have something worth saying that others should know about, talk to the proper people now. They'll be receptive.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Information you have been seeking that has been partially hidden from you will be revealed soon. You'll use it profitably.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Take the future into consideration before making any important decisions. Base judgments upon logic, not on wishful thinking.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There is something that you can now do if you put your mind to it that will benefit your career. It involves a coworker.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're going to make an interesting new contact who later will pop-up in your life from time to time. This person will open doors for you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll be getting some news you'll want to share with your family. It pertains to something you want for the future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The solution you seek for a problem will not be found in methods that worked for you in the past. You need to innovate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your financial prospects are still promising, if you don't put limitations upon your thinking. Look for new sources of return.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Without trampling upon others, be a trifle more assertive than usual in promoting your self-interests.

Military career no guarantee of a job

NEW YORK (UPI) — An increasing number of military and naval officers are taking early retirement and looking for jobs in industry and the academic world. Those who have neglected to look ahead are having a rough time finding them.

Others who have taken full advantage of service opportunities to get useful graduate degrees or who have served for some time in berths that interlaced with industry or civilian government may find it easier, says J. Robert Harman, a senior vice president of Booz, Allen & Hamilton, Inc., management consulting and executive recruiting firm. Harman is a West Pointer himself who left the military service in his late thirties.

"The big reason for the increase in job hunting colonels, generals and admirals, of course, is the reduction in the defense establishment," Harman told UPI. "I don't know how much the reduction will accelerate but it certainly isn't a growth industry anymore."

Others have opted for early retirement because of disillusionment with the military atmosphere and resentment over the nation's involvement in Vietnam. Some have read books such as Seymour Melman's "The Permanent War Economy" and they have heard of President Eisenhower's warning against the dangers to the nation's liberties inherent in a permanent Pentagon-industrial juggernaut.

"But the reasons usually are more personal," said Harman. "The end of our direct involvement in Vietnam created another promotion hump like the one in 1945 that forced so many officers out and led to so many good officers remaining as majors or colonels from perhaps their 26th to their 49th birthdays.

Now, Harman said, an officer can't do that. The period during which he can be passed over for promotion without being retired has been cut drastically. The big hump barrier again is in the ranks of the colonels and lieutenant-colonels and the captains in the Navy because the need for new brigadiers, major generals and rear admirals is dropping sharply.

"The officer who is a pure soldier and has neglected to look ahead to a retirement career has little chance of finding a job in either the business or academic world now," Harman said. "He will encounter resistance on the grounds that military and naval men tend to be socially narrow, unsophisticated and lack useful skills."

But the officer who has acquired skills and sophistication and has broadened his personality may find executive recruiters quite receptive.

"Such officers usually are quite well educated, in excellent physical condition, socially very adaptable, have foreign service and service in Washington that can be useful to many businesses, and they have managerial as well as technical skills," he said. "They also are experienced in training young officers or enlisted men."

But, Harman warned, it would be naive of any officer to imagine his military or naval rank alone will be an asset in job hunting.

"The day long has gone by when industrial firms imagine that a retired general or admiral could get them government contracts just on his contacts in the armed forces or government bureaus," Harman said. "That just doesn't work."

Arab oil takeover

1 decision 33 months ago affected everyone's lives

BEIRUT (UPI) — Robed sheikhs hurried in and out of Saudi Arabia's new ministry of petroleum building in a suburb of the city of Riyadh, deftly dodging clustered groups of journalists anxiously awaiting the news they had traveled thousands of miles to hear.

Shortly before midnight on Dec. 20, 1972, the wide doors to Sheikh Ahmad Zaki Yamani's ornately appointed office swung open. The journalists crowded in to hear the oil minister announce the decision that was to affect the lives of everyone who drives a car, watches a television set or lives in a heated home—everyone whose standard of living depends on oil.

"Participation," said the minister as the flash bulbs flared and the journalists craned their necks to catch his words, "has become a fact." In simple terms, the oil-producing states of the Persian Gulf were taking over 25 per cent of the American, British, French and Dutch oil companies operating on their shores.

They were to move to 51 per cent by 1982 though in fact the takeover that was so drastically to tip the balance of the world's wealth in this decade came much sooner. Within 13 months they moved to 60 per cent and by the end of this year are expected to own their companies entirely.

Along with the change in ownership has come a four-fold increase in the price of oil, from about $3 per barrel in 1973 to $11 today.

The Arabs and the Iranians have about 80 per cent of the non-Communist world's proven oil reserves. In the first six months of 1974, they produced about 70 per cent of the oil that fuels the factories, heats the homes and drives the cars of Western Europe and Japan.

Their takeover of the oil companies coupled with the sudden price jumps has resulted in the swiftest and most dramatic transfer of wealth in history. The new holders of this wealth—the 12 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries —tallied up a $62-billion balance of payments surplus with the west last year.

While most estimates say this figure is likely to drop as the OPEC states increase their imports, the surplus balance of "petrodollars" is expected to reach $300 billion by

Where oil companies' windfall profits went

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Arab oil embargo and higher worldwide crude oil prices handed U.S. oil companies a windfall in profits.

Americans were forced to pay substantially higher prices not only for gasoline and fuel oil but for most products and services dependent on petroleum energy and byproducts. The nation was asked to conserve.

In exchange, the oil companies promised to plow their new riches back into the search for new supplies of oil, gas and other energy sources so that the nation would not be cut short again.

It was a gentlemen's agreement. No law required the plowback.

A year later, the oil industry claims it has done its best.

Furthermore, the oil companies claim their profits were bloated by inflation and absorbed later by higher prices paid to the 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to replace the cheaper oil on which they made the major profit gains.

According to the American Petroleum Institute, the nation's 17 largest oil companies increased capital expenditures, primarily for new exploration and production by $6.5 billion last year, from $12.8 billion in 1973 to $19.2 on in 1974.

Profits increased about $4 billion, from $8.7 billion to $12.6 billion.

"In other words," said an API spokesman, "the increase in expenditures exceeded the increase in profits. Most of this increase was spent in the United States."

The oil companies note that much of the large profit gains were realized on oil which they bought at around $3 per barrel before the worldwide price was quadrupled by OPEC to nearly $12 per barrel.

"The profit they took in was quite substantial —no getting around it —but they had to reinvest it in crude that was four times what it was," said Chase Manhattan economist Richard Sparling.

Economists at Chase have estimated that profits of the major oil companies last year were up 45 per cent over 1973. But they said the profit picture eroded steadily through the year.

Sparling said profit gains for the major oil companies averaged 90-100 per cent in the first quarter but dropped steadily to 70 per cent in the second quarter and 40-50 per cent in the third.

Preliminary estimates, he said, indicate profits in the fourth quarter of 1973 declined 10 per cent from the same period in 1973, when the higher prices first went into effect.

The API said the industry did reinvest the higher profits in new exploration. The number of completed wells drilled rose 19.6 per cent to 31,813, the highest since 1969, API said in a preliminary report.

"Of particular significance for the nation's energy supply future," API said, "was the 16.8 per cent increase in exploratory drilling. Some 8,723 exploratory wells were drilled in 1974. Of these, 815 were oil wells, 1,186 were gas wells and 6,722 were dry holes."

Refinery capacity rose 610,000 barrels per day to 14.9 million, and an additional 207,600 barrels of capacity was available in refineries shutdown for repairs.

Still, domestic crude production declined 4.1 per cent to 8.4 million barrels a day while imports of crude increased 6.8 per cent to 3.4 million barrels per day. At the same time, domestic consumption declined 3.3 per cent. The upshot is that the nation became more dependent on foreign oil.

"Production was flat out last year," the API spokesman said. "We are producing as much as we can from existing wells."

"It's quite possible we'll see some increased production toward the later part of the year. But thus far, the increased completions have not been translated into production.

"It would be nice if you could sink a well today and have it in production tomorrow. But this is not an overnight process."

AHMAD Z. YAMANI'S STATEMENT AFFECTED EVERYONE

ARAMCO'S SAUDI ARABIAN REFINERY

Decision

1980. To understand how much this is, consider these statistics: Total world trade in 1974 amounted to $400 billion. All the gold in all the world's banks last year was valued at $180 billion, figured at the exchange of $150 per ounce.

At this rate, according to a fanciful bit of arithmetic by the London Economist, OPEC members would accumulate enough excess funds in 15 or 16 years to buy all the companies quoted on the world stock exchange, in 10 days to purchase the Champs-Elysees and in roughly eight minutes to buy the Eiffel Tower.

If power is money, then the Arabs have it. But whether the once-sleepy sheikhdoms of the Persian Gulf emerge as a major power center in the 21st century depends largely on how wisely their rulers spend their money over the remainder of this century, after which the oil wells will begin to run dry.

To prepare for the day when the petrodollar becomes extinct, the oil states have embarked on ambitious development programs to provide housing, schools, industries and jobs for their still largely backward populations.

In Kuwait every student gets free education from kindergarten through university. Every patient gets free medical care and, if medical services are not available locally, is sent to London —all expenses paid.

In Iran, the inflow of nuclear reactors, tractors and industrial goods and services has resulted in the creation of 1,000 new jobs per day and the lowering of the country's unemployment rate to an enviable 1 per cent. The shah has also embarked on an ambitious $5-billion renovation scheme to turn his capital, Tehran, into a major world city.

U.S. taking a hard look at solar energy

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A team of scientists at Midwest Research Institute is taking a long look at the real prospects for solar energy and how it might change future society.

Dr. Michael Noland, an MRI engineer, has brought together experts from the fields of economics, the social sciences, law and agriculture to explore alternatives for solar energy development — specifically solar energy units on individual homes, factories and offices — up to the year 2020.

In August a report will be submitted to the Office of Technology Assessment, an agency of Congress created three years ago to give scientific advice to the legislative branch. This is that agency's first project.

The impetus for technology assessment has been the headaches Congress has been forced to deal with because of unchecked technological growth. A person in the 1920s assessing the automobile's impact on the future, for example, might have concluded air pollution would be a real problem, and laws could have been passed to head off a pollution crisis.

"We're trying to produce for Congress two things —scenarios of what the future will look like depending on a set of circumstances, and then an inventory of policy options based on that," Noland said in an interview.

"We're not going to make specific recommendations, but we will give possible directions they can go with solar energy and what will be encountered and what they can do to influence each thing encountered."

That rather simple goal of telling Congress what would happen if, say, it voted tax incentives for homeowners who installed solar energy units, is the result of a complicated but straightforward process.

The project's first step — carried out by three industrial subcontractors and the University of Pennsylvania —was to make a detailed assessment of current solar energy technology and cost practicality.

Those assessments were followed by analysis of the impacts such technological developments could have on society. MRI researchers came up with 92 possible impacts which they asked a panel of 100 specialists in various fields to analyze in terms of their desirability and their probability of occurring.

Possible impacts included lessened demand for fossil fuel and nuclear power plants; less need for oil imports; cheaper electricity; increased population and demand for water resources in areas with high sunlight, such as the Southwest; changes in zoning regulations to prevent trees from being planted where they would shade a neighbor's solar unit, and increased vulnerability of home-unit solar systems to vandalism.

"Some of these impacts are probably not going to be significant, but something like vandalism to glass units on home solar units could wipe out the whole concept," Noland said.

"There's a whole range of social-cultural reactions which might occur that we have to look at. For example, what kind of social demand will there be for reliability? Right now it's very high; a person gets very upset if he turns on a switch and nothing happens.

"Another possibility —if solar energy turns out to be very expensive will it be used only by more affluent people and will this create problems with people on a lower economic level?"

Noland's own view, after intensive study of solar energy since last July, is that there will be solar-heated and cooled homes before the end of the century, but not on any widespread basis.

"We just aren't going to have a significant amount of solar energy in my lifetime," the 35year-old scientist said. "It has some real potential but it's going to be a big disappointment to the American people if they think it will solve all our problems.

"The thing the environmentalists continue to soft-pedal is the economic realities —it's very expensive. We have to analyze it not in terms of what you and I would be willing to do to save the world but what the great mass of the American people will want to do. Will they spend money on solar units or will they accept more air pollution?"

Sun heated office in brrr-isk Helena

HELENA, Mont. (UPI) — When the mercury drops below zero and the wind drives the temperature even lower, it's hard to think about keeping your office warm with water heated by the sun and wind.

But that's the plan of Menasco-McGuinn Assoc., a design engineering firm in this capital city.

The compampy has decided to construct a split-level office building for its own use that will be heated by hot water brought up to 140 degrees Fahrenheit by heat from the sun, a fireplace and electrical elements. The electricity will be supplied by windmills that look more like sheet metal twisted into Danish rolls than the classical bladed windmill that dotted the western prairies.

David L. McGuinn, a part owner of Menasco-McGuinn, said the reason for the building is to determine how reliable alternative energy heating systems can be.

When you analyze the problem, there is no problem with illumination. basically," McGuinn said. "There isn't any problem with propulsion. The problem is in the heating aspect. Natural gas is in defi-

HAM THEN (TOP) AND NOW

Ham . . . . . .

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fourteen years ago, a frisky male chimpanzee nicknamed Ham rode into the pages of U.S. space exploration during a 16-and-a-half minute, 422-mile suborbital flight down the Atlantic from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Ham, then not quite 4 years old, became the first "astro-chimp" in an experiment to test the life support system of the Mercury capsule that would carry Alan B. Shepard Jr. on man's first space flight three months later, on May 5, 1961.

Ham was chosen from among six chimps trained at Holloman Air Force Base, N.M., because of his frisky disposition and good humor. His nickname was an acronym honoring the Holloman Aerospace Medical Center and its commander, Lt. Col. Hamilton Blackshear.

During his Jan. 31, 1961, flight, Ham performed his lever-pulling chores almost flawlessly, and when he bounded onto the deck of a Navy recovery ship he gladly accepted an apple and half an orange. The only aftereffect he suffered was fright over news photographers' flashing cameras.

Ham was retired and shipped the following year to the National Zoo, where he happily resides today as the only chimp among the many primates on public display.

"He's a nice, healthy chimp with an awfully good disposition," a zoo spokesman said. "He still loves to have the keepers tickle him and play with him through the bars, and he has a good appetite. His diet is the usual human diet — vegetables, fruits, eggs, some meat, and of course vitamins and minerals."

At 17, Ham is approaching the end of the average 20-year life span for a chimp, but his keepers say he shows no signs of slowing down with old age.

. . . Ronald Reagan

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Ronald Reagan, capitalizing on his fame as a Hollywood star, won election as governor of California in 1966 and served two controversy-filled terms.

A veteran of 29 years in movies and television, the ruggedly handsome Democrat-turned-Republican was catapulted into office by a whopping million-vote margin.

The victory propelled the selfdescribed conservative "citizen-politician" into contention for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination, but he lost to Richard M. Nixon.

Two years later, Reagan was re-elected governor by 500,000 votes.

As governor, Reagan was best known for his "squeeze, cut and trim" efforts to reduce government spending.

Riding a crest of widespread public dissatisfaction with welfare, he initiated a 1971 reform program that saw the aid rolls decline dramatically and soaring welfare costs slacken.

He termed the welfare revision the most "successful and dramatic" achievement of his eight years as governor. He attempted to have some reforms adopted at the national level. Few were.

His "greatest disappointment," Reagan recalls, was the overwhelming defeat by the voters of his 1973 proposed constitutional amendment to limit state spending and taxation.

Although public opinion polls showed his popularity was still high, Reagan decided against seeking a third term.

What is he doing now?

The 63-year-old retired governor is living at his home in Pacific Palisades, Calif., speaking out nationally on political issues, taping a syndicated daily radio broadcast, writing a weekly newspaper column and serving on President Ford's CIA investigating commission.

nite short supply.

"Right now, it appears that if we get a major curtailment of natural gas our only alternative is electricity. And the problem you run into there is a lack of equipment to convert a heating unit from gas to electricity."

Those are scary words in a region where natural gas is the primary source of heat.

McGuinn said construction of the new office building will start in April or May and it should be in operation by fall. The building will be hooked up to the local utility so that when there is no wind or sun, nobody will suffer. The building will also be equipped with a monitoring system so Menarco-McGuinn can determine how often the utility had to be used.

The building's heating system will be based on a 10,000 gallon water reservoir embedded in rock to retain heat. The water will be heated primarily by solar panels that consist of small diameter pipes behind a very fast black plastic that absorbs heat. The plastic is covered by glass to prevent reradiation of the heat.

McGuinn said that on hot summer days the panels can heat water to 165 degrees and more.

When the wind blows, the rotor windmills mounted on top of the building will start to spin, producing electricity with standard automobile alternators.

"We don't expect to get a lot of energy from these units, but we might get enough to keep the place warm overnight," McGuinn said.

The third unit of the heating system will be the ever-popular fireplace—with a new twist. Built into the fireplace will be a coil carrying water. The water will be heated by the fire and pumped back into the reservoir. McGuinn said he hopes the coil will make up for the heat lost through the chimney.

The heat will be distrbuted throughout the building by a coil beneath the floor. The heated water will be moved by tiny pumps powered by electricity from the utility company, but the cost will be minimal, McGuinn said.

The system should keep the building warm, even when the mercury drops to minus 20 or lower, he said. "The weakness in the system is that the building won't heat up rapidly. With conventional natural gas systems you can turn up that thermostat and within a few minutes feel the heat."

There are a couple of problems McGuinn feels must be solved before the system can be marketed.

"The switchover system has to be automatic so a man won't have to tell his wife over the phone which switches to throw just because the sun has gone down. The transfer to the utility has to be automatic."

Another problem is what to do with the water when subzero temperatures come along. McGuinn said they might have an automatic draining system or go to some form of antifreeze.

Compared with conventionally heated buildings, the one Menasco-McGuinn has planned will cost $5.00-$5.50 more per square foot to construct.

"But a person should make up that amount in a few years with utility bill savings," McGuinn said.

The system is marketable in McGuinn's estimation. "There are a lot of people interested in putting in solar energy. The market is there now. A few years ago you were fighting the market, but now there are people willing to put their name on a check because they are watching their utility bills rise faster than inflation."

He believes the system his company has envisioned can be used in at least part of every western state, and even as far east as Oklahoma.

"Hopefully," McGuinn said, "this is the part of the country where this will be used first on a reasonable scale. If we get it working here, that will give time to make the changeover to more efficient (alternative energy) systems for the entire country, except in those areas like Seattle where they have extensive cloud cover for long periods of time."

Foothill Guild spring party to benefit center

Knowing it will be a lucky day for them, members of Foothill Guild of the Crippled Children's Society have selected a St. Patrick's Day theme for their spring party Friday.

The Pomona Regional Center of the Crippled Children's Society, 480 S. Indian Hill Blvd., Claremont, will be the setting for the party which will be highlighted by a luncheon, fashion show and bridge.

Emerald green shamrocks and living plants will be used on the tables.

The general chairman, Mrs. Robert F. Miller, will be assisted by Mrs. John A. Evans. Other chairmen are Mmes. Rex Booth and Bob Bolinger, decorations; Kenneth R. Casey and Ralph E. Gain, tickets and reservations; Harold S. Edick, program; Fred C. Emerson, food; Carl G. Wilson, door prizes; Leslie Mann Jr., clean-up; and J.P. Rimer, publicity. The guild president, Mrs. Kenneth F. Russell, is committee adviser.

Wine punch will be served at 11:30 a.m. preceding the noon buffet luncheon.

Jo Ann Fitzgibbons will present a program of fashions, stressing color coordination, color harmony and color communication. She started in the fashion field as a model and has been involved as a fashion coordinator and in television.

Mrs. Fitzgibbons has served as a director of national beauty pageants, a teacher of color and fashion in colleges, and a director of modeling and fashion schools for young girls. She now conducts seminars in color, fashion and beauty.

Bridge will be played after the fashion show.

Proceeds from the party will assist the programs of the Pomona Regional Center. No fees are charged for the use of the center's services, which are supported by funds from an annual direct mail campaign.

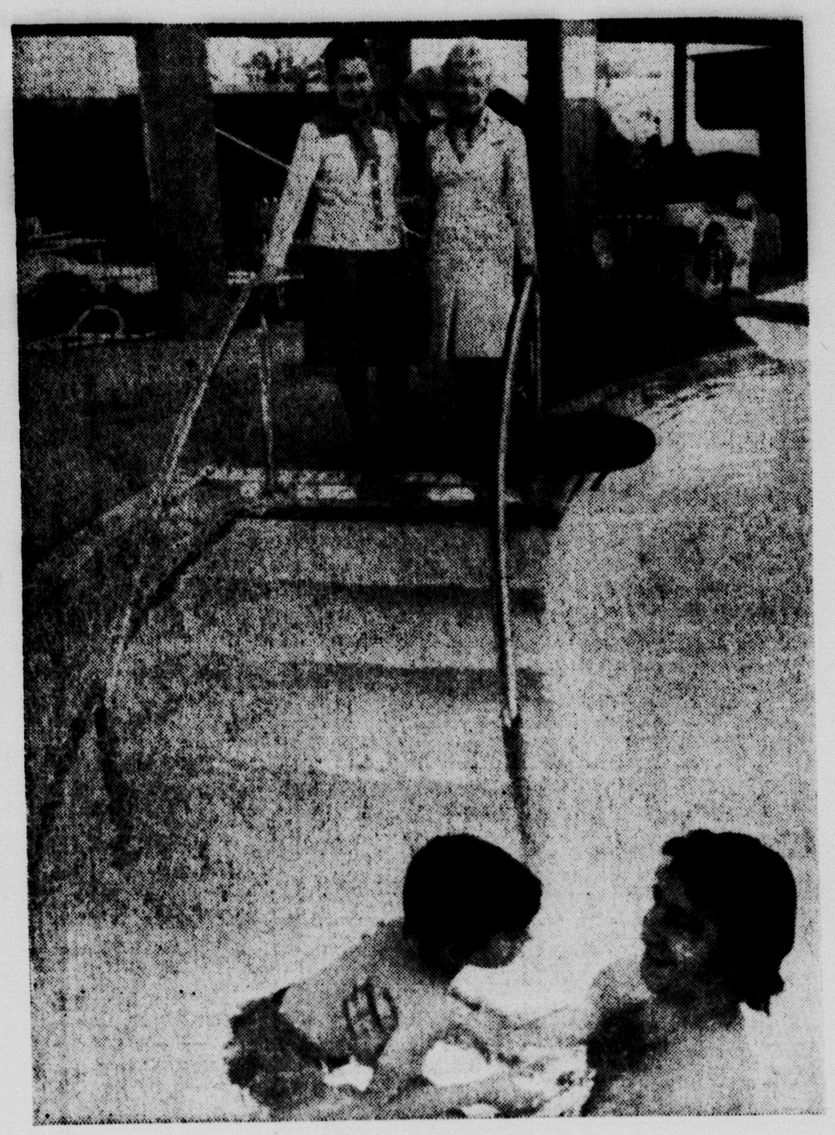
No invitations were mailed for this party, allowing the guild to eliminate the cost of invitations and mailing.

Reservations may be made by calling any guild member or the Crippled Children's Center, 621-4727.



SERVICE PROVIDED

Recreation director Steve Noceti assists Kane Biscaya, 4, in pool while Mrs. Arthur Stetten, left, and Mrs. Kenneth Casey watch. Party will help provide equipment for center.

SHAMROCKS USED

SETTING FOR PARTY

Mrs. Robert Miller, left, and Mrs. Kenneth F. Russell, president of Foothill Guild of the Crippled Children's Society, pause in front of the Pomona Regional Center where Friday party is slated.

The 'ouch lines' can determine your relationships with other people

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

Anyone stepped on your "ouch lines" lately?

They're there when you look in the mirror only you can't see them. They're there when you sleep, work, play, or pray.

Knowing about "ouch lines" can help you to a creative relationship instead of a power struggle when dealing with others. "Ouch lines" were invented by William V. Pietsch, a fulltime marriage, divorce and family counselor who divides his time between practice in Wilson, Conn., and Cocoa Beach, Fla.

There are three kinds of "ouch lines"—physical, moral, emotional. And Pietch draws them in a new book, "Human Be-ing" (Lawrence Hill & Co.).

"Most persons are not going to wade through a book full of psychological jargon to find out about easing tension in their homes, their offices or any human relationship—so I've drawn a lot of situations between the covers of this book," he said in an interview.

Pietsch, an ordained minister and former campus minister at Ohio State University in Columbus, turned to fulltime counseling when he completed a three-year residency in the American Foundation (of Religion and Psychiatry (now the Institute of Religion and Health.)

He studied for the ministry at Princeton Theological Seminary.

If another person invades that territory—moral, emotional physical—it pains you.

"When that happens," he said, "you've got to tell the other person to get off your ouch line. You cannot stand continuous pain."

"The most common error in attempting to improve relationships is trying to change the other person, rather than defining and defending our own territory.

"That goes for marriage, business, everything involving two humans . ."

Samples of physical "ouch lines"—in an office, a co-worker keeps pushing your desk back until you're cornered and you hardly have elbow room. Or someone comes up to tell you something and practically bangs you on the chest for emphasis.

Samples of moral "ouch lines"—your boss requires you to lie to enhance a business deal; your friend wants you to enter into a shady deal so he can make a killing in the stock market. His family needs the money but there's no living with the pain when he steps on your moral "ouch line."

You are one. The phone rings. You answer it and the other person can tell from the drift of the conversation who it is and says—"Oh, that's so and so and tell him I left town."

This person keeps up that line all the while you're on the phone, upsetting your emotional equilibrium. Defend your territory: "Tell that person you're getting frustrated and in a quiet way demand self respect," Pietsch said.

"Three things to keep in mmd when you are in a power struggle are trust, listening and clarity.

"It comes out to TLC, which isn't an accident. Tender, loving, care and trust, listening and clarity have a lot in common."

Trust in this instance means assuming that whatever the other person is feeling "makes sense to him or her."

"Listening" means trying to hear the deeper message of the emotions. Don't just listen to the words that are spoken. If uncertain, ask-"What do you mean?"

Asking that question in the middle of a marital power struggle may make the difference between staying together and breaking up.

Clarify means make clear. "You must demonstrate a willingness to listen by making clear what feelings have been hurt before discussing facts," Pietsch said.

"The biggest problem people have in changing the other person is that we try to tell them what the facts are—rather than getting understanding.

"We must hear the other person out, tune in the emotions.

"Our emotions are like steam in a pressure cooker and the facts are like food. If you want to get to the facts, you have to let the pressure down."

Pietsch has been married 25 years and is the father of two and foster parent to eight other young people.

In the book's foreword, Dr. George O'Neill, the co-author of "Open Marriage," says:

"Human Be-ing is a statement about the self and others that can be . . understood by young or old.

He says Pietsch helps with the problem areas of being a human.

"We are not born human—we are born homo sapiens with the capacity to be taught to be a human, to be taught humanness."

Attention, brides

The Progress-Bulletin Women's Department looks forward to printing the stories of your engagement and wedding.

Please pick up engagement and wedding forms at the newspaper office and return them with the picture you wish used.

Engagement forms are not accepted if they are received less than six weeks before the wedding, and wedding forms should be returned within two weeks after the wedding with a black and white picture of the bride only.

Susan Potter is wed in afternoon service

Miss Susan Marie Potter and Ens. Dwight Warner Handforth, USN, were united in marriage in an afternoon ceremony Saturday at Camp Hill Presbyterian Church in Camp Hill, Pa.

Daughter of Mrs. Ralph Earnest Jordan of Pomona and Edgar Andrews Potter of Greenville, S.C., the bride was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Handforth of Camp Hill.

For her marriage, the bride selected a gown of white organza with a high neckline and bishop sleeves. Appliques of venetian lace complemented the tucked bodice and trimmed the cuffs. A full skirt, bordered with a ruffled flounce, fell from the empire waist and extended into a chapel-length train.

A headband, appliqued in matching lace, held the bride's shoulder length veil. She carried a white Bible with orchids and hyacinths.

Miss Dolly Tsatsios was the maid of honor.

A reception at the Officers Club, U.S. Navy Ships Parts Control Center in Mechanicsburg, Pa., honored the newlyweds.

Pilot Club

Charts spring activity

"Trailblazing to New Horizons" is the challenging theme for Pilot International, classified service organization for executive and professional women.

Promoting friendship and service in the community and on the international level is stressed in the projects supported by the Pilot Club of Pomona Valley, Inc.

On March 15, the club will entertain friends at a fashion show and luncheon at 1 p.m. at Orlando's, 1700 W. Holt Ave., Pomona. Proceeds from the show will go towards the club's scholarship fund.

"Step into Spring" will be the theme for the show and it will be carried out in fashions by Casa Colina gift shop, coordinated by Mrs. June Wells.

Among the models will be the following Pilot Club members: Mrs. James R. Ledbetter, Governor of District 18; Mrs. Morris McCrossen, secretary of District 18; Mrs. Jan Schack, Mrs. Benjamin Helgar and Miss Elsie Fossum.

Miss Anne Wigley, club president, will open the program. Other committee members are Mrs. Schack, chairman, and Miss Ruth Weed, decorations chairman.

Reservations may be made by calling 593-5943 or 628-8546.

The two major projects of the Pilot Club of Pomona Valley are the scholarships for women studying on the graduate level, which the fashion show supports, and the Pomona Regional Center of the Crippled Children's Society of Los Angeles County.

Other club charities are Casa Colina Hospital, Cancer Association, Girl Scouts, Meals for Millions, S.S. Hope, the Heart Association and CARE Foundation.

Aglow unit will hear author

An author will be the speaker at the Tuesday meeting of Walnut-Diamond Bar Chapter of Women's Aglow Fellowship.

Coffee and rolls will be served at the beginning of the meeting at 9:30 a.m. at Diamond Bar Country Club, 22801 Golden Springs Drive, Diamond Bar.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Nancy Zundi, 595-1128, Mrs. Cecile Smith, 595-0974, or Mrs. Linda Murakami, (213) 965-5385.

Auto repair course set in Pomona

A free course in auto repair for women will be held on four consecutive Wednesdays, beginning this week at the Firestone store, 295 N. Garey Ave.

Instruction will be offered from 7 until 9 p.m. each week with service technicians Jack Harley, Jim Kazen and Albert Bellanger as instructors.

The course will be geared toward helping women handle minor problems and deal more confidently with service repairmen. Topics will include ignition, cooling system, muffler, brakes, front end problems and general information on how a car runs.

Reservations for the class may be made by contacting the store at 622-1365.

Guest day scheduled on Monday

The annual guest day will be observed by Pomona Women's Club Monday when the group meets in Fells Hall at Pilgrim Congregational Church at 1:30 p.m.

Mrs. Esther Cox will present a program, "Springtime in England, Ireland, Holland and Paris."

The thought for the day will be offered by Mrs. Alta Brown.

REVIEW PROGRAM — Mrs. Willa Williams, Mrs. Lou's Emery and Mrs. Marilyn Wentz, representing different groups within the YWCA, discuss many facets of program as they plan membership drive.

YWCA begins drive for new members

A 1975 goal of 1,000 members and a financial goal of $8,500 has been outlined by the YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley.

The basic program of the YWCA includes a variety of services for women and girls. The YW is seeking memberships and financial support, beginning Monday and continuing through March 21, to sustain its programs for Y-Teens, camps for girls, Big Sisters, single parents, juvenile diversion, rehabilitation projects and adult interests including YW Women, Las Companeras, Moms and Tots, Special Company—must group, crafts and skill classes, physical fitness, health consultation and Public Affairs forum.

Mrs. Marilyn Wentz, chairman of the campaign, is assisted by Mmes. Kathleen Kerwin, Johnnie Mae Williams, Pomona; Nancy Mainero, La Verne; Verda Carl, San Dimas; Ethel Mitchell, Ontario, Leah Beutel and Virginia Coffey, Upland; and Miss Virginia Covey, San Dimas.

Mrs. Wentz emphasizes that even though the YWCA membership is growing because the fee is held to $5, the YW exists largely on the generous gifts of the business and professional community.

Church unit schedules Tuesday meet

"China" is the theme for the meeting of United Methodist Women of Claremont United Methodist Church to be held Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the church Round Building.

Speaker will be Mrs. Ruth Graham, who with her husband, Lorenz, was recently a guest of the government of the People's Republic of China during the month-long celebration of the Republic's 25th anniverary. From her visits to communes, factories, schools and universities she will share her impressions of the "Women of China."

Mrs. Frances Gilry will sing and Mrs. Ruth Geer will give the devotions.

A Chinese luncheon will be prepared by Mrs. Susan Fan and will be served by members of Naomi Circle. Interested persons may attend the meeting.

Luncheon reservations may be made by calling the church office, 624-2342.

Gold Star unit plans meeting

The American Gold Star Mothers will meet at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Naval Reserve Training Center in Pomona.

All Gold Star mothers are invited to attend and to bring items to be sold in the booth at the Flea Market to be held March 16 from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. in Upland Memorial Park.

What's Going On At Griswold's

Our Master Baker, Hugh, is astonishing us with so many new scrumptous goodies every day, it's hard to walk by without being tempted to taste each and everyone —two new ones are raspberry or apricot filled Linzer torte and a real yummy chocolate Parisienne cake with chocolate whipped cream icing, topped with chocolate shavings. Remember too, our Leprechann is baking cup cakes, shamrock cookies and many St. Patricks day items. "Ah the Luck of the Irish"
The Easter bunny is already at work decorating eggs and filling our gift shop with cute Easter gifts — it's a busy time and lots of fun at Griswolds.

Casa Colina charts benefit horse show

The show is sponsored by the hospital's auxiliary and the Pacific Coast Walking Horse Association to support the Casa Colina Hospital Children's Developmental Services, located on hospital grounds.

Shows will begin at 8:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m., and 7:30 p.m. Highlights of the evening show will include a Southern Belles and Beaux of the Mid-1800's class with costumes, and the division championships.

A perpetual trophy for the Amateur Championship Show Horse has been provided by the hospital's board of directors and will be presented by Wilhelm Clasen, president of the board. The City Cousins of Casa Colina, Pasadena, have donated a perpetual trophy for the Junior Equitation on Park Pleasure or Plantation Horses, which will be presented by Mrs. George Boeck, president of City Cousins.

Food and beverages will be provided throughout the day by auxiliary members. The Casa Colina Candystripers will operate a coffee bar and baked goods booth.

Children who will benefit from the event are taking part in three programs which include therapeutic preschool classes, an outreach program for Head Start and day care classes, and a family guidance program. They range in ages from 12 months to 10 years, and come from many communities in the greater Pomona Valley.

Mrs. Jack Hoxsey is coordinator for the show and Mrs. Anne McCutchan of Rancho Santa Fe, president of the Pacific Coast Walking Horse Association, will coordinate show activities.

There is no admission charge to the show.

AARP unit will meet Monday

Pomona Central Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will meet at 2 p.m. Monday at Pilgrim Congregational Church, 600 N. Garey Ave., for an Easter program.

Fran McCreery, a retired educator, will narrate and show educational slides of the Holy Land. The slides were taken during many travels in the Far East.

There will be an Irish sing-along to celebrate St. Patrick's Day. A social hour will follow the meeting.

Chapter PD

The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be at the home of Mrs. William Young, 10233 Camulos Ave., Montclair. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. D. M. Mayer and Mrs. Margaret Reel.

Chapter PR

A program, "The Unbroken Band," will be presented by Mrs. Clark Hungerford when members of Chapter PR, PEO Sisterhood, meet at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. William Montgomery, 727 Purdue Drive, Claremont.

Assisting hostesses for the luncheon will be Mrs. John Keester, Mrs. Thomas Holland, Mrs. Fred Bruderlin and Mrs. J. M. Robinson.

Housekeepers set meeting

National Executive Housekeepers Association will hear a talk by Russ Franklin of World Film Productions, Inc., when the group meets at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Kaiser Hospital.

The meeting is open to all persons working in the housekeeping field.

Natural look

The "Natural Look" where make-up is concerned is always right for the beach scene, the cocktail hour and the evening look for summer. It's really not hard to achieve with mascara that is waterproof, pale lipsticks and hairdos that are simple making the whole look easy to achieve.

Vows said by couple

The marriage of Miss Elaine S. Kretheotis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Kretheotis of Indianapolis, Ind., to S. Scott Selby of La Verne, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Selby, Phoenix, Ariz., was solemnized in a double-ring ceremony Monday in Las Vegas.

Best man was Joseph P. Walko.

The couple will reside in La Verne.

From mouths of real authorities (teenagers)

By United Press International

Teen-agers are the world's greatest authorities on everything. Right? Right.

Then let it be said once and for all that women are more emotional than men.

And let it also be said once and for all that men are not more intelligent than women.

Those two great issues in the battle of the sexes were settled when 23,105 of the nation's top high school seniors and juniors were polled on 159 topics — ranging from Watergate to premarital sex.

Topic 72 A: "Do you feel women are more emtoional than men?"

Answers —yes, 67 per cent; no, 30 per cent.

Topic 72 B: "Do you feel men are more intelligent than women?"

Answers —yes, 9 per cent; no, 86 per cent.

The teen-agers are listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students" (Educational Communications). They were polled last summer and many now are college freshmen.

Students were recommended for listing on the basis of leadership and achievement.

Dubbed "The Watergate Generation" (coming of voting age during the last two years of political trauma across the land the students won't be pushovers in the voting booth.

Eighty-one per cent believe their elected representatives lack honor and integrity. Eighty-three per cent think the American system does not dispense justice equally, and 73 per cent believe most major political campaigns involve espionage in which punishable crimes are committed by both parties.

To win the votes of today's student leaders, it's better for a candidate to be honest and earnest than Democrat or Republican, the survey showed. Cynicism toward politicians has led to a ditching of party labels. Eighty-three per cent said they would take an independent-split ticket approach to voting.

The students also opt for elimination of state presidential primaries. They want one big national primary. No more political conventions.

Other highlights of the survey:

For the second consecutive year students ranked solutions of the country's economic problems first on their list of national priorities. Double-digit inflation has affected the quantity and quality of the food that students and their families eat (63 per cent), the amount they spend for leisure activities (66 per cent), their family savings (63 per cent) and the clothes they buy (56 per cent). Forty-seven per cent say the economic situation will influence their choice of college and 27 per cent say it may affect whether they can continue their education.

They place primary blame for the economic situation on politicians, but labor unions also get blamed. Fifty-two per cent of the students would allow unions to strike only if the national welfare or economy is not endangered. Sixty-two per cent feel organized labor holds too much power in relation to the rest of the economy.

The energy crisis. Seventy-four per cent say the producers are consciously limiting supplies to boost prices and snuff out competition.

Foreign policy. Most okay foreign aid for domestic and social development but not for military affairs.

Middle East. Support for active U. S. involvement in a Mid-East war has increased from 24 per cent to 42 per cent since 1972. It is still opposed by 49 per cent, however.

Public Access to Information. Seventy-eight per cent feel the government regulates news information by controlling the news it releases to the media. Forty-seven per cent feel the media present a fair and unbiased view of the news "the majority of the time."

The Army. If the U. S. went to war, fifty-eight per cent would not volunteer. Forty-nine per cent feel that in a war the volunteer army will do as well as past draftees; 47 per cent do not.

Women's Movement. The Equal Rights Amendment is favored by 75 per cent of the male and 74 per cent of the female students. Both sexes also strongly support equal pay for equal work. Most also approve of government-funded child-care centers.

Marriage. Most think household tasks should be shared. Most think divorce is indicated when marriage doesn't work. Their families, most said, will include two or fewer children.

Premarital Sex. Thirty-two per cent disapprove —compared to only 53 per cent taking the same stance in 1970.

Drugs. Most believe drugs are downers. But 44 per cent socialize with friends who are drug users and carry drugs on their person or in their cars.

Wine and Beer. Eighty one per cent have sipped some. And 63 per cent say they have had hard liquor. The increase in teen-age drinking, up considerably since 1971, was linked to easier availability of alcohol and, in 37 per cent of the cases, to parents who condone drinking at family gatherings.

This busy generation's leisure activities, in order of frequency, includes sports, reading, friends, playing music and listening to same.

They see controlling inflation and stabilizing the economy as the nation's top priority, followed by additional progress in ecology and final settlement of Watergate.

Asked who made the greatest contribution to the world in their lifetime, they answered: "Henry Kissinger, John F. Kennedy, Golda Meir.

CONTROVERSIAL GRANT — Dr. David J. Kallen of Michigan State University's human development department, is the center of a congressional rhubarb involving his federally funded grant of $342,000 to study sexual habits of young adults and teenagers. Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wisconsin) is leading a battle to rescind the grant on grounds the study violates privacy. Dr. Kallen said the study is necessary to understand attitudes of the nation's youth and their use of contraceptives.

Eighth week of steady gains

Market strength confounds even skeptics

By FRANK SLUSYEC
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market rose to its highest level in six months by scoring its eight weekly gain of the new year this week in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Its unusual strength continued to confound analysts and prompted even skeptics on Wall Street to talk of the birth of a baby bull market. And it brought fears of a belated and severe correction.

So far this year, the Dow has gained 153 points. Since falling to its 1974 low of 577.60 on Dec. 6, the closely watched average has risen 192.50 points.

The picture was much the same for the other averages. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index climbed 2.71 to 84.30. And the New York Stock Exchange common stock index rose 1.48 to 444.55

Advances routed declines, 1,362 to 448 among the 1,992 issues traded. Volume soared to 130,070,110 shares from 92,841,050 last week and 84,121,130 the same week a year ago. This week's total was second only to the 145,689,486 shares traded the week ending Jan. 31. It included a 34,140,000-shares day Tuesday, the second heaviest session in NYSE history.

What everyone on Wall Street has been waiting for is a major correction —a lengthy profit taking retreat. But every time such action appeared to have begun, the market roared onward and upward at an incredible rate. Just how long can this last?

Analysts are worried the market will advance so far that when the correction does occur it will be severe and may tend to create confusion and discouragement.

Just about all news developments, no matter how gloomy, are being viewed by investors from the positive side. And the market had some things going for it this week.

Many said the market's rise this week was based on reports oil producing nations were shaving prices. This speculation was dimmed somewhat when members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Nations meeting in Algiers approved some tough resolutions and voted a five-year freeze on "real" oil prices.

Most observers noted there's considerable money still waiting to come into securities and interest rates are falling sharply. Many banks this week lowered their prime lending rate to 7 ¾ per cent, the lowest level since June, 1973.

Late Friday, the Federal Reserve Board, which has tried unsuccessfully to increase the nation's money supply, lowered the discount rate it charges member banks for overnight loans to 6 ¼ per cent from 6 ¾ per cent—the fourth reduction in three months. This could keep the rally going next week, unless investors, who had been talking about such a cut, already have discounted the news.

Observers noted a a sharp recovery in the dollar on foreign exchanges just prior to that announcement and it may have helped the stock market. Experts said the recovery was based on a number of factors, including the lower prime rates.

Inventor beating odds

INVENTOR NORMAN HABER

NEW YORK (UPI) — There aren't supposed to be one-man inventors around anymore.

Computers and chemical coatings for frying pans and such-like are sired by committees, corporate teams of researchers who rely on anything but serendipity.

In contrast, Norman Haber mostly works alone. He does his tinkering in a small laboratory and his ideas are radical. But Haber just won a series of patents involving a chemical process called "Electro Molecular Propulsion." It is a process other scientists believe may prove revolutionary.

Electro Molelcular Propulsion is a complicated process, difficult even for trained chemists to understand. But scientists can see many potential uses for the process, which separates chemical components at a speed and purity hitherto unknown.

Haber already has applied the process to a machine that analyzes blood at record speeds. And in laboratory conditions, it has been used to separate precious metals, such as gold, from less useful materials.

Several large U.S. corporations and one European nation have opened negotiations with Haber, seeking licenses to use the process, he disclosed in an interview. Haber won't identify them, except to say the nation is in Scandinavia.

Haber, 46, holds a masters degree and has 20 years of professional experience in chemistry and related fields. He spent several years working part time for a doctorate, but suspended that pursuit as he devoted the last five years to developing Electro Molecular Propulsion.

The discovery came about, he said, while he was trying to find methods to improve electrophoresis, a process involving an electromotive force which is used in the separation of various colloids, such as proteins.

Haber was aware he had discovered a new technique, but did not immediately realize that conceptually it was an entirely new process. When he finally realized what virgin ground he was on, Haber attempted without success to find a sponsor so he could pursue his research.

Haber said he went to the federal government and various foundations but "being an independant researcher not associated with a university, I found they did not look kindly upon giving me any grant."

So he approached friends and raised "a few thousand dollars" to form a small corporation two years ago to develop the new process. Haber Instruments Inc., now operates out of a small lab in suburban Palisades Parks, N.J.

Electro Molelcular Propulsion, or EMP, has as its basis the constant molelcular activity that is present in any substance. Using chemical and electrical techniques involving very high voltage, Haber said, he has been able to "trigger" a type of molecular activity unique to the substance formed by the molecules.

In effect, he said, this is an ability to perform chemical separations at heretofore unknown speeds and purity.

In his first application of the process, Haber developed a machine about the size of a table-top television which, he said, can perform complicated blood separations in seconds, instead of hours.

He also claims to have applied EMP to separations involving gold, platinum, rare earths and other materials.

Art exhibit held in Ontario

An exhibition of oils and watercolors, both florals and scenics, by Mariam Senseman Perry is on view this month in the multipurpose room of the Ontario Public Library.

The landscapes include scenes of Upland, Laguna Beach, Yosemite, Healdsburg, Carmel and the desert.

Mrs. Perry is the daughter and niece of artists. Her uncle has exhibited his work in the Louvre Museum in Paris.

Mrs. Perry graduated from the Moore Institute of Art, Science and Industry in Philadelphia, Pa., and has won numerous scholarships and fellowships. Her professional career included work in textile design, and topography and mapping for the federal government during World War II.

Musical 'Pinocchio' scheduled at Citrus

A pop music version of "Pinocchio," adapted from "Pinocchio in Africa," will be presented by the Citrus College Drama Department Friday, Saturday and next Sunday and the following weekend.

Pinocchio comes to America in this totally different story. It brings only Pinocchio and Cricket from the original version, and features a host of new characters.

The musical, adapted by Michael Stephen Peru and Michael Tice, Citrus students, will be presented in the Little Theater. Peru, a drama major, has directed several shows at Citrus, including "Alice in Wonderland" and "Romeo and Juliet." "Pinocchio" marks his first attempt at writing the lyrics of a play. He is coordinating the entire production. In addition to directing the play, he will design the costumes and the set.

Tice, a music major, has written the musical score, his first attempt in this field. He plays guitar in the Citrus Chamber Singers combo.

The adapted story of Pinocchio depicts the growth of a puppet who has become a live boy, and must now begin to act like one.

Some 75 Citrus College students are involved in the production. Jacqueline O'Rourke, speech and drama instructor, and Clifford D. Davidson, auditorium stage manager, will assist. Choreographer is Marian Bodnar, a member of Citrus Chamber Singers, who appeared in "Carousel" in 1974.

Live music will be provided by Citrus students, many of them members of the Stage Band. "We're featuring the music that young people listen to now," Peru says.

The Saturday performances will be at 1 and 3 p.m. The Sunday shows will be at 2 and 4 p.m. Two other performances, geared for mature audiences, will be presented on Friday nights, March 14 and 21, at 8 p.m.

Music, drama and art

Local artist showing work at Griswold's

Fierros, a Progress-Bulletin printer for 15 years, began the hobby of painting on canvas and velvet shortly after joining the company. The arts and crafts pasttime has become a free-lance artistic venture. Fierros has exhibited his works at the Pomona Library, the California Museum of Science and Industry, local credit unions and banks.

The exhibit in Griswold's Old School House gallery will feature rings, pendants, necklaces, portraits and landscapes. The gallery is open 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays.

MINIATURE ART — Pomona artist Al Fierros looks over some of the works he is exhibiting this month at Griswold's Art Gallery in Claremont. The show includes paintings, brooches, miniatures and rocks. Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

First X-ray machine

The first X-ray machine in the United States was exhibited Jan. 18, 1896, at the Casino Chambers, New York City. Viewers were charged 25 cents admission to see the "Parisian sensation."

At Pomona library

David Villasenor holding exhibit of sand painting

Sand paintings by nationally known California artist David V. Villasenor are on exhibit through March 18 at the Pomona Public Library.

Sand painting, Villasenor explains, is an old Southwest Indian art in which a medicine man "paints" loosely on the ground by letting different colored sands flow through his fingers.

Villasenor's unique contribution to art is to have developed a method of preserving sand paintings through the combining of a plastic adhesive with natural-color sands and minerals applied to a plyboard base.

A native of Mexico, Villasenor was educated in Cruz Galvez, an industrial and graphic arts school in Hermosillo, Sonora, Mexico. At the age of 16, he emigrated to the United States, living with the Navajo Indians in the Nogales and Tucson area.

In 1942 he joined the U.S. Army and became a U.S. citizen. He served as a medical artist and anatomical sculptor. Additionally he was assigned to the universities of New Mexico and Denver where he delivered over 250 lectures on arts, crafts and inter-American relations.

He has appeared frequently on television and participated in the making of several documentary films. In collaboration with his wife, Jean, he is the author of three books: "How-to-do Nature Printing," "Tapestries in Sand" and "How-to-do Permanent Sand Painting."

Realty group shows gain in referrals

The Homes for Living Network (HLN) ended 1974 with a substantial increase in the number of families it assisted being transferred and in total dollar volume of referral business generated between network members.

The HLN, with national headquarters in St. Louis, Mo., is a national marketing network of Realtors comprised of more than 1,000 real estate offices in all 50 states and Puerto Rico.

Through numerous programs and services, network members serve the vital needs of home buyers and sellers.

The number of relocating families being referred between HFL members increased 20 per cent in 1974, amounting to over $52 million in referral sales documented by members.

With about 40 per cent of the 1,000 HFL offices actually reporting referral statistics to the HFL headquarters, it was estimated that total sales generated was in excess of $120 million.

Taste for honey

The taste for honey is age-old. Aristotle called it "dew distilled from the stars and the rainbow." In the Middle Ages, honey came into its own as a medicine for "grumbling in the guts" and "wambling stomach."

Families find many uses for the empty bedrooms

When there are only two of you living in a four bedroom house —especially when you're in the "empty nester" rather than the "family planning" stage of life —you tend to the defensive.

No one seems at all hesitant to comment why "two of you want ALL THAT room:" or "I don't see why you don't get a convenient little apartment;" or "the work in this place must be too much for you."

Granted, the usual state of housekeeping gives reason for the last comment. Still, over the years you waver in explanations: Polite —a bigger place is always easier to sell; true, but not at all the real reason. Defensive —well, with the animals, and the family coming home on visits, and you never know when mother and dad may want to move in with us; even we can't pretend each cat needs a bedroom of its own, daughter and her family get home rarely, and the last thing mother and dad would think of is giving up their home. Belligerent: no, we bought the place AFTER Judy married, we like the room, we use it —in fact, we're thinking of adding on; these are the real reasons.

Now, we find, we're not alone. Comes word from Spring Air Mattress Co., Chicago, a firm which for obvious reasons is interested in how many bedrooms a family wants: "With all you hear and read about zero population growth, you'd think people would want fewer bedrooms in their homes and apartments. It's just not so."

According to Spring Air, 54.7 per cent of families interested in single-family homes want three bedrooms and 33.4 per cent want four bedrooms. This despite the fact census figures show average household size dropped to 2.97 persons in 1974 from 3.31 persons 10 years earlier.

Among people who prefer attached-type housing, including townhouses and condominiums, 42.3 per cent want three bedrooms, 34.6 per cent want two, and 19.2 per cent want four bedrooms. For the most part, Spring Air said, these families are smaller than the ones who live in standard single-family homes.

"Bedrooms are so important to families that many would rather accept a home with a partial basement or a home with one-car garage or carport as a trade-off for more bedrooms," says Sally Ames, consultant to Spring Air. She offers a number of reasons.

"Privacy probably is the main reason," she said. "The bedroom is clearly an individual room, in contrast to other rooms of the home which the family shares. It's the one room of the home where you can go and be alone."

Status is another reason. There was a time when only the very rich could afford homes with a bedroom for every member of the family. Almost everyone else had to double up in the bedroom. "But a person today who remembers what it was like to share a room, now wants something better for his or her children, and homes with more bedrooms are the answer," Ames said.

Salability is a factor. Homes with three or four bedrooms generally sell better than those with only one or two.

Another reason, she said, is that bedrooms often serve another use, such as den, sewing room, painter's studio or hobby room. "A husband and wife living alone in a three-bedroom house or apartment might very well use one bedroom for sleeping quarters, the second as a guest room, and the third as a den, office or studio."

Exactly! And the fourth? Right now, the smallest is a catchall, which serves as everything from workshop for the project of the moment, to storeroom, to guest room on those rare occasions when the whole family is at home on a visit.

Pure luxury. We have no intention of giving it up. We're not going to feel even slightly guilty anymore. If we can afford it, we may just add on that screened dining porch we've wanted.

Home plan combines living, dining areas

By HIAWATHA ESTES

Building a home can be one of life's most enjoyable experiences or it can be something of a headache. The option is largely up to you and the amount of planning and preparation you give the project.

One of the first decisions that must be made is selecting the floor plan layout and exterior design you prefer. The least expensive and most efficient way to make this decision is to purchase our six books which illustrate in excess of 750 possible combinations of homes.

Here we have illustrated just one of the homes which is published in our books. From the graceful, well-proportioned lines of the gable roofs to the livable floor plan design, this is an exceptional home.

Only a small amount of space has been utilized to form a convenient center hall plan. Accessibility is further enhanced by locating a door in the wall between the garage and service.

The living room and dining have been combined in one spacious room. Sliding glass doors open from this room and the master bedroom to the patio, which will double as an outdoor living area.

To obtain a more interesting design, the front wall of this Spanish exterior continues past the bedroom to provide space for an entry arch with ornamental iron gates and to also support an extension of the tile roof.

This same basic exterior is also available in a three bedroom floor plan, at a ditferent price structure, and is illustrated in our book, Homes by Hiawatha.

Complete working drawings for plan 41103 can be purchased for only $12.67 for the first set and $7.42 for each additional set ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these special prices until June 2, 1975. Please allow at least three weeks for delivery. A specification booklet is available for $1.06.

A large reproduction rendering of the exterior is available for $1.60. The following home plan books are also available: Town & Country Homes —$1.59, Distinctive Homes —$1.59; Prize Homes—$1.59; Hallmark Homes —$1.59; Homes by Hiwawatha — $1.59; Ranch & Modern Homes —$2.39. All six books — a $10.34 value—for only $8.22. Orders for less than three books, please add an extra 20 cents per book for postage and handling. Prices include sales tax. Send all orders to: Hiawatha Estes P.O. Box 404-PO, Northridge, Calif. 91324.

Lewis Homes project:

Second Upland unit has earlier start

Rapid sales at the Lewis Homes — Upland development have caused the builders to start construction on the second unit earlier than planned, said Richard A. Lewis, president.

The new group of 38 homes will occupy a site adjacent to the current unit on 15th Street west of San Antonio Avenue in Upland.

The new unit will introduce a four bedroom floor plan characterized by a spacious master bedroom suite and "oversize" eating and beverage bar that connects the kitchen and family room, said Lewis.

The Upland homes feature shake roofs, three car garages and lots of 10,000 square feet or more. The one and two story structures have up to 2,194 square feet of living area.

The houses include wood burning fireplaces, formal dining rooms and shag wall-to-wall carpeting. The kitchens have luminous ceilings, double ovens, ranges, dishwashers and waste disposals.

Homes are priced from $43,350, with financing at 7¾ per cent interest rate offered to qualified veterans. FHA and conventional terms are also available.

Honey factory

Without nectar, there could not be honey. The flower nectar, mixed with enzymes within the bee's body, breaks down into dextrose and levulose, both simple sugars. This thin, partly ripened honey is stored in open cells in the bee hive, and the bees fan their wings in front of the cells to evaporate excess water.

More 'singles' buy homes:

State's housing industry shows gain as predicted

The recovery of home building in California is keeping pace with predictions in early January. In fact, it might be "ahead of schedule."

Richard C. Farrer of Hayward, president of the 78,000-member California Association of Realtors predicted Jan. 10 in San Francisco that the housing market would be well on the road to economic recovery by mid-1975. One reason may be more "singles" buying homes.

He was one of the few persons in the nation who then saw an upturn in the housing market.

His prediction was supported by the Bank of America which reported this week that new housing starts in January rose 24 per cent over the previous month.

"This is one of the encouraging signs which shows the mild recovery in home building has not only begun but has every indication of continuing," he added.

"The steady decline in interest rates and the heavier flow of funds into the mortgage lending institutions are other bright signs."

Farrer said the Bank of America's report that building permits issued during January for single family units were up 6.1 per cent from the same month last year is pleasant news.

"And the fact that the same bank reports that new housing starts in this state totaled 84,000 units in January, compared to 68,000 the previous month, is demonstrative of what we have been saying all along. That is this.

"If interest rates keep declining, and more money is allowed to flow by lending institutions, then new housing starts will result because the demand for new, as well as existing housing, is here."

Reflecting Farrer's optimism, a San Francisco Wells Fargo Bank executive recently reported that "the outlook is somewhat brighter than it has been at any time in the last 24 months."

Farrer said he believes the fundamental upside change in the housing picture in California is the surge of savings flowing into the thrift institutions, and the consequent easing of mortgage rates.

"The housing market outlook will get even brighter," Farrer predicted "and I think most persons are just now beginning to see the results of what we predicted some seven short weeks ago. The signs are visible and an even greater upturn is coming.

Farrer said one chief reason the state's housing picture will brighten is that an increasing number of single persons are recognizing the many plusses of home ownership and are deciding to buy rather than rent.

Recent figures reveal the number of government-backed loans from the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration for single persons who own homes and condominiums has risen so that the home-owning single is now being referred to as a trend.

Figures from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) regional office in San Francisco show the percentage of insured mortgages which went to "unwed purchasers" or "unwed mortgagors" for the last four calendar quarters has steadily increased for both new and existing homes.

There has also been a dramatic increase in recent months of the number of credit applications processed for single persons, officials added.

"The reasons single people cite for purchasing rather than renting are often the same as families. They are proud to own and maintain a home, eager to be a contributor to the community, realize tax deductions and equity build-up, make ownership a good investment, enjoy decorating their surroundings as they please, and above all cherish the privacy their own home offers," reported Farrer.

Singles have also acquired a respectable image in the mortgage lending market, he added. "This may be because they're better educated and more affluent than ever before, but I also believe it's also because of the advantages of home ownership and they have the earning power and credit power to meet home ownership requirements.

HUD and banking officials agree that many single persons taking the step to the "American dream" of owning their own home are condominium buyers, he said.

Builders and developers in California are beginning to recognize this trend and aim their marketing focus more toward singles.

"Singles, like so many families, are choosing the advantage of home ownership over the relatively carefree living and predictable costs of renting — another one of the major reasons why California's housing market is on the upgrade despite gloom forecast by some national economists," said Farrer.

Apartment group has speaker

J. W. Davis, an Upland tax and business consultant, will be speaker at the Apartment Association, Mt. Baldy area, monthly meeting on Wednesday.

He will discuss "Maintenance of Books and Records, Tax Aspects and Considerations."

The program starts at 7:30 p.m. at the Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association building, Indian Hill and Foothill boulevards, Claremont.

Also on the program will be the reenactment of a small claims court case and discussion of new legislation concerning abandonment.

Edison Co. signs for generators

The Southern California Edison Co. has signed a contract with Westinghouse Electric Corp. to purchase four steam turbine generators for the Kalparowits Power Project in southern Utah.

Commitment for the fossil fuel generating equipment is valued in excess of $100 million, said Robert N. Coe, Edison's senior vice president.

The Edison Co. is project director for the proposed coal-fired generating station which is estimated to cost in excess of $2 billion.

The Utah project will be constructed by Edison and other electric utilities to provide a major source of electric generation for the Southwest.

Present participants and their project shares are Southern California Edison, 40 per cent; Arizona Public Service, 18 per cent; Salt River Project, 10 per cent; and the San Diego Gas & Electric Co., 23.4 per cent. There is an unassigned interest of 8.6 per cent.

The four steam turbine-generator units will be rated at 845,000 gross kilowatts each. It is anticipated the entire project will be in operation by 1983.

Public hearings on the proposed project are expected to be held later this year.

Families find good investment in the purchase of a home

The emotional satisfaction that home ownership brings is reason enough for many people to purchase a home.

But tempering this with good, common sense and a realistic look into the financial aspects of owning a home offers a solid foundation for such a decision, said Walter C. Arnold, president of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors.

"For those who refuse to be swayed by emtoional appeal, there is an excellent reason that can be measured in terms of dollars. Home ownership is a good investment."

Some people may argue that investing in bonds and renting a home makes as much economic sense, he noted.

"Let's find out. Take two families. The head of both families earn $25,000 annually and are in similar economic and tax situations. One family owns its home and the other rents. The homes are identical."

Each home costs $40,000 and real estate taxes are $2,000 annually. Both renter and homeowner pay $5,200 for their living quarters, the former in rent and the second for interest payments, maintenance, repairs and real estate taxes, said Arnold. Both families provide their own heat, hot water and electric bills.

"The homeowner gets tax benefits from his interest and real estate tax payments. The renter, who pays these charges indirectly, gets no tax deductions from any of the money he pays in rent.

"Years later, the picture is even brighter for the homeowner. His 25-or 30-year mortgage has been fully amortized. He now owns his $40,000 house free and clear. His mortgage is fully paid, so he gets no tax deductions for interest. He still pays real estate taxes and receives a federal income tax saving there," he noted.

"The renter — who, let's say, now owns $40,000 in 8 per cent blue chip bonds — still indirectly pays the real estate tax bill as well as tax on the income his blue chips give him annually. Furthermore, rents usually go up as the cost of living increases, while the homeowner's principal and interest payments remain the same for the full term of his mortgage.

"Once again, the homeowner has come out ahead of the renter in the tax picture . . . to say nothing of the feeling of security that comes from owning a home — and the knowledge that his home is a safeguard against inflation, the knowledge that he has acquired a major possession, an established credit rating, feelings of satisfaction and pride."

In state Assembly:

Property tax reform bill moves forward

One of the major tax reform bills before the California Legislature has passed the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee, said Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist.

McVittie, co-author of AB 25 and the committee's vice chairman, said the measure will provide for automatic increases in the homeowners' exemptions, renters credit and certain benefits under the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Law.

The increased exemptions, he explained, will be proportionate to the Cost of Living index established by the Consumer Price Index.

"Double digit inflation has created double digit property tax increases," he added. "The bill is the first step in curbing excessive property tax increases which is one of the biggest issues facing the 1975 Legislature."

McVittie said he has received hundreds of letters from throughout the state by persons seeking property tax relief.

"Successful passage of AB 25 will not only help property owners but will allow renters and senior citizens an increased exemption as well."

The bill is one of several indexing measures pending this year designed to provide cost of living increases in the areas of taxation.

AB 25 will now go to the Assembly Ways and Means Committee for consideration, said McVittie.

Solon got 'fired up' for debate

Then, as Schechter was being questioned recently by Sen. Richard Webster, his colleagues began yelling. Other senators around Schechter pointed toward his feet.

Looking down, Schechter saw flames coming from the wastebasket.

A Senate doorkeeper rushed over, grabbed the wastebasket and ran to a nearby restroom, where the flames were extinguished.

"Did the Senator from the 13th get all fired up?," Sen. Jack Gant, who was presiding, inquired.

Then Sen. William Baxter Waters, who has tried unsuccessfully to ban smoking in the Senate chamber, rose and asked his colleagues seriously to consider a special section on the floor where those who smoke would be isolated from the rest.

Cleaned of bacteria

Fish fed to penguins in zoos must be scrupulously cleaned of bacteria. Because the air in their natural habitat, Antarctica is nearly germ-free, the birds are highly susceptible to infection.

Brave new world

Giant step back?

NEW YORK (UPI) — The rising cost of energy could mean the end of industrialized society as we have known it for the past century, according to a University of Florida researcher.

Thomas A. Robertson, coordinator of the university's energy center at Gainesville, said the counter-productive tendencies of today's high energy industrial system are so glaring "they reveal today's profit as tomorrow's losses."

Robertson based his prediction largely on the "net energy" philosophy of his colleague, Howard T. Odum, graduate professor of environmental engineering at Gainesville. Odum recently said changes in (the output and cost of) net energy are the fundamental cause of inflation.

He also said the only solution for the energy problems the world now faces is to abandon the present high energy industrial civilization and return to the "steady" slow-growth or growthless society envisioned a century ago by the English philosopher, John Stuart Mill.

Odum's idea of a brave new world is almost the exact opposite of the world described by Aldous Huxley in his famous novel.

Odum urges a return to a largely agricultural way of life with minimal use of machinery and chemical fertilizers. He is all for putting ecological considerations first and believes in the long run that will pay off economically.

Why does Odum think this?

Because he thinks most forms of energy produced from fuels will become too expensive to let the highly industrialized society pay its way when the burden of inflation this cost imposes on mankind is considered.

The kernel of Odum's argument is that we must stop thinking about energy in terms of dollar price and think of it in terms of its usefulness —net energy. "It takes energy to produce energy," he explains. "Therefore, using existing fuels to develop costly new sources of energy is simply throwing good money after bad."

Odum has used the electronic computer to determine what he considers to be the net energy value of the various fuels now available and those alternative fuels being considered. He measures the net energy recovered in calories and the results make rather somber reading.

For example, he finds Arab oil, even at $10 a barrel, still is the cheapest fuel by far that man has available. It produces 5.5 calories of energy for every calorie put into producing it.

Strip mined western coal will produce three calories for every calorie put into producing it, according to Odum's computer model.

Nuclear power plants, even under optimum conditions, yield only two or three calories for each calorie put in and usually much less, he found.

NOTICE INVITING BIDS FOR CASH CONTRACT NO. 4306 VALLEY BOULEVARD

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the Road Commissioner of the County of Los Angeles in Room 180, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033, until 9:30 a.m. on April 1, 1975; and then will be publicly opened and read in Room 183 at the above address for the construction of cement concrete planter curb, installation of polyethylene film water barrier and irrigation system, landscaping work, plant maintenance and other incidental and appurtenant work estimated to cost less than $57,000.00, all in accordance with the provisions of the Plans, Specifications, Notices and Instructions to Bidders therefor which are on file and open for inspection at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department.

The Engineer may, from time to time and without Board approval, issue addenda to the contract documents during the period of advertising for bids for the following purposes: (a) revising Prevailing Wage Scales, (b) clarifying or correcting special provisions, plans or bid proposal; provided, however, that any such addenda shall not change the original scope and intent of the project.

Purchasers of contract documents shall be notified of and furnished with copies of such addenda, either by certified mail or personal delivery, during the period of advertising.

Proposal must be submitted on forms prepared and furnished for the purpose, which may be obtained at the Information Desk in the lobby of the Los Angeles County Road Department Administration Building, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033 at which office bidders may also purchase copies of the Plans and Specifications for the contemplated work for the price of $7.08 plus Sales Tax per set, not refundable. A mail address and a phone number must be left at the aforementioned office which the prospective bidder agrees is sufficient to reach him.

Each submitted proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, or a surety bond, payable to the County of Los Angeles in an amount equivalent to at least ten (10) percent of the total aggregate bid price of such proposal, as a guaranty that the bidder, if his proposal be accepted, will enter into and execute the awarded contract, and furnish the required bonds in connection therewith, in accordance with the terms of the aforementioned Specifications and Instructions to Bidders. In the event that a surety bond is submitted in lieu of a check, it shall be subject to the condition that the surety thereon be approved by the County Auditor and County Counsel.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to waive technical errors and discrepancies, if to do seems to best serve the interests of the County.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1770 to 1777, inclusive, of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the proposed contract, and it will be required that not less than said rates be paid to all such workmen employed or engaged on the work. Compete wage rate schedules are on file at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department and are included in the contract specifications available at the Road Department.

The rate of compensation for any classification not listed in the schedule, but which may be required to execute the proposed contract, shall be commensurate and in accord with the rates specified for similar or comparable classifications or for those performing similar or comparable duties.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS: Bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination of location of the proposed work and by such other means as they may prefer as to the actual conditions and requirements of the work, and shall not at any time after submission of the bid dispute, complain, or assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done.

The contractor to whom this contract is awarded will be required, before execution of the contract by the County Board of Supervisors, to file with the County Board of Supervisors surety bonds as follows:

A "Faithful Performance Bond" amounting to 100% of the total contract price is required for all contracts.

A "Payment Bond" (labor and material) amounting to 50% of the total contract price is required for all contracts which have a total contract price in excess of $10,000.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

Dated March 4, 1975.

Noticias de los concilios

La acusacion fue hecha por el concejal Harrison Sanborn, quien solicito un informe acerca de las intenciones del VAC, asi como de su nuevo director, Joe Korpsak.

"Estoy confundido," dijo Sanborn. "Tenia entendido que esta seria una organizacion temporaria, creada para deshacerse de casas desocupadas y viviendas abandonadas en la zona. Pero ahora, al ser el Sr. Korpsak un director pagado con empleo seguro, parece estar tomando un estado permanente."

Despues de una audiencia publica acerca de una peticion para aminorar los accidentes de trafico en la interseccion de la Calle Benito y la Avenida Mills, el Concilio aproba 4 a 0 la instalacion de una senal de parada para el trafico en la direccion Sur-Norte, Norte-Sur.

Una segunda mocion para conducir un estudio del trafico para considerar la reduccion de la velocidad de 45 a 35 millas por hora en la Avenida Mills, desde la Avenida Moreno hasta Holt Bulevard, fue aprobada 3 a 1. El concejal Tom McClure se opuso, ya que piensa que la reduccion de la velocidad maxima naturalmente reduciria el trafico y dicho estudio seria innecesario.

El Concilio de la Ciudad de Upland establecio el 4 de febrero de 1985, como el ultimo dia pra remover las carteleras y otras senales de publicidad de la ciudad.

El concilio primero habia aprobado una reglamentacion concernientes a la amortizacion de las carteleras en 1970, pero cambio el reglamento el lunes para dar una fecha mas especifica.

El cambio en el reglamento establece que todos los carteles, anuncios y demas que no estan en los edificios y que estan ahora en existencia, pueden continuarse, siempre que se mantengan en buenas condiciones, pero deben ser removidos para la fecha establecida, en 1985.

How will A.J. do in today's California 500 at Ontario?

This time Foyt hopes to finish all 500 miles

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

A.J. Foyt is the favorite in most quarters in today's California 500 (11 a.m.at Ontario Motor Speedway). But the big question remains. Can he finish?

Foyt has burned up OMS the last two years. He has been the fastest in practice, the fastest in qualifying and the fastest in the Twin 100s.

But the highest "Super Tex" has ever finished is 10th in 1973. In other years he wound up 15th (1970), 16th (1971), 30th (1972) and 30th last year. Only in 1973 was he still running at the finish.

That more than anything else is probably why Bobby Unser was picked, 35-7, over Foyt to win today's race in a poll of broadcasters and writers.

Bobby is the defending champion of the Cal 500. He is the second fastest qualifier this year at 194.553 mph (to Foyt's 196.549).

But the poll was taken before last Sunday's Twin 100s which A.J. dominated just as he did practice and qualifying. Most of those participating in the poll didn't arrive at OMS until this weekend. Besides, they picked the wrong man in the first two events. (The Winston Western 500 and Daytona 500) held this year.

But the one man they all have to beat is Foyt. Last year A.J. came up with a remote control device by which he could control the boost on his turbocharger. This year he has a 12-jet device by which he can control fuel flow and, ultimately, mileage.

You have to average at least 1.8 miles per gallon to finish the 500 miles. Foyt's device allows him to average from 1.1 to 2.1 miles per gallon depending upon his speed.

"What I try to do," said A.J., "is run hard down the straightaways and back off and kind of coast in the corners. You have zero manifold pressure (boost) all the time you're off your throttle. Momentarily you're getting about five miles to the gallon. When you get back on the throttle, you get a mile and a half per gallon."

But it is Foyt's brilliance as a mechanic that has been blamed by some as taking away from his driving. "A. J. is the most determined driver I ever saw," said OMS president Parnelli Jones. "But I think he'd win more if he would let someone else take over the mechanical responsibilities so he could concentrate on driving."

The panel of experts gave Bobby Allison the third highest vote behind Bobby Unser and Foyt. But Allison, by his own admissin, is still learning to drive Indy cars.

"I still have some race track experience to get in Indy cars," he told those in attendance at Saturday's breakfast at OMS. "I feel more comfortable, but I don't know if I'm ready to mix it up with the top runners here."

Allison is on a hot streak. He has won last two races, (The Times and Winston Western 500s) in the golden state.

WILL HE FINALLY WIN ONE?

A. J. Foyt, sitting in his No. 14 burnt Orange Coyote, has already proven he's faster than anyone else on the track. So today he'll just try to finish in today's California 500 at OMS.

Troy stopped, 72-68

Bruins prevent title tie

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Pete Trgovich sank two free throws with 23 seconds to go and Marques Johnson tallied on a driving layup as time ran out Saturday to give the third-ranked UCLA Bruins a thrilling 72-68 victory over University of Southern California for their ninth consecutive Pacific-8 basketball title.

The Bruins, who prevented a tie with Oregon State by beating USC for the second time this season, led by 13 points at halftime. But the Trojans fought back and held a seven-point lead at 65-58 with 5:11 to go, mainly on the outside shooting of forward Bob Trowbridge.

Trgovich intercepted a pass from freshman Earl Evans to Gus Williams and was immediately fouled by Williams. The Bruin senior then sank two free throws on a one-on-one basis and USC took another timeout.

After the timeout, Williams missed the Trojans' last shot attempt from close-in and UCLA's Johnson rebounded and dribbled the length of the floor for the insurance basket.

Dave Meyers had 14 points while Washington and Trgovich each collected 13 for the Bruins, who will play the Big Ten's second tournament representative in the opening round of the NCAA West Regionals at Pullman, Wash., next Saturday.

For USC, which will represent the Pac-8 in the National Commissioners Invitational Tournament at Louisville next week, Trowbridge finished with 24 points, 16 of them in the second half. He was 11 for 18 from the floor.

UCLA wound up with a 12-2 conference record, thus preventing Oregon State from getting a tie for the league title with a win at Oregon Saturday night.

North Carolina stops N.C. State

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Freshman Phil Ford scored 24 points Saturday night to lead 13th-ranked North Carolina to a 70-66 victory over defending national champion North Carolina State in the title game of the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball tournament.

The victory gave the Tar Heels, who posted overtime victories in two earlier tournament games, a berth against New Mexico State in next Saturday's first-round NCAA Eastern Regionals.

NCAA officials will choose today between ninth-ranked North Carolina State and No. 2 Maryland, the regular-season ACC champ beaten by the Wolfpack in the semifinals here, for the conference's second berth in the national championship tournament.

North Carolina enjoyed a 41-35 halftime margin but the lead changed hands four times in the second half before the Tar Heels went out front to stay 56-55 with 9:42 to go.

The Tar Heels went to their spread offense after taking the lead, and put the game away at the foul line, adding six points on free throws down the stretch.

Ford, a 6-2 guard, was chosen the tournament's outstanding player. North Carolina State's All-America David Thompson was held to only 16 points.

North Carolina, forced into overtime in its first two games here, now has a 21-7 record compared to 22-6 for North Carolina State.

The two teams played evenly from the opening buzzer and swapped the lead five times in the opening half.

After intermission, North Carolina got only one basket in the first four minutes of play and North Carolina State went ahead 55-53 at the 16:39 mark on a basket by Thompson. But Thompson sank only one more basket during the game and once the Tar Heels got ahead, deadly foul shooting kept them on top.

Ford was joined in double figures by Walter Davis with 14, Mitch Kupchak with 11 and Brad Hotfman with 10.

Gosswiller finishes with a flurry

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. — "Mark Gosswiller could become one of the best freshmen players in the Big Sky Conference before the season is over," commented Northern Arizona University's first-year head coach, John Birkett last October.

And Gosswiller, former Montclair High star, started to reach that potential near the end of the season for NAU's Lumberjacks who posted a 9-17 record during a rebuilding season and finished much better than the one win which was forecast for the Axers in pre-season rankings.

Gosswiller, after 14 games had scored only 56 points and picked off 66 rebounds despite the fact he started every game. Then in the final 12 games, Gosswiller scored 153 points to wind up with 209 points, an average of eight points a game and he finished with 183 rebounds, pulling down 117 in the final 12 games. The 6-7 Gosswiller averaged 7.1 rebounds a game to rank third on the NAU team and 13th in the Big Sky Conference.

Gosswiller led NAU in rebounding six of the final 10 games and he had a team season high of 19 against Montana State.

"Mark still has a ways to go and he realizes that he has to work hard to become one of the top players in the Big Sky," commented Birkett.

NAU led the Big Sky Conference in scoring with 85.3 points a game and the Lumberjacks established 16 net individual, team and Big Sky records this season.

NAU's 9-17 record could have been easily reversed with a little luck as the Axers dropped eight games by a total of 24 points—an average of three points a defeat — including a six-pointer, 81-75, to conference champ Montana in the final game.

NAU's feats didn't come against easy competition as the young Lumberjacks faced nine teams which have either already been slected for post-season play or are under serious consideration by selection committees.

Gosswiller and NAU made a lot of strides this season and both still have a ways to go, but a foundation was laid for both this season.

At Montclair High, Gosswiller played under Coach Lanny Moore in the San Antonio League. As a senior, Gosswiller averaged 21 points and 16 rebounds and his first year of basketball came as a junior, when he averaged eight points and six rebounds a game.

In his senior year at Montclair, Mark was named to the All-Valley first team along with Walnut High's Kirk Christ, Ganesha High's Cleve Porter and Broderick Hunter and Upland High's Curt Oldenkamp.

Kings whipped by Chicago; Black Hawks regain first

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Pit Martin and Cliff Koroll each contributed a goal and an assist Saturday night as the Chicago Black Hawks moved back into first place in the NHL's Division 2 by drubbing the Los Angeles Kings 6-1.

Chicago got goals from six different players to hand the Kings their worst defeat at home this season. By beating the league's top defensive goal, Rogie Vachon, the Black Hawks jumped a point ahead of Vancouver in their division.

The Black Hawks got first-period goals from Martin and Doug Jarrett and then put the game away with second-period scores from Koroll, Jim Pappin and Germain Gagnon.

Vic Venasky spoiled Tony Esposito's bid for his sixth shutout of the season by talling Los Angeles' lone goal three minutes into the final period. Venasky was recalled Friday from Fort Worth to replace Butch Goring, the Kings' No. 1 goal scorer who is out with an eye injury.

Los Angeles started fast, outshooting the Black Hawks 10-4 in the first 12 minutes. But then Jarrett stole the puck just inside the blue line and fired in a 45-footer. Martin's 20-foot slap shot at 17:56 made it 2-0 after one period.

Breakaway goals by Pappin and Gagnon in an 83-second span early in the second period gave Chicago a 4-0 lead.

Koroll added his 22nd goal of the season from 30 feet out in the second period before assisting on Stan Mikita's third period goal.

Keith Magnuson of the Black Hawks and Kings' defenseman Dave Hutchison engaged in a lively fight 2½ minutes into the second period. Besides drawing five minutes for fighting, Magnuson also was handed a 10-minute misconduct for knocking linesman Ray Scapinello to the ice.

Zamora favored to capture title

On the basis of his 20 knockouts in 20 starts, the 118-pounder from Mexico City has been installed as an early favorite against Hong, 24.

Hong won his WBA crown at Johannesburg last July 5 on a 15-round decision over South Africa's Arnold Taylor. Taylor had won the title by knocking out Mexico's Romeo Anaya.

In his first title defense at Seoul last Dec. 28, Hong was a 15-round decision winner over Fernando Cabanela of the Philippines.

"I'm very confident of winning," said Hong. "I'm in great condition. I'm dedicating this right to all the Korean people here."

That's a lot of dedicating. It's estimated there are 70,000 Koreans living in the Los Angeles area, 80 per cent of them moving here since World War II. There are three Korean newspapers in Los Angeles.

Arturo Hernandez, Zamora's manager, admitted he didn't want to take the fight when it was offered to him by Forum Boxing Club promoter Don Fraser.

"I thought maybe I might be pushing my fighter too fast," he conceded. "But my fighter wanted it so badly that I agreed to let him."

Said the baby-faced Zamora, "I wouldn't want to fight unless I thought I could win."

In a tuneup for his championship opportunity, Zamora stopped Tammy Amacio in four rounds at Ciudad Victoria, Mexico, Feb. 4 for his 20th KO. Fraser, the promoter, said Zamora had a chance to become another Ruben Olivares, former world bantamweight king who lost his World Boxing Association featherweight crown at the Forum last year.

Hong has lost only two of 32 matches and is the first Korean world champion to box in the United States. In fact, he is only the second Korean world titleholder. In 1966, Ko Soo Kim upset Nino Benvenuti to capture the world junior middleweight championship in Seoul.

Zamora will be making his third Forum appearance. He demolished Jose Rosa and Shintaro Uchiyama in his other Los Angeles starts.

If he beats Hong, he'll be the youngest man ever to win the 118-pound title. He just turned 20.

Carlos Zarate, Zamora's undefeated stablemate, will be cofeatured on the championship program. Zarate, who has 30 wins and 28 KOs, is matched against California bantamweight champion Joe Guevara.

Writers vote for Thompson and Knight

CHICAGO (UPI) — David Thompson, North Carolina State's 6-foot-4 jumping jack, was named Saturday as college basketball's Player of the Year by the 500-member United States Basketball Writers Association.

Indiana Coach Bobby Knight, whose undefeated Hoosiers have held the No. 1 ranking since the opening weeks of the season, was selected Coach of the Year.

Others selected for the honor were 6-5 senior Junior Bridgeman of Louisville, 6-2 junior Ricky Burden of Utah, 6-5 senior Kevin Grevey of Kentucky, 6-10 junior Leon Douglas of Alabama, 6-4 junior John Lucas of Maryland, 6-7 junior Scott May of Indiana, 6-8 senior Dave Meyers of UCLA and 6-3 senior Gus Williams of Southern California.

The selections, announced by USBWA President Ed Chay of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, were sponsored by the Pizza Hut chain.

OSU falls on Ballard's tip

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — Greg Ballard's tip-in at the buzzer gave Oregon a controversial 82-80 victory over Oregon State Saturday night in the final regular game of the season for both teams.

The tip-in came after Ron Lee, the game's high scorer with 32 points, missed a running jumper. Ballard batted the ball back toward the basket at the horn, and referee Mel Ross signaled it a bucket.

Gisbert, Fibak meet in finals

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI) — Second-seeded Juan Gisbert of Spain and fourth-seeded Wojtek Fibak of Poland won semi-final matches at the Shreveport International Tennis Tournament Saturday and meet today in the $2,500 championship.

Gisbert beat Hungary's Robert Machan, 6-1, 6-2, and Fibak defeated Nebraska's Bill Brown, 6-0, 6-3.

College basketball roundup

Hoosiers unbeaten

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Indiana's No. 1 rated Hoosiers, paced by veterans Steve Green and Quinn buckner, weathered Michigan State's hot shooting Saturday night for a 94-79 victory and their first unbeaten basketball season.

Coach Bobby Knight's NCAA tourney-bound club also became the first in big ten history to beat every other league rival twice in an 18-game schedule. The Hoosiers go into post-season play with a 32-game winning streak, 29 this season, the longest among major teams.

Alabama upset

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — Sophomore guard Eddie Johnson scored 27 points Saturday afternoon to lead Auburn to a come-from-behind 76-70 victory over fifth-ranked Alabama, dimming the Tide's hopes for an unshared Southeastern Conference basketball title.

The loss left Alabama with three conference defeats, the same as sixth-ranked Kentucky, which closed out its SEC season Saturday night at Mississippi State.

A Kentucky victory would enable the Wildcats to share the title and Kentucky, which beat Alabama twice during the season, would represent the SEC at the NCAA Mideast regionals while Alabama would go to the West regionals.

Marquette survives

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Seventh-ranked Marquette, behind the late clutch shooting of Lloyd Walton, overcame a furious Creighton charge Saturday night to defeat the 18th-ranked Bluejays, 64-60.

Walton, a 6-1 junior, tallied seven of his 14 points in the final five minutes after Creighton had rallied to take a 54-52 lead.

Kentucky wins

STARKVILLE, Miss. (UPI) — Sixth-ranked Kentucky, led by Kevin Grevey's 30 points, earned a share of the Southeastern Conference championship Saturday night with a 118-80 rout of Mississippi State.

Kentucky outscored Mississippi State 30-19 during the final nine minutes of the opening half and held a commanding 55-87 lead at the intermission.

The Wildcats hit 51 of 80 shots from the floor for 63.8 per cent while the Bulldogs managed only 31 of 68 for 45.6 per cent.

Sun Devils triumph

TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI) — Lionel Hollins scored 33 points as Arizona State broke away in the second half for a 107-92 win over Arizona Saturday.

The victory gave eighth-ranked Arizona State, the Western Athletic Conference champion, a 23-3 record entering the NCAA playoffs.

Arizona, which entered the game tied for second place in the conference, fell to 20-6.

Baseball ticket sales look very impressive

NEW YORK (UPI) — Major league baseball, which held the line on ticket prices during recent boom years, is being rewarded by its fans during this period of tight money.

A survey by the office of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn indicates that 1975 will be a big year at the gate—especially in Los Angeles, Texas, Cleveland, Philadelphia, New York and Milwaukee.

If the projection proves accurate, it isn't unreasonable to think that major league baseball attendance could approach an all-time total of 35-million paid admissions this year.

The outstanding features of the survey were:

—The Dodgers drew 2,632,474 fans last season in Los Angeles but season ticket sales are up 25 per cent and the club thinks it could achieve an all-time attendance record of 3-million.

—Season ticket sales for the Texas Rangers are up 70 per cent from 1974 during which the club had an attendance jump of 507,817.

—The Indians enjoyed an increase of 500,000 in 1974 and expect to improve on that total by at least 50 per cent.

—The Phillies established an all-time attendance high of 1,808,648 in 1974 and are up 30 per cent in advance sales.

—The Yankees reported that they have sold about 25 per cent more season tickets than at this time a year ago. The Yankees estimate that their new business is up by more than one third.

—The Brewers already have surpassed their final 1974 total in season tickets and anticipate a 20 per cent increase by opening day.

Additionally, the survey disclosed that half of the 24 major league teams report advance sales are better than one year ago and four others say they are about the same.

USIU opens NAIA play

District Three champion USIU (20-8) will play Midwestern (Tex.) (27-5) in Monday's 9:15 a.m. (PDT) game in the opening round of the NAIA Basketball Tournament at Kansas City.

USIU defeated Biola to win the District Three (California) crown.

But Allison has not run as fast as his Penske racing stablemate, Tom Sneva. Sneva (190.880 mph) is one of seven drivers who topped 190 mph in qualifying. The others are Foyt, the Unsers, Dallenbach, Rutherford and Carter.

However, Sneva will be starting in the middle of the fifth row directly behind Allison today. A 10th place finish, due to mechanical troubles, in the 100-mile event cost Sneva a higher start.

Andretti has spent so little time here that his car, qualified at only 185.128 mph, is a question mark.

Foyt has said he'll try to hang back and then charge. But A.J. has never been able to do that. He can't stand the sight of another car ahead of him. And the only time he can stand being passed is when the other car is going in the opposite direction.

Pre-race events start at 8 a.m. and run right up to race time.

Highlights will be a motorcycle jump of nearly 300 feet by former world hang glider champion Bob Wills. Wills' Honda, with hang glider attached, will take off from a ramp on the front straightaway just before 11 a.m.

There will also be a run down the front straight by a 300 mph rocket-powered dragster. Other attractions include a $5 million parade of antique racing cars, marching bands, go-kart and motorcycle races and three Cal 500 grand marshalls, 1925 Indy winner Peter DePaolo, General James Doolittle and Astronaut Buzz Aldrin.

The weather forecast calls for mostly sunny weather with a high of 67.

It's a good thing. No rain date was set or even discussed.

Ulrich's spasm leads to forfeit

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — Unseeded Tom Brown defeated top seeded Torben Ulrich by default Saturday and advanced to the finals of the $20,000 Almaden Grand Masters Tennis Classic.

Brown had split the first two sets 6-7, 7-5 and was trailing 1-2 in the third set when Ulrich suffered a muscle spasm in his racket hand and had to default.

Brown, who upset third-seeded Vic Seixas in the quarterfinals Friday night, will face Frank Sedgman in the finals Sunday.

Fight manager Sam Pian dies

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sam Pian, 78, co-manager of Tony Zale and Barney Ross when they won world boxing championships in the 30s and 40s, died of a heart attack at a hospital here early Saturday.

Rain washes out all valley sports events

The weather played havoc with college baseball schedules all week, causing postponement which will crowd the schedule this week.

Cal Poly's doubleheader with Pepperdine Saturday was postponed indefinitely as was Claremont-Mudd's twinbill with Biola. Pomona-Pitzer's doubleheader with Pacific Christian has been rescheduled as a single game on April 3. The site has not been determined.

This week Poly visits Cal State L.A. Monday, visits Chapman Tuesday, hosts Loyola Wednesday (make-up game), hosts Cal State Fullerton Friday, visits UC Irvine for a doubleheader Saturday.

MSAC, Chaffey and Citrus games Saturday with Orange Coast, San Bernardino and Saddleback, respectively, were rained out and will be added to this week's schedule as follows:

MSAC hosts San Diego Mesa Tuesday, visits Orange Coast Wednesday (make-up game), visits Santa Ana Thursday, hosts Orange Coast Friday (make-up game), and hosts Santa Ana Saturday.

Chaffey visits Citrus Tuesday, visits San Bernardino Wednesday (make-up game), hosts Palomar Thursday, hosts Grossmont Saturday.

Citrus visits Palomar Monday (make-up game), hosts Chaffey Tuesday, hosts Saddleback Wednesday (tentative), hosts San Diego Saturday.

Trevino surges ahead at Citrus Tournament

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Reigning PGA champ Lee Trevino, "jiving" under a hot Florida sun, shot a 70 Saturday to lead the third round of the $200,000 Citrus Open golf tournament by two strokes.

The Merry Mexican, winner of 17 tournaments since joining the tour in 1967, surged ahead of second-round co-leader Hale Irwin when the U. S. Open champ fell into two hazards for a double bogey on the par-4 14th hole.

With earlier rounds of 69 and 66 on the par-72, 6,929-yard layout at Rio Pinar Country Club, Trevino finished 54 holes at 205, 11 under par.

Ben Crenshaw, the young sensation of two years ago who has been in a frustrating slump, turned in a score of 72-68-67-207 with two eagles Saturday to take second place and serve notice he will be in contention in the final round.

"I played gutsy golf today, like I used to," said the 23-year-old Texan who won the first pro tournament he entered after receiving his player's card in 1973, but missed the cut in four of seven tries this year. "I'll be right in there tomorrow."

Trevino had two bogeys and a birdie on the front nine and commented, "I started off like I was in the fifth flight." But he regrouped on the last leg for three more birdies.

With a 70, he said, "I'm surprised I am in the lead and I'm surprised I'm two strokes ahead."

As for the final round, he wouldn't make any predictions.

"I've won some from up here and I've lost some," he said.

Former Masters champ Charles Coody was alone in third place with a card reading 71-66-71--208, eight under par.

Irwin, Trevino's teammate on the World Cup team last year, shot a disappointing 74 to finish four strokes behind the leader at a seven-under-par 209, along with Bruce Devlin and powerhitter Jim Dent.

Defending champ Jerry Heard fell victim to the winds and tightened fairways of the pine-lined course to record an 81 that put him among the also rans at 225, nine over par.

And gallery favorite Arnold Palmer was at even par 216 after 54 holes with rounds of 72, 69 and 75.

Trevino said he planned to hit some practice balls Saturday night, run two miles and watch TV.

"But if I win tomorrow, I won't be hitting balls and running and watching television, I'll tell you that," he quipped.

Coody was in contention for the lead until he bogeyed three of his last five holes.

Dodgers drop 6-2 decision in exhibition

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Larvell Blanks connected for three hits, including a home run, and the Atlanta Braves completed six double plays to defeat the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-2 Saturday.

The Braves broke a 2-2 tie in the fifth inning when Marty Perez reached second on Willie Crawford's outfield error and scored on a single by Dave Johnson.

Rookie outfielder Wayne Nordhagen hit a 385-foot home run to make it 4-2 in the seventh. In the eighth, a single by Bob Beall, and doubles by Blanks and Rod Gilbreath netted the Braves two more runs.

The Dodgers took a 1-0 lead in the second when Steve Garvey singled, went to second on an error, and scored on a double by Ron Cey.

A home run by Blanks and doubles by Vic Correll and Craig Robinson gave the Braves a 2-1 lead in the third. Garvey singled to start the fourth, went to third on a single by Crawford and scored on a double play to tie it at 2-2.

Sports news in brief

NEW YORK (UPI) — Clemson, Massachusetts, St. John's and Holy Cross were added to the field for the National Invitation Tournament Saturday, bringing the total of bids extended to nine.

St. John's and Holy Cross were defeated Saturday in the ECAC regional championship games, with the Redmen losing to Rutgers and the Crusaders bowing to Boston College.

BOSTON (UPI) — Teenager Martina Navratilova used an incredible series of backhand cross-court volleys Saturday afternoon to beat Evonne Goolagong for the first time in seven attempts and take the $75,000 Virginia Slims of Boston Tennis Tournament, 6-2, 4-6, 63.

MIAMI (UPI) — Dick Ritger outscored Earl Anthony 247-223 Saturday to win the $7,500 first prize in the Elbonite Don Carter Classic and become the third leading all-time winner of the Pro Bowling Tour.

The Hartford, Wis., righthander got his first win since last summer, but his 17th career championship, putting him behind only Dick Weber (24) and Don Johnson (23) and the all-time winning list.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Tony Veney led a sweep in the 880-yard run and UCLA defeated Arizona State 81-64 Saturday in a rain-marred dual track meet.

Running on a puddled, synthetic track, Veney overtook teammate Curtis Beck in the final 100 yards to set a meet record 1:50.3. Beck finished in 1:50.4 and third-place finisher was the Bruins' Alvin Gilmore in 1:50.9, his personal lifetime best.

UCLA, which trailed 43-34 after nine events, rallied to win 10 of 17 first places in posting its 28th straight dual meet win.

COLORADO SPRINGS Colo. (UPI) — Irnia Moiseeva and Andrei Minenkov retained the World Figure Skating Dance title for the Soviet Union for the sixth consecutive year Saturday in an unpopular decision before a capacity crowd of 4,400 at the Broadmoor World Arena.

The Russian team scored 13 ordinals and 205.48 points in their four minute routine, performed to the Hugarian Rhapsody, Charleston, a slow dance and Black Ice by Rogers.

Pre-championships favorites Hilary Greene and Glen Watts of Great Britain were third with 32.5 ordinals and 101.16 points while Italians Matilde Ciccia and Lamberto Ceserani finished fifth with 45 ordinals and 100.00 points.

Roberts first in motorcycle race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Kenny Roberts averaged 98.425 miles per hour in a Yamaha to win the $3,000 top prize in the 100-mile motorcycle race for expert and junior riders Saturday at the Daytona Speedway.

Aussies lead U.S. netters

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Australians John Newcombe and Rod Laver beat Americans Stan Smith and Bob Lutz, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3, Saturday, giving the Aussies a slim 3-2 edge in Aetna World Cup competition.

The Aussies will retain the cup if they win any of the two matches set for today, a singles between Laver and Arthur Ashe and a doubles for which the players were to be announced just prior to the match.

Earlier on Saturday, young Dick Stockton upset favored Newcombe, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, to even the series at 2-2 and give the highly partisan crowd of more than 12,000 at the Hartford Civic Center something to cheer about.

Player, Littler get golf awards

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Gary Player has won the Richardson Award for outstanding contributions to golf and Gene Littler has been voted the Charlie Bartlett Award for the touring pro contributing to the betterment of society by the Golf Writers Association of America.

England's Cox takes tennis title

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's number one seed, Mark Cox, beat New Zealander Brian Fairlie, 6-1, 7-5, for the singles title in the $60,000 Rothmans International Tennis tournament Saturday night.

NFL players will be much more flexible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Team representatives of the NFL players union ended a three-day strategy huddle Saturday and declared themselves ready to be flexible in efforts to settle labor difficulties with the pro football owners.

"Chances of an agreement are better than they were a year ago," Bill Curry, president of the NFL Players Association, said after the final closed session.

Negotiators for the union and the owners had failed to make any progress in bargaining on a new contract at this time last year. The players called a six-week strike, but shortly before the regular season began reported to their teams without a contract settlement.

"We're much more flexible at this point and the members are more attuned to the difficulties of the situation," Curry said. "We've matured a lot, and everyone has learned a good deal about ourselves and our jobs. If the owners really want a settlement, so do we."

He also said delegates have amended the association's constitution so any tentative bargaining contract will be submitted to a vote of the full membership rather than be subject to ratification only by the union's executive committee and the player representatives.

In addition, Curry pointed out that some of the so-called "freedom issues," important factors in player demands which led to last year's strike, may be on their way to being settled by several court cases now in progress.

100 putters: none work for Palmer

By PHIL ROCHE
P-B Staff Writer

ARNOLD PALMER AND JOHNNY MILLER recently were on the subject of putting, although they were expounding at different times of the day, reports Tom Place, PGA-Tour information director.

"I still have to find a putting stroke," Arnold said. "I've moved everything forward, especially my hands. I've never putted this way in my life and I may not stay with it, but I have to find something."

When you are winning, as Miller has, the conversation is more positive. "My putting now is really good. I mean REALLY good. Even on the ones that don't go in, I'm putting a good stroke on the ball. Sometimes I don't know how the ball can stay out."

Palmer always one has been one of the Tour's more notorious tinkerers with his clubs. "Last year, I probably played at least one round with 100 different putters," he said. "I'd go from flat to upright to lofted to unlofted."

On the other hand, Miller said, "I've got a lot of different putters but I only used one all last year."

JOHN McCAFFERTY JR. won the February-away tournament open to Marshall Canyon members at Serfas Golf Club by shooting a fine 78. Next away tournament is Apr. 12 at Via Verde, and next Saturday at 11 a.m. will be the at home tourney.

NICKI TAYLOR of La Verne has been elected president of the Marshall Canyon Women's Club. Other officers are Shelby Myers, Claremont, first vice president and tournament chairman; Mary Rugee, Glendora, second vice president and handicap chairman; Kay Liscum, Diamond Bar, secretary; and Kay Wilson, La Verne, treasurer.

New president at Red Hill C.C. is Paul Gardner Jr. who succeeds Ralph Arnold. Other officers are Mel Bunnell, vice president Paul Hottel, secretary; and J. Nolan Stockton, treasurer. New directors are John Habecker, Paul Hottel and Stockton.

Winners of the Tony Moertel Member Tournament recently were Doug Birdsall, Keith Spencer, Lou Catalano and Gail Squires.

BILLY CASPER was talking recently about his new life away from the course, that of a farmer near Provo, Utah. He makes it clear he is not a "gentleman farmer. I got out and chase the cows in the morning, and I pick cherries and peaches. I even help sell the crop. It's fun."

Billy still has a good set for this year. "I want to win a place on the Ryder Cup team. That is one of the great thrills in golf, to make the team and represent your country." Billy has been on seven straight teams, and this year's competition will be at the Laurel Valley Golf Club, Ligonier, Pa., Sept. 18-21.

GARY GROH still hasn't come down to earth after his victory in the Hawaiian Open. One day during the Andy Williams-San Diego Open, a chill breeze was blowing across the Torrey Pines course off the ocean. Gary said, "I kept looking out there for Hawaii and a little of that warm weather, but I couldn't seem to find it." . . .

John Lister of New Zealand, has rejoined the U.S. Tour minus the closely-cropped beard he wore all of last year. "When I went home in the fall, I decided I better shave it off. I have an image to uphold at home, sort of the All-New Zealand boy type, such as you have the All-American boy image here."

Most players

A record amount of 450 players participated in National League championship games in 1974. The previous high was 439 in 1970. Since the National League became a 12-team circuit in 1969, the least number of players to participate in league games was 422 in 1972.

Rodeo arrives at Long Beach March 14

LONG BEACH — The 13th annual Long Beach Indoor Rodeo opens its three-day run in the arena here March 14, and promoters say they will attract most of the world's top cowboys.

The field will be led by Tom Ferguson, Miami, Okla., 1974's All-Around Champion who set a new seasonal earnings mark by topping the $90,000 mark.

Also scheduled to appear during the Long Beach event will be four-time world's bareback riding champion, Joe Alexander, of Marysville, California.

Rodeos this year are scheduled for 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and at 3 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $3.50, $4.50 and $5.50.

Sears Highway Passenger Tire Guarantee
If you do not receive the number of miles specified because of your tire becoming unserviceable due to (1) defects, (2) normal road hazards, or (3) tread wear-out.
We will at our option, exchange it for a new tire or give you a refund charging in either case only the proportion of the then current selling price plus Federal Excise tax that represents mileage used. If the tire is unserviceable due to any of the above causes before 10% of the guaranteed mileage is received, the replacement or refund will be made with no charge for mileage received.
Nail punctures will be repaired at no charge. Guarantee applies to tires on vehicles used for private family purposes.

A MESSAGE TO CLASSIFIED AD USERS

You are about to invest money for an Ad and you are entitled to get results. To accomplish this it is necessary for you to TELL ALL about the details of your offer. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that prevent results. Readers can't guess on important details. Remember, a well written informative ad will get results faster and cost less in the long run.

1. Don't Omit The Address

Many out-of-town readers will write you but will not spend money for a long distance call.

2. Don't Omit The Phone Number

Many readers will call you but do not find it convenient to come to your home.

3. Don't Use Blind Box Numbers

They are difficult to answer and many people are suspicious of them.

4. Don't Conceal The Price

5. Don't Leave Home On The Days You Advertise

Many good prospects will not call the second time if your phone is unanswered.

6. Don't Forget, Check Your Ad The First Day It Runs. Call Us!

Secluded apartment luxury living. Uniquely different, because the Pines has created 11 tranquil acres where you can stroll amid the pine trees and get back to nature.

All apartments are fully carpeted and centrally air conditioned. Closets are large and easily accessible. Kitchens are fully modern. There's a separate garden patio for each apartment. Carports have convenient storage compartments.

2 SWIMMING POOLS, SAUNAS, WALKING TRAILS, HOT SWIRL POOLS, GAME ROOM.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — A potholder is great to use for making a soft, non-scratching case for big sun glasses or even regular glasses. Fold in half a terry, velour or cotton potholder and sew bottom and sides together. Use tab to hang your specs in the car or wherever. — JANET.

DEAR POLLY—When machine-washing any thin curtains I put so many in a pillowcase and tie the end of the slip to save a lot of rips and tears. I even wash drapes this way. —BERTHA

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, — this newspaper.

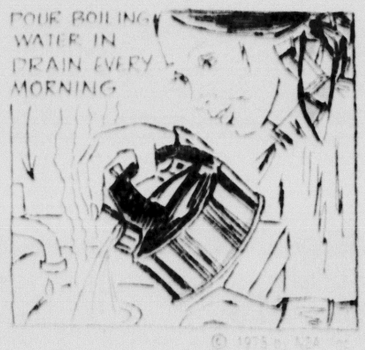
DEAR POLLY — My mother makes my lunch sandwich with frozen bread. It used to be soggy when the time came to eat. Now she wraps the sandwich in a paper towel before putting it in the plastic sandwich bag. It remains fresh, but not wet. — ROLAND.

DEAR POLLY — I cut off, in circular pieces, the elastic bands from worn panty hose and briefs and slip them around flat boxes, bundles of bulky fabrics, piles of paperbacks and bulging file-case envelopes. — MABEL.

DEAR POLLY — When boiling shrimp I put the loose pickling spices in a tea infuser, hang it over the side of the pot and boil. No loose spice, no little bags to make! — MILDRED.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for plant lovers. When taking a shower put your ferns in the bathroom, shut the windows and doors. The resulting humidity is great for the plants. — JULIE.

DEAR POLLY — Every morning when I tidy up the bathroom I pour a tea kettle of boiling water down the sink drain, which helps keep it running free. — CEOLA.



DEAR POLLY — To make a quick, neat and uniform seam for the front crease in ladies slacks, cut a strip of cardboard the thickness of the doubled material. It should be about 1 inch wide and 6 inches long. Tape it under the presser foot on the machine at the desired distance from the needle. Make sure it is in a straight line from front to back. This provides a guide for a speedy, neat crease and prevents stretching double-knit fabric. — BEBA.

DEAR POLLY — We recently bought a stepladder at a rummage sale. It needed only a new coat of paint. After painting it, we sprinkled clean sand on the wet, painted steps. It now has non-skid steps that will help prevent slipping. — GENIE R.

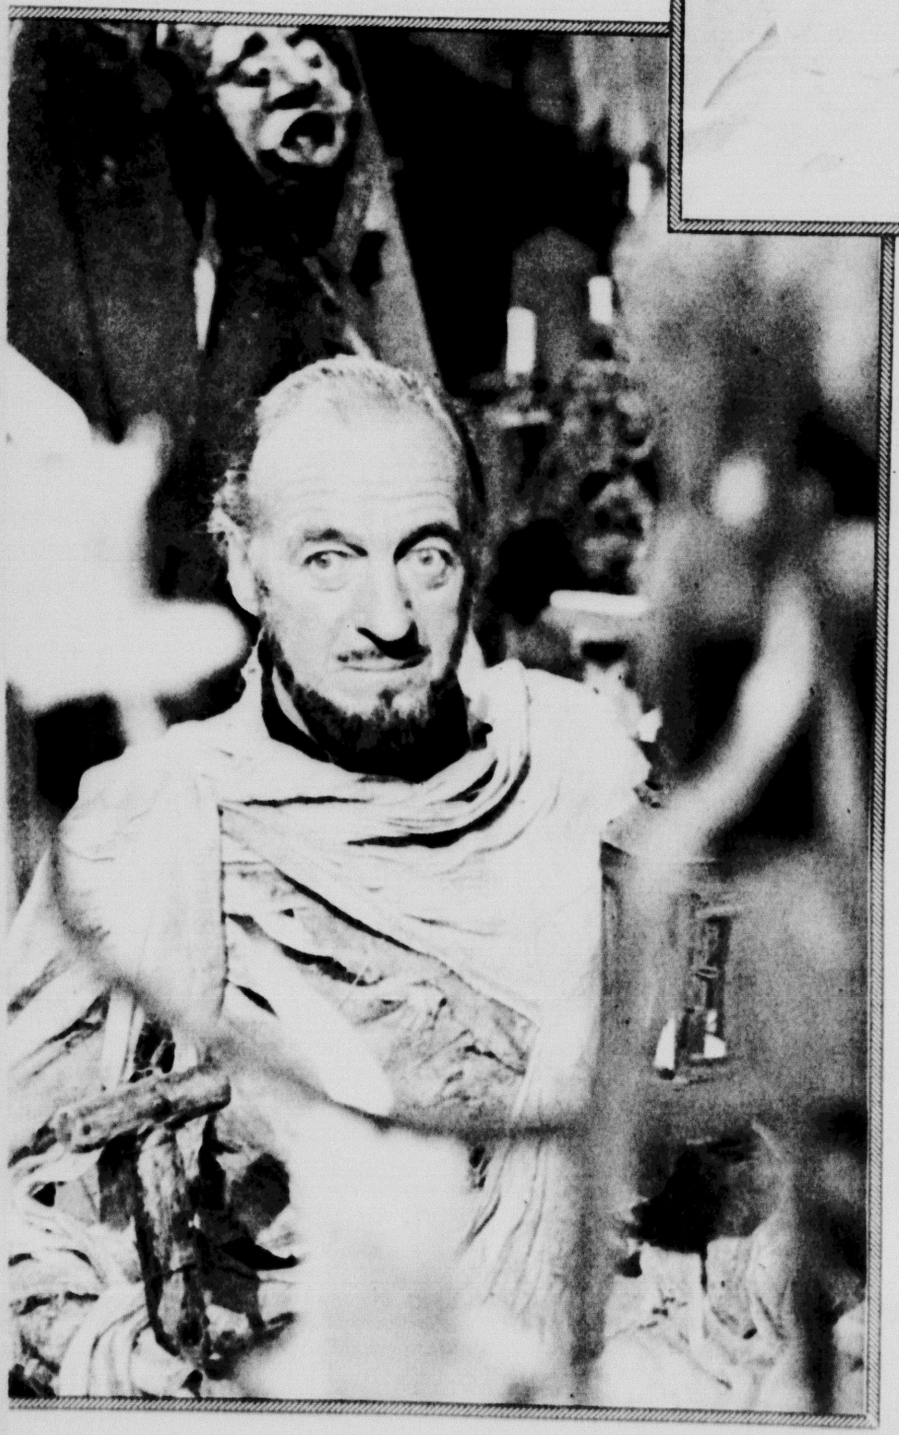
7 DAYS A WEEK

BARBRA SINGS FOR CHARITY

Barbra Streisand stars in a one-hour live television concert, "Funny Girl to Funny Lady," on ABC, Sunday at 7:30pm. In addition to Miss Streisand's songs, the hour special (produced by Gary Smith and directed by Dwight Hemion), will feature guest appearances by Dick Cavett and James Caan. The highlights from some of Miss Streisand's earlier films, including "The Way We Were" and "Funny Girl" also will be shown. The live TV concert will be broadcast before a black-tie audience of Washington notables in the Eisenhower Theatre of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, and proceeds from the event will benefit the Special Olympics for Retarded Children, of which Mrs. Betty Ford, the First Lady, is Honorary Chairwoman.



'A WEARY GHOST'

David Niven stars in a new adaptation of Oscar Wilde's classic spoof of the supernatural, "The Canterville Ghost," Monday at 8pm on NBC. The special, which also stars James Whitmore, Audra Lindley, Maurice Evans and Dame Flora Robson, is the final presentation in the Bell System Family Theatre's fifth anniversary season. "The Canterville Ghost," which was taped in England under the direction of Walter Miller from a script by Robin Miller, is based on Wilde's comedy tale of a brash American couple who purchase an ancient English manor which is haunted by an ancient English ghost, the shade of Sir Simon de Canterville. Despite the spirit's 300-year record of effective haunting, the unsuperstitious Americans are unimpressed—and this drives the ghost to make one final supreme effort. The special is something of a tour de force for veteran star Niven, who gets to play a whole gallery of apparitions in his character's attempt to frighten the family away from his ancestral haunt.

COVER CLOSE-UP

'HURRY & WAIT'

In the U.S. Army, it's derisively called "Hurry Up and Wait" time. There doesn't seem to be an exact equivalent of that phrase in the television industry, but, whatever you call it, Robert Blake of ABC's new Baretta series (Fridays, 10-11PM) was doing it. Late on a Friday night he had been rushed down to the deserted corner of Santee and Ninth in downtown Los Angeles; been installed in his portable dressing room; and he had been waiting, and waiting, and waiting . . .

The usual TV series star would have been fuming, and fuming, etc. Blake was not. "This doesn't happen often in television," he explained to visitors in his portable dressing room. "Something must have been messed up. It isn't easy working down here where all these murders are taking place." Blake, whose hard-hitting character of an undercover detective is constantly coping with the hard realities of murder and tough street crimes, was referring to the "Los Angeles Slasher" murders which had been hitting the very area his show films in at least two out of every five shooting days.

"This is one of the reasons I hated working in movies . . . the waiting around," he said. "It doesn't happen this often in TV because the pace is quicker. We just don't have the time to sit around and think about the best possible way in the world to do things, to light things, to act things. You just got to get out there and do it, and hope it works. Quite often, it works out great. The pressure keeps people on their toes and the tension makes them come up with their best. Some people can't adjust to it. I like it. I like doing 20 pages a day." After calling out to an assistant director and finding out he wouldn't be needed very soon, Blake sighed, went back to his seat, propped his feet up on a table and started to talk about his career and his new role.

He began when he was about two years old, singing and dancing and acting in an act with his father and a brother and sister. They did it because they needed the money. By five years old, he was a film star, although he insists: "I was never one of the child stars, I was a child actor. I didn't get the limousines and the big dressing rooms." He spent five years in the "Our Gang" series with Spanky McFarland. He also played Little Beaver in the Red Ryder Movies.

By 16 years old, however, everything seemed to have come apart in a manner reminiscent of the familiar Hollywood "success too soon" story, followed by disaster. Blake, however, has been one of those lucky former child actors who managed to pick himself up, sort out the pieces, put them back together again, and go on. A good marraige (to actress Sondra Kerr) helped. Added to this was his realization that he really did have something going for him, a professional and excellent ability as an actor. He decided to use this and was willing to start again . . . at the bottom. He got jobs as a stuntman, went to acting school, and took acting jobs for $14 a week.

Although modern-day audiences know him best for his appearances on late-night talk shows and movie roles in "In Cold Blood," "Tell Them Willie Boy is Here," "Busting," and "Electra Glide in Blue," Blake's big break after his comeback came in TV as a member of Richard Boone's repertory theater. He appeared in 22 out of 30 Boone shows in one year, and discovered that work—if it were quality work—was the only stimulant he needed to turn him on.

Asked how he manages the "grind" of being a TV series star, Blake just laughed and parried the question with: "It sure beats the hell out of working for a living." Pressed for a more serious answer, Blake leaned forward and looked out the dressing room window at the dark and deserted corner of Ninth and Santee. Showing a little bit of the intensity which has made reviewers—even those who dislike his show—praise him both as an actor and a person, he turned and replied:

"I've gotta like it. This character, Tony Baretta, I've gotta like him. It's like I invented him. I've done a lot of talking about what I'd like to do with this series. I hope people understand it's just promises; promises I work like hell to fulfill every day. And a lot of my friends are working hard to help me.

"If I'm a good actor, I'll do a good job," he said as he walked out of the dressing room. "And the only thing that makes me feel good is doing the job the best I can and going home to my family and lying on my back and saying 'I did all I could today'."

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR ARLENE DAHL

What was your most embarrassing experience?—A. S., Great Falls, Mont.

● In 1949, I had a date with the late JFK (we met at a Warner Bros. party when we were both single). I invited him home for dinner, and put my all into Norwegian meatballs, a vegetable, potatoes baked and stuffed with cheese, salad, fruit, dessert and wine. At eight everything was ready —except JFK. As the food got harder and colder, I got more and more nervous and took a glass of wine to steady my nerves—and another, and another. By the time Jack arrived (the plane was delayed three hours), I was feeling no pain. He took one look at the dried-up and soggy dinner, tactfully said he wasn't in the mood for meat, and we went to a fish restaurant.

FOR ALAN SHEPARD

What gave you the idea of hitting a golf ball on the moon?—D. J. Sullivan, Brighton, Mass.

● We had a special room at NASA in Houston in which we trained to walk on the moon. One day we were showing Bob Hope around and we put him in the apparatus. No matter how much we pulled him around, he refused to release the old golf club he was carrying with him. That intrigued me and I found myself saying, "There's got to be a way." I then found one.

FOR JOAN BLONDELL

Do you think it is easier or harder to become a star today than when you started out in films? — S. P. L., Erie, Pa.

● I think we had a better chance. We were under contract to a big studio that looked after us, kept us in front of the public, even wrote special stuff for us. The kids today do great parts on television and then you never hear of them again.

FOR SUSAN BLAKELY of "The Towering Inferno"

Weren't you in commercials before you got into movies?—S. K., Kingsport, Tenn.

● Yes. I originally wanted to be a model, not an actress, and somehow found myself doing commercials. Then I started studying acting at New York's Actors Studio. Modeling is glamorous to begin with but it soon wears off, and you're left with just hard work, doing the same thing over and over. After the umpteenth take, you're supposed to be as fresh as ever. But I still love the pay.

FOR RICHARD BLACKWELL, fashion designer

● From the Ten Best-Dressed List. I felt it was my duty to advise the woman in the street that certain public figures weren't fashion plates and shouldn't be emulated. Jackie Onassis is a "life member" of my list. Queen Elizabeth doesn't know the first thing about clothes, either. Some women are anxious to get on my list. They also know I'm good-natured and make my remarks tongue in cheek.

FOR EDDY ARNOLD

Will you settle an argument, please, and tell me how long you've been singing?—G. Purce, Savannah, Ga.

● Since 1947. I had been praying for a break for such a long time. My prayers were finally answered right before New Year's Eve. I had submitted a tape to RCA-Victor Records, and they called to say they were interested. [Eddy is the fourth leading recording star in the world, behind the Beatles, Elvis Presley and Bing Crosby. He has sold 70 million discs.]

FOR KAY ISELIN GILMAN, sportswriter

● I'm a graduate of Sarah Lawrence College and grew up around sports. My father is president of Monmouth Park Racetrack and the New York Jets, and my brother managed prizefighters. For a while I got some beady-eyed stares from male writers, but when they saw I was serious about my work they accepted me.

FOR FRANK ROBINSON, Cleveland Indians manager

Of the guys who managed you, which was "the most complete manager"?—T. F., Colorado Springs, Colo.

● Earl Weaver. He kept 25 guys happy because he involved his bench. Even if you weren't in the lineup that day, you knew there was a good chance Earl would use you to try to win the game. He wouldn't let his bench sit. He made it seem like everybody was in action.

FOR JOHN McKAY, University of Southern California football coach

● I believe we should emphasize winning. From the time we pull a baby out of the womb and spank it, that youngster is in some kind of competition for the rest of its life.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

I worship Rudolf Nureyev, the dancer. Is he as exciting as I think he is?—Louise W., Lowell, Mass.

● Well, he's certainly the darling of celebrities when he's not dancing. It's a social coup to be seen with him or have him at your party. According to actress Monique Van Vooren (with whom he has a firm, platonic friendship) he's "the most sexy, sensual, vital-looking man who ever lived." Art is the only thing that matters to Nureyev; he hates flying, has a photographic memory and drives himself with an iron will. He calls himself a man without a country. When he first came to the U.S., he headed straight for New York's famed Russian Tea Room restaurant, where he was immediately "adopted" by the Russian-speaking staff. Now he's a familiar sight there in his 19th-century student's cap, sitting with celebrities like Lee Radziwill. He always has four glasses of tea, the last one with cream.

Announcing More

Put your cigarette against it.

What's More? It's a whole new look in cigarettes. A whole new feel. A whole new length.

It's a longer and leaner cigarette. (Which makes it look terrific.)

It smokes slower and draws easy for more enjoyment. (Which means more time for those relaxing moments.)

It's More. With over 50% more puffs than a 100 mm cigarette. Yet More doesn't cost more. (Which means more for your money.) And because More is more flavorful (yet surprisingly mild), it will be one of the most satisfying smoking experiences you'll ever have.

New Filter More.

Because More is a cigarette that offers so much more, we felt it should look like more, too. So we've put it in an all-new cigarette wrap that's a handsome burnished brown.

More. It sits neat in your hand like it was made for it and fits your face like it found a home.

New Menthol More.

If you like menthol, now you can have More Menthol.

More Menthol gives you more coolness, more tobacco enjoyment. It's the new 120 mm menthol cigarette that starts with a blast, and cruises you through the longest, slowest-burning, coolest-smoking experience you've ever had.

More Menthol. You don't have to pay more to get it. And once you've got it, you'll wonder where it's been all your life.

The Ten Biggest Gripes People Have Against "The Boss"

By S. R. Redford

"There are two secretaries in our office. When introductions are made, my boss always says about the other girl, 'Meet my beautiful secretary.' Then he turns to me and says, 'And this is my other secretary.'"

H. Armstrong Roberts

"Send Us Your Complaints About Your Boss!" we said in a "Jobmanship" column last year—and that's about all the prodding it took. You name it, we got a complaint about it. Many of the complaints sounded wistful. The feeling they projected was, "My boss is really nice. If he/she knew this problem bothered me, I think my boss might try to do something about it." Other gripes were from people who felt their superiors were unreasonable. "Just print this problem and a group of us will tack it on the bulletin board."

Here, based on what you've told us, are the ten commonest gripes people have about their bosses. When you read them, keep in mind what a member of the American Management Association says: "Real or imaginary, a serious complaint has to be dealt with. As long as the person thinks a problem exists, his behavior will reflect that problem, and it therefore does exist."

First, and far in the lead as the Number One boss gripe:

This is a puzzling situation. For years, we Americans have been deluged with newspaper, magazine, book and TV advice about everyone's basic need to be appreciated as an individual. In addition, business publications have endlessly discussed the fact that people work not only for money but also for "recognition," appreciation and a sense of achievement.

Traced to their beginnings, some cases of wounded feelings probably have unintentional origins. A boss may sometimes forget to say, "Good morning," only because he's preoccupied, not because he intends to slight the person. "It works both ways," warns the AMA expert. "Subordinates can lacerate the boss's feelings by expecting superhuman qualities from those above them and are angered when their superiors turn out to be human beings with human reactions and needs."

Yet, after allowing for the human factor, our mail makes it plain that many people wish supervisors would check their good image of themselves against their real, everyday actions. Over and over in our letters: "The boss considers subordinates to be objects—much the same as a typewriter or copying machine. He uses us, his 'objects,' to further his own ends." Or from a restaurant worker, "Sometimes he really makes me feel about an inch high." Or, "I am a nurse, but my supervisor makes me feel like a robot." Or, "Each of my three bosses treats his subordinates like dogs, with a sadistic contempt for their capabilities. You just don't treat human nature that way."

The top prize for how to humiliate someone through human-relations carelessness: "I really like my boss, but there are two secretaries in our office. When introductions are made, my boss always says about the other girl, 'Meet my beautiful secretary.' Then he turns to me and says, 'And this is my other secretary.' I realize I haven't been endowed with great beauty, but...."

2 "If he only knew it, we'd do anything for a compliment, for a pat on the head (or the back) occasionally.... The payoff is not just in the paycheck."

It's impossible to discuss the yearning for kind words in phrases better than those our correspondents used. "Not one word of credit does he give the help that put him where he is." "He will not comment on the 99 percent of the project that was accomplished well; only comment on the one percent of the job that wasn't up to his standards." "My boss will agree with someone else who mentions that I'm efficient, but he won't ever tell me!" "I realize workers should always strive to do a good job; after all, that's what they're being paid for. But a boss could just throw out a few encouraging words once in a while." "I've done extra work, such as fixing new tax lists when taxes changed, doing this at home at night. I never even get thanked for it."

While some bosses are certainly guilty of uneven behavior toward people, especially where family is involved ("We need a good hot article on nepotism," declared one outraged correspondent), some "favoritism" may be in the eye of the beholder. Before winding yourself into a fury over the boss's pets, ask yourself if the "favorite" really is more reliable and efficient than you. What is your attitude toward your work, your boss, your company? If you were the boss, which of you would you prefer as a subordinate?

Still, stark cases of favoritism, such as "The boss let him have an extra week's vacation when he turned us all down.... There's revolution brewing here," prove how essential it is for a supervisor to monitor himself carefully.

Many letters said something like, "My boss is nice, but we never know what to do. He says one thing one day, contradicts himself the next." "My boss puts things off. Then on Fridays it's rush, rush. Sorta hard to swallow when work's been slow till Friday."

No single explanation can cover every disorganized boss. Sometimes the top person's strength is in creative ability, technical knowledge or sales, not in organizational management. Other times bosses may be avoiding aspects of their jobs that they dislike, that they find tedious or that they find difficult. And very frequently what appears to be disorganization or contradiction are the daily changes of the work world that pressure a manager to alter priorities, methods and deadlines if objectives are to be reached.

Constantly, this same deep disappointment was voiced. "I've worked at the medical center for two years, making all the salads for 168 patients, and have had to beg for every raise I got. I now earn $2 an hour. I figure if I'm doing two people's jobs, I should get paid more.... I was going to quit, but my boss said I'd get a raise and a new position as assistant supervisor. Well, I didn't, and now they put a new girl over me. I have been there in snow and other hard times when they couldn't depend on anyone else. I am never late and I can do any job there, including cook. It seems like I have worked hard for nothing and they sure don't appreciate it." "I had no idea places like this mill still existed. I make $2.13 an hour. People who have been here about 30 years make about $2.50 and get no sick or retirement pay."

In a recent article in the influential

By Mike Senkiw Agronomist

Every year I see people pour more and more money into their lawns. They dig, fertilize and lime. They rake it all in. They scatter their seed and roll and water it.

Birds love it! Seeds which aren't washed away by rain give them a feast. But some seed grows, and soon it's time to weed, water and mow, mow . . . until summer comes to burn the lawn into hay, or crabgrass and diseases infest it.

That's what happens to ordinary grass, but not to Zoysia.

"MOWED IT 2 TIMES," WRITES WOMAN

For example, Mrs. M. R. Mitter writes me how her lawn ". . . is the envy of all who see it. When everybody's lawns around here are brown from drought ours just stays as green as ever. I've never watered it, only when I put the plugs in . . . Last summer we had it mowed (2) times. Another thing we never have to pull any weeds—it's just wonderful!"

And from Iowa came word that the state's largest Men's Garden Club picked a Zoysia lawn as the "top lawn – nearly perfect" in its area. Yet this lawn had been watered only once all summer up to August!

These represent but 2 of thousands of happy Zoysia owners. Their experiences show that you, too, can have a lawn that stays green and beautiful thru blistering heat, water bans—even drought!

Cuts Your Work, Saves You Money

Your deep-rooted, established Amazoy lawn saves you time and money in many ways. It never needs replacement . . . ends re-seeding forever. Fertilizing and watering (water costs money, too) are rarely if ever needed. It ends the need for crabgrass killers permanently. It cuts pushing a noisy mower in the blistering sun by 2/3.

CHOKES OUT CRABGRASS

Thick rich, luxurious Amazoy grows into a carpet of grass that chokes out crabgrass and weeds all summer long. It will NOT winter kill. Goes off its green color after killing frost, regains fresh new beauty every Spring—a true perennial!

For Slopes, Play Areas, Bare Spots

If slopes are a problem, just plug in Amazoy. When established, it will end erosion—also plug it into hard-to-cover spots, play-worn areas, etc.

YOUR OWN SUPPLY OF PLUG TRANSPLANTS

Your established turf provides you with Zoysia plugs for other areas as you may desire.

WEAR RESISTANT

Your Amazoy lawn takes such wear as cook-outs, lawn parties, lawn furniture, etc. Grows so thick you could play football on it and not get your feet muddy. Even if children play on it, they won't hurt it—or themselves.

NO SEED, NO SOD!

Do not mistake Amazoy pre-cut plugs for sod or seed of any type of grass. There's no seed that produces winter-hardy Meyer Zoysia. Sod of ordinary grass carries with it the same problems as seed—such as weed, diseases, frequent mowing, burning out, etc.

Order now for Bonus Plugs and earliest delivery at planting time in your area. Orders are shipped the same day taken from soil, shipping charge collect via most economical means.

NO NEED TO RIP OUT PRESENT GRASS

Now's the time to order your Zoysia plugs—to get started on a lawn that will choke out crabgrass and weeds all summer long and year after year.

Plug it into an entire lawn or limited "problem areas". Plug it into poor soil, "builder's soil", clay or sandy soils—even salty, beach areas, and I guarantee it to grow!

PLUG AMAZOY INTO OLD LAWN, NEW GROUND OR NURSERY AREA

When planted in existing lawn areas plugs will spread to drive out old, unwanted growth, including weeds. Easy planting instructions with order.

FREE PATENTED STEP ON PLUGGER. SENT FREE WITH LARGER ORDERS – 600 PLUGS OR MORE.

A growth-producing 2-way plugger that saves bending, time, work. Cuts away competing growth at same time it digs holes for plugs. Invaluable for transplanting. Rugged yet so light a woman can use it.

Every Plug Guaranteed to Grow In your Soil In your Area

- WON'T WINTER KILL—has survived temperatures 30° below zero!
- WON'T HEAT KILL—When other grasses burn out, Amazoy stays green and lovely!

Every plug must grow within 45 days or we replace it free. Since we're hardly in business for the fun of it—you know we have to be sure of our product.

Boss Gripes

Continued

business publication "Wharton Quarterly," Dr. David Sirota points out that supervisors often deal with people in too simplistic a fashion, ascribing all worker behavior to a single goal. While some managers overlook human-relations needs, others mistakenly decide that good human relations is all they need offer. Our letters prove that the manager who relies too strongly on job enrichment and human relations while stinting on wages is laying up the deepest kind of anti-boss hostility.

"My boss is sneaky . . . stands at the foot of stairs and eavesdrops . . . listens to our phone conversations." "Tells deliberate lies." "Smells as if his deodorant isn't working." "He is always snooping into my personal life and it is none of his business."

As people hunger for praise, so they are willing to accept blame only if it is merited and the discussion done tactfully. "And when he reprimands, it's never done behind closed doors, but at business hours in front of a houseful of customers or wherever he finds you. . . . Sometimes it's done over the loudspeaker, which is all the lovelier."

8 "Boss does not allow for employee having ideas or a brain."

This seems to indicate that the boss has an insufficient knowledge of how to motivate people. "Tells me each and every duty to perform, even after five years. . . . I usually answer, 'It's already been done.'" And from a woman whose male boss is younger than she is, "Any sign of initiative seems to terrify him."

From exasperated workers everywhere, "Always acts as if you're not doing anything no matter how much you produce."

And from the entire United States a chorus of, "Will never admit he is wrong about anything." (This gripe raises the question: If the boss did admit an error, how would his people treat him? Would they gossip, joke and remind him of it ever after?)

"A girl in our office who returned after a meager three-week maternity leave with no pay lost her seniority. But a man in the office who was off work for four weeks with back trouble didn't lose a bit of seniority and he drew full pay those four weeks." "It's been made clear to me. No chance for promotion around here just because I'm a woman." And from older Americans, "Most employers won't hire you if you're in your 50's or 60's unless they need a low-paid sweeper or janitor."

The many people voicing this gripe may be in both the best and worst positions of all boss gripers. The best position because laws and recent court decisions awarding more than $100 million in equal-pay and equal-opportunity damages to women have created a business climate in which companies are at last beginning to adopt fairer hiring, pay and promotion policies toward women. Yet they may also be in the worst of positions because discrimination against older workers, though illegal, is often harder to prove in court.

"My boss has a dirty mind and enjoys saying things that are ambiguous," says one woman. From another, "Oh, the language he uses on the phone when someone crosses him!" And, "We all wish he'd keep the tales of his sex life out of business hours."

Though it's true that during the last decade some people have altered their standards of what constitutes appropriate language and subject matter in a business setting, not everyone has adopted the new ideas. A wise boss needs to keep that in mind.

Why do people stay on their jobs when their bosses have such a long and so serious a list of failings? Those who can leave often do so. "I'm quitting," many reported. Others, trapped by age, a slack job market in their skill or seniority rights they need to protect, sigh and hang on.

One other comment was laced regularly through the gripe mail. "Thanks for the chance to sound off. Knowing I'm not alone and that others have boss gripes makes me feel better already."

In the months ahead we'll discuss other aspects of boss gripes in our "Jobmanship" column, and we'll offer insights and ideas that may help ease the problems.

More Amazing Than Acupuncture?

© 1975

By Stuart Nolan

Today, hundreds of work-saving devices save Americans a lot of elbow grease and give us all more leisure time. On the other hand, our bodies are suffering for it!

Think about the exercise most Americans get. A short walk to the garage where the automobile takes over with its power steering and brakes to do all the work. Even automatic garage door openers swing up the garage door with just a touch of a finger. Yard work is yard play today with riding mowers, electric clippers and edgers.

And certainly, the American housewife isn't getting the exercise she did in grandma's day. Automatic dishwashers, self-defrosting refrigerators, electric can openers, mixers and ovens that clean themselves have cut the kitchen work by at least 80%. Why even the walk to the backyard garbage can is eliminated by disposals and incinerators.

Statistics show that 80% of Americans are overweight. And did you know that more than 165,000 Americans die from heart disease each year? Or, that the United States is ranked 18th in the world for life expectancy of men and 11th for women?

Our health is our most precious possession, but our richness is robbing us of it. While pollution is a problem, when are we going to begin doing something about the wasting of our bodies?

If you're an average American, your weight has probably been a personal problem to you. You've tried various diets and perhaps lost a few pounds only to gain them back again. And if you're like most people, you don't stay with an exercise program long enough for it to do any good. Why? Because most exercises are strenuous and time-consuming and Americans have little time.

What's the answer? Is it to give up your air-conditioned car and walk to work? Get out the old scrub board and sell the washer? Live on salads and black coffee? No! Believe it or not, you can be fit and trim without working for it or giving up the good things in life. Have your cake and eat it too.

Strangely enough the answer to the problem isn't new. It is over 1300 years old. The Taoist monks of ancient China had a worse problem than we do. They were very intelligent men who sat and meditated continuously without hardly moving at all.

Although the meditation helped improve their minds, they realized that their bodies were suffering for it. As a result these thinking men developed a series of movements that exercised every muscle of their entire body in just a few minutes without strain. These exercises were called Tai Chi. The Monks developed Tai Chi by studying and imitating the slow, natural movements of wild animals.

The ancients also found that while Tai Chi strengthened and revitalized the body, it helped the mind to function with more awareness. They were amazed at the healing power of Tai Chi.

Only the holy men of China knew of Tai Chi for hundreds of years. Their secret has just recently been discovered by Americans and its popularity is spreading because Tai Chi works!

Many doctors and physical educators are recommending Tai Chi as an exercise gentle and easy enough even for those in ill health. It can be performed at home, in the office, or even in a space as small as a hallway. Tai Chi requires no special equipment and your exercise will be over before you have built up a sweat or begun to huff and puff. Tai Chi is seen as a great benefit for weight control and improving general health and has been endorsed in many popular magazines such as Vogue, Cosmopolitan, Newsweek and Harper's Bazaar.

* Tai Chi strengthens lower back muscles, making you almost invulnerable to backaches.
* Tai Chi stimulates and increases blood circulation, giving you new vitality and lowering your blood pressure.
* Tai Chi gives you wonderful tranquility and peace-of-mind. You'll relax and sleep better at night.
* Tai Chi will stimulate your senses and greatly improve your love life.
* Tai Chi strengthens the muscles of your heart without straining them. It can be the ideal exercise for many heart patients. (Check with your doctor.)
* Tai Chi sharpens your mind and helps you to function with more awareness, clarity and concentration.
* Tai Chi relaxes the nervous system to give you a better disposition and control of your temper.
* Finally, Tai Chi increases breathing capacity and supplies more oxygen to your blood supply and body tissues. (It takes oxygen for the fat-burning process.)

If you are serious about becoming physically fit and losing weight, remember this. Tai Chi has been recommended by hundreds of health authorities. It has worked for thousands of people for more than a thousand years. It will work for you.

The Consumer Publishing Company of Canton, Ohio has commissioned a master instructor in the art of Tai Chi to write a complete course in Tai Chi. The course contains numerous photo illustrations and is presented in a hard cover book. For a limited time, you can obtain this masterpiece of health secrets at a $6.95 introductory price.

And, Consumer Publishing Company offers this unusual guarantee. After you receive your Tai Chi course, show it to your family doctor and get his opinion. If he doesn't feel that it's everything we've told you it is, Consumer Publishing Company will send your money back to you. It's that simple.

To get your Tai Chi course, just write your name and address on a slip of paper with the word "Tai Chi" at the top. Send it along with $6.95 to Consumer Publishing Company, Dept. 10, 4965 West Tusc., Canton, Ohio 44708. Again, if you or your family doctor aren't completely satisfied with the course for any reason, simply return the book and your money will be immediately refunded.

Smart Cooking For Tired Cooks

Thrifty Beef Brisket With a Delicious Glaze

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen cooks a delicious Apricot Glazed Brisket. "The beauty of this recipe," says Marilyn, "is that you don't have to worry about timing and oven temperature—and the glaze needs no cooking at all!"

MARILYN'S MENU

Apricot Glazed Brisket*
Mashed Yellow Turnips
Country Fries
Sliced Beet and Onion Salad
Coffee Tea Milk

*Recipe given

APRICOT GLAZED BRISKET

- 1 fresh boneless beef brisket (3½ lbs.)
- 1 medium onion stuck with 2 cloves
- 1 clove garlic, halved
- 1 bay leaf
- 2 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons salt
- Water
- 2 jars (7¾-oz. size) junior apricots
- ¼ cup vegetable oil
- 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 1 tablespoon ketchup
- 4 teaspoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon ground allspice

1. Place brisket, onion stuck with cloves, garlic, bay leaf, 2 tablespoons salt and enough water to cover in 6-qt. Dutch oven or saucepan. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat to low; cover and simmer 2½-3 hours, or until brisket is fork-tender. Remove brisket; cover and refrigerate. (Discard broth or save for soup-making.)
2. Stir together apricots, vegetable oil, vinegar, ketchup, sugar, allspice and 2 teaspoons salt.
3. Place brisket on rack in broiler pan. Broil 20-30 minutes, 6 inches from heating element, until hot, turning occasionally. During last 10 minutes baste brisket frequently with apricot mixture. (If cooking and serving the same day, broil only 8-10 minutes, brushing with apricot glaze.) Heat remaining mixture to serve with meat. Makes 6-8 servings

Strained foods give your baby the opportunity to experience a variety of new textures and tastes.

When your baby is ready to start on solids, use the simple foods made from a single fruit, grain, vegetable or meat. Happily, Gerber offers a wide selection, so you can gradually add new strained foods to balance your baby's diet and help him develop his tastes.

Introducing your baby to solid foods takes a little patience and loving. And with Gerber to help, you know your baby is getting a good, solid start on good nutrition.

You can't be turned down for this Insurance if you're 50 to 80!

Here is a life insurance policy that can be yours for the asking if you inquire before March 31, 1975. No ifs, ands, or buts! Not only is no physical examination required, but the policy is actually issued to you without a single health question!

PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS* . . . is an individual life insurance policy that guarantees to accept every man and woman between 50 and 80 who applies during the Guaranteed Acceptance Period regardless of any other insurance carried.

This protection is recommended to their members by two of America's highly respected national nonprofit organizations for the mature: the National Retired Teachers Association (NRTA) and the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP). This policy is underwritten by Colonial Penn Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, specialists in serving the specific needs of America's older population.

A Protection Breakthrough for Every Older Person!

PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS is a distinctive concept of life insurance, achieved as a result of the years of effort Colonial Penn has devoted to meeting the insurance needs of mature people.

The goal was a life insurance policy we could make available to all mature people—even those who ordinarily wouldn't qualify for life insurance. A policy whose cost would be reasonable and whose benefits would be worthwhile. With PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS the Colonial Penn Life Insurance Company has succeeded.

Here's how it works: During the first two years that your policy is in effect, your coverage is reduced. If you should die during the first policy year, the benefit paid to your beneficiary is $100 for each unit of PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS you have purchased. If death occurs during the second policy year, your beneficiary receives $250 for each unit of PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS purchased. Once two years have passed, you are covered for the full face amount of the policy.

PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS enables the older person to obtain worthwhile benefits for his insurance dollar—and, at the same time, guarantees acceptance for all applicants.

The cost? Just $6.95 A MONTH FOR ONE UNIT— $12.90 A MONTH FOR TWO UNITS!

No matter what your age, your sex, or the condition of your health, you pay just $6.95 a month for one unit or $12.90 a month for two units. The amount of coverage you receive is based on your sex and age. However, once you are insured the amount of your insurance will never go down, and your payments will never go up!

Act Now—You Have Nothing to Lose!

To obtain full information on PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS in time to take advantage of this opportunity to become insured, please mail the coupon before March 31, 1975. Between future guaranteed acceptance periods, you may be required to answer several important health questions and meet the company's underwriting standards to obtain this protection.

With PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS insurance...

- Everyone between 50 and 80 can get this life insurance —no one will be refused!
- You receive a policy created for the needs of mature persons!
- There are no health questions!
- There is no physical examination!
- Your insurance cannot be cancelled for any reason as long as you maintain your premium payments.
- You know that this policy has been recommended to their members by both the National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons!

REMEMBER—To take advantage of this guaranteed opportunity to obtain PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS without answering any questions about your health, please mail the coupon before March 31, 1975. Full information and your guaranteed issue application will be on their way to you at once by mail.

No broker or agent will visit you, and you will be under no obligation to purchase the policy.

Even if you are not old enough for this insurance, you may want the information for another member of your family or for a friend.

A Celebrity Cooks

Mike Connors:
I Don't Know About Joe Mannix, But Here's What I Like!

I'm a homebody. I enjoy just being with my wife and children. I do my thing cooking outdoors over the barbecue. Steaks and shish kebabs are my two mainstays. I'm a lamb lover and always get a lot of compliments on my shish kebabs. For best results, I use young lamb, cut from the leg. Just throw the cubes of lamb into a good marinade and marinate a few hours; then skewer the lamb and throw it on the grill.

I have to diet constantly, but I still hanker for the Armenian food my mother fixed when I was a child: kofta (meatballs made with herbs and rice), stuffed grape leaves, cheese berag (cheese and parsley baked in layers) and pilaf.

My wife Mary is a great cook. She specializes in make-ahead dishes that we live on when we're at our retreat on Lake Arrowhead. Our son Gunnar is a big salad fiend. He chops up everything he can find. Dana, our daughter, is the best pizza baker around.

But I guess our two biggest family favorites are stroganoff and carmel flan. My wife claims she gets many of her best recipes from her sister, Jean Phillips. Like most good cooks, Mary and Jean improvise recipes, changing or adding whatever it takes to make their food come out tasting great!

By Mike Connors,
In conversation with Helen Dorsey

CARAMEL FLAN

3 egg whites
6 egg yolks
2 cans (13-oz. size) evaporated milk
2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
6 tablespoons brandy or rum, optional

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Pour 1 cup sugar in greased flan or baking pan. Place in oven until sugar melts and turns golden. Tip pan to coat sides. Let cool.
2. Meanwhile, make custard by beating together egg whites and egg yolks. Add milk, remaining sugar and vanilla. Beat until sugar is dissolved.
3. Pour custard into flan pan. Place pan in larger pan containing 1 inch hot water. Bake for 1 hour, or until firm. Chill well before serving. If desired, heat brandy, pour over flan, ignite.

Makes 8-10 servings

BEEF STROGANOFF

2 lbs. lean boneless beef sirloin or top round, cut into very thin strips
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
1 tablespoon arrowroot or 2 tablespoons flour
4 tablespoons butter
1 small onion, peeled and finely minced
1 can (14 ozs.) chicken broth
¼ cup dry white wine
¼ teaspoon spice Parisian, optional
1 cup sour cream
2 tablespoons sherry
Hot cooked rice

1. Place meat on sheet of aluminum foil. Combine salt, pepper, garlic powder and arrowroot. Dredge meat in mixture.
2. Melt butter in large skillet; brown meat quickly. Add onion.
3. Pour in chicken broth and white wine; cook, stirring, until sauce thickens.
4. Add spice Parisian. Cover; simmer slowly about 1 hour, or until meat is tender. Stir occasionally.
5. Just before serving, stir in sour cream and sherry. Heat through but do not boil or sauce will curdle. Serve at once over hot cooked rice. Makes 5-6 servings

"Dear Mr. President..." The Funny Letters Americans Send to the White House

By Juliet Lowell,
Author of "Dear Sir"

Wide World

In good times or bad, one thing the President can always count on is mail. Juliet Lowell, America's leading collector of funny letters, has culled the White House mailbags. Here are some of the prizes she found.

Mr. President Gerald Ford
Wash. D. C.

Dear Sir;

Is it easier to become President if you're a Senator, a Governor or a Business Man?

I don't think it's a good idea to try it your way because it most likely won't ever happen that way again.

Frank L

Honorable President Ford
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President

Laura and I are getting married next month and we shall be honeymooning in Washington.

We are planning to make a call at the White House and meet you and Mrs. Ford. Can you mention any other pleasant ways to kill time while on our honeymoon?

Edgar N

President Gerald Ford
The White House

Having the same name, I think you will make the Ford Stock more valuable.

I have no contacts on Wall Street so I was wondering if you could arrange to get me 50 shares?

Anna B

President Ford

Are there Rapids in Grand Rapids and can you go down them in a canoe?

Joseph H

Mr. Gerald Ford President
Washington

Dear Mr. Ford President

You mentioned in your acceptance speech that you are not a Model T Ford.

What kind of a Ford are you anyway?

Henry L

The White House

Dear Mr. President

I know that we are all in this together, not to be wasteful anymore.

Now I've noticed that everybody throws away the last inch of a cigarette without smoking it, so why don't you have Congress pass a law to make cigarettes without that last inch?

Connie S

President Gerald Ford
White House

Dear Mr. Ford

Do you think it would help the cause of World Peace if we did away with our song "My Country 'tis of Thee," and substituted an International Song called "Our Countries 'tis of These"?

Clarabelle U

Attention President

While visiting Washington last week, I fell because of a hole in the sidewalk. Now there's a big bump on my knee. I am thinking of suing the U. S. government for a lump sum....

Ms Miriam D

Dear Pres and Vice

I like my Country since your in high spots.

Sandra D

"Dear Pres and Vice I like my Country since your in high spots."

President Ford

Dear President Ford;

You will need protection when you ski and I'm a very good skier. I would like to apply for the job as Secret Service Skier.

Stephen R

President Gerald Ford
The White House

Dear Mr. President;

I've seen you on T V so many times that I feel I know you.

Now I'd like you to get to know me. Can you suggest a best way to do it?

Hilda Van B

President Gerald Ford
Washington

Dear President Ford

My name is Gerald and I'm President of our baseball team. Please write and tell me what things a good President shouldn't be caught doing.

Gerald V

Dearest President

We want my Daddy home for Xmas. Please let him out of jail. I have asked God, Wrote to Santa Claus and now I've got around to you.

Henry S

President Ford
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. President;

My friend died without paying his income tax. Is this illegal?

Jeanne U

President, The White House

Dear Sir;

Please dont do anything about my wife's letter complaining about all this inflation. It's the first time in 14 years she's found something to complain about besides me.

Philip W

The Honorable President of These United States:

I know you are interested in helping all industry and business to be honest, so I thought I should let you know that a great deal of corruption is going on in ladies' undergarments. Here too the mob is working its way up.

Sam O

President Gerald Ford
White House

Dear Mr. President.

Could you please let me know when next you plan to be in New York? I live on the West Side and I often do business on the East Side. If I follow your police escort, I can get across town without spending a whole day in the endeavor.

My husband called my thighs 'saddle bags' before I lost 47 pounds.

By Mary Young —
as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

If I'd taken off those dark glasses, maybe I'd have seen my bulging thighs more clearly and done something to reduce them before reaching 157 pounds.

AT 157 pounds, with five children to raise and a farm garden to tend, I had plenty of exercise. But it didn't reduce the size of my thighs or backside. But then, I'm only five feet tall and a few extra pounds on me always looked like a lot more. Not only that, when I wore a girdle under my slacks, it pushed all the flab into my upper legs and made Monte, my husband, call them "saddle bags."

It's not that I didn't try repeatedly to lose weight. But one of my biggest hindrances was the scheduling of family meals in the course of a day. And it was always a long day. You see, Monte, who's a bricklayer, has to get up at 5:00 a.m. That's when my eating started. My time table actually went like this:

7:00 a.m. — Breakfast again with 2 younger children.
10:00 a.m. — Coffee plus with neighbor.
11:30 a.m. — Early lunch for two older kids (they're in afternoon session).
2:30 p.m. — After school snack for younger kids and me.
5:30 p.m. — Hungry Monte returns.
6:00 p.m. — Supper for everybody.
10:00 p.m. — Television snacking.

There was nothing but meals, meals, meals from morning to night.

I can't tell you how many times Monte begged me to lose weight. Once, he even tore up a pair of my good slacks and threw them in the garbage pail. "If you've got to be big," he said, "be big. But stop wearing the same thing day after day." Unfortunately, I had no choice, because nothing else would fit.

Right after that, I got a group of neighbor ladies together to talk about the problem of losing weight. We decided we'd meet once a week, weigh ourselves, and encourage one another in dieting. We also chose a Queen and a Pig, depending on who lost the most and who the least. One of the members even made a Pig bib. It had a decal of a pig eating all the wrong foods. On the other hand, whoever wound up Queen got a 20¢ gift from every other member. Once I was Queen. But more than once, I had to take home the Pig bib. Finally, I gave up going to the meetings, because "talking" about losing weight just didn't work for me.

Here I am at 110 pounds — trim enough now to have a smooth line in slacks. As my husband would say: I've finally unpacked my "saddle bags."

Still, I didn't believe in artificial ways of reducing—like drugs. In fact, I always believed in eating only wholesome, natural foods.

Well, I'd read about those reducing-plan candies called Ayds®, and when I saw they contained vitamins and minerals, but no drugs, I decided to give them a try. In fact, one of my neighbors had a box of the chocolate mint kind and they were so good, I bought some vanilla caramel Ayds and we shared them.

As for Monte's reaction to my taking Ayds, he'd seen me diet and fail so many times, he didn't have much hope. He just said: "If you're going to lose weight, you need willpower which has to come from you." He's right, but I needed help. And Ayds helped me strengthen my willpower like nothing ever did before.

I started on the Ayds plan by taking one or two of those candies before each meal and they really helped control my appetite. I ate, but I ate less. For instance, on the Ayds plan, I had only one breakfast. Half a grapefruit, egg, toast and coffee. Mid-morning, I'd have two Ayds and coffee. Then for lunch, Ayds and coffee again before a salad or cheese or tuna fish on toast. And at dinnertime, I'd have two more Ayds with tea, then meat, a vegetable or two, and fruit. And finally watching the late news on TV, I'd have my last Ayds for the day.

One great thing I found about Ayds was that I could carry them in my purse. When I went to socials, I'd have coffee and a 26-calorie Ayds, instead of loading up on a 300-calorie slice of pie or cake. I have to admit that it wasn't easy to turn down the beautiful desserts my friends made. Some even felt insulted. But when they understood why I was saying no, they stopped forcing me to eat and now are delighted for me and my new shape.

Why, this past summer I actually took my children swimming and for the first time in 14 years, I wore a bathing suit instead of cut-off jeans. Monte said he'd never seen me so tan. Fact is, I'd never shown so much skin before.

Another thing, Monte had never seen me on the scale. So when I got to 110 pounds on the Ayds plan, I let him look. He was so proud, he bought me a closet full of new clothes.

Before closing, there's one more thing I'd like to say, which comes from my own experience. Fat people think they really don't look as fat as they are. Maybe because so many of them don't have a full-length mirror. Besides which, they never see themselves from the rear.

But believe me, now that I've discovered the Ayds plan, I don't plan to fill my "saddle bags" ever again. It's so much easier to go places and do things without them.

Sports Mini-Profile

RICK BARRY:
He's Finally Making His Critics Eat Their Words

Rick Barry, 6-7, the blond Adonis of basketball, has proved that he is a champion no matter what city, team or league he plays for. Barry's dazzling scoring record has transformed the Golden State Warriors from an also-ran to one of the outstanding teams in the NBA. Gone is Barry's old image of an opportunist who had no loyalty to his teammates or to the franchise that paid his freight. . . . His reputation as a greedy gypsy in short pants had its origin seven years ago when he left the Warriors after two brilliant seasons to become the first big-name basketball star to jump leagues. During ensuing seasons, he played in four different cities, and his legal battles as he switched clubs got him as much attention as his scoring feats. "That reputation is unfair and it really bothers me," he says. "I've never played one league against another and never broken a contract. I went over to the Oakland team in the ABA only because my father-in-law, who was my former coach, was the general manager of that team and wanted me there. I would never have gone otherwise. I had no intention of setting any precedent as a jumper." . . . Barry admits that one reason for his new success is that he no longer wastes his energy in emotional battles with referees. "I've changed mentally, as well as physically—grown up more, you might say." Also he and his wife Pam have resolved the problems that caused them to separate briefly in the past. "I'm enjoying my whole life, as well as basketball, these days," Rick tells you. The Barry clan includes four sons and an adopted daughter.—By Barry Abramson

People and You

Why Some May Miss Out on Affection and Friendship

Even though you feel you're an affectionate person, are you struggling with a marriage in which there's very little display of affection, and you and your mate usually go your own ways? Perhaps you have a similar problem outside your home—difficulty in making friends and in getting people to accept you into their groups. If so, you may find some help in four personality questions designed by psychologists to measure how an individual usually relates to others. Which of these two statements about affection matches your own feelings? 1) I make efforts to become close to people. I express friendly and affectionate feelings and try to be personal and intimate. 2) I want others to express friendly and affectionate feelings toward me and try to become close to me. If both you and your mate chose Number 2, you have a situation in which both of you long for affection but neither is temperamentally accustomed to initiating it. That leaves you both coolly waiting for the other to create the warmth. Concerning friendships, which of these two attitudes best reflects your general feelings? 1) I make an effort to include other people in my activities. 2) I want other people to include me in their activities. If you chose 2 over 1, friendship difficulties may be caused not by your personality, but by a passive outlook of waiting for the world to come to you.

The Doctor Lets You In

Can Vitamins Cure Schizophrenia?

Mega comes from the Greek word megas, which means large or huge. Mega vitamin means therapy with vitamins in huge doses. As developed by the famed Drs. Humphry Osmond and Abram Hoffer of Canada (Dr. Osmond is now in the U.S.), megavitamin therapy is being used in the treatment of schizophrenia. . . . Specifically, what these doctors did was to give large doses (about three to six grams daily) of niacin or niacinamide to mental patients suffering from this disease. The results, they claim, have been dramatic—an opinion shared by many families trying to cope with a schizophrenic. More recently, large doses of vitamin C have been added to the megavitamin therapy. . . . The treatment is strongly controversial. While proponents report brilliant results in enabling schizophrenic patients to return to the mainstream of life, there are many doctors who claim that they do not get such results. Where is the public left in all this? Perhaps it is wise to remember that the common enemy here is schizophrenia, not a group of researchers. Since the treatment is probably relatively safe, it should be given broader use to determine just how useful it really is. In the meantime, desperate sufferers and their families should keep two things in mind. One, the treatment should only be administered by a physician who has experience with it. And, two, be especially careful of charlatans and price gougers in this field who are more interested in your money than in your welfare.

B.B. King: My Ten Favorite Records

Born on a Mississippi plantation, B. B. was a tenth-grade dropout. He sang in church choirs as a child, and started playing the guitar at nine. In 1949, his record hit "Three O'Clock Blues" launched his career. In 1968, while touring with the Rolling Stones, he was rediscovered by rock-oriented audiences. King lectures on the blues at colleges, including Yale, and has toured Europe and Africa as a music ambassador for the State Department.

BELLS, BELLS, BELLS

So also has our back,
And then there is our phone bell—
Of bells we have no lack.

That tinkle is the back door's
Or maybe it's the front's,
Or it's all three at once.

A ring? We're up and running.
Front door and back and phone.

JOHNNY RODRIGUEZ
Fear of flying

"Fear of Flying" is not only the name of a highly successful novel, it's also a condition suffered by millions of Americans. Johnny Rodriguez, the new country-music sensation, admits that he has this fear. "I'm paranoid about two things: flying and bombing out at a concert. So, I stay out of planes and try to make sure I'm on my toes for every performance." How does he travel all over the country for engagements? Johnny recently solved his transportation problems by purchasing a huge $115,000 custom-made bus, complete with two color TV's, built-in stereo, a bar and private bedroom. Is there some other way to travel?

HENRY KISSINGER
Word on his words

QUOTE: "There are few reputations for eloquence in Washington. Henry Kissinger has one, more or less deserved. His speech is organized, which is to say that it comes out in phrases, sentences and paragraphs, all apparently premeditated. The argument proceeds in an orderly and logical way. Occasionally he is even humorous. Such is the astonishment brought on by a man for whom there is a connection between thought and speech that the reaction is out of proportion. We are told that Henry Kissinger is 'majestic,' that he has offered 'an intellectual tour de force,' that he was 'at his magisterial best,' and so on. In fact—and this is not to belittle Kissinger, who, after all, is not responsible for others – in fact, Kissinger stands out because of a lack of competition, because the level of most of those around him is so low. It does not take much to be thought eloquent in Washington." From "Strictly Speaking," by Edwin Newman (Bobbs-Merrill, $7.95). UNQUOTE.

Solving the great used-car dilemma: A device is being developed that will help you separate the "lemons" from the "good deals." Vishay Intertechnology of Malvern, Pa., in conjunction with major automobile manufacturers, is working on a device that would "read" a car's actual mileage and overall wear and tear, regardless of what the odometer said, or how good the paint job looked. The key to this system is the "Fatigue Life Gauge" – a thin metal sticker bonded to various components of the car. These stickers stretch and change resistance as loads are applied –and the changes are read on a meter. The implications could be enormous—for instance, auto warranties could be lengthened and insurance rates could be reduced for careful drivers. The Fatigue Life Gauge is already being used by airlines and may be available for cars in the near future.

50 Fast Growing Plants To Make 100 Feet of Formal Hedge

Imagine! a 100 foot Privet Hedge that dresses up your landscape as it protects it . . . for less than 5¢ per foot of hedge! Or, for faster effect and more dense growth, order 100 plants for only $9.45 and plant every 12 inches. Free cultural instructions help develop in shortest time possible. We ship the Ligustrum Species planting stock we think best suits your climate, and of same size stock and fine quality as feature offer above.

*Varieties personally selected by our experts as being suitable for most parts of the U.S. In severely cold climates, check for hardiness. Blooms illustrated are reasonably accurate as to shape of varieties named although they may vary because nature often turns out tints and shapes found nowhere else. While not anticipated, should we sell out one or more nursery grown varieties, we may include instead any equally suitable planting stock, nursery grown or native collected wild of equal or greater beauty. EVERGREENS—in extremely hot Southern Climates check for growth ability. OUR 3 Way Guarantee protects you.
